ASSASSINATION SCARE

Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, left, talks with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing at a chateau near Paris Monday. Soviet security officials warned their French counterparts an hour before Brezhnev's arrival in Paris of a possible attempt on the Soviet president's life by an assassin equipped with a rifle with telescopic sights. Brezhnev is in France for a three-day visit.

FDA takes step to ban use of all over-counter daytime sedatives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration intends to ban all over the counter daytime sedatives, it announced today.

FDA commissioner Donald Kennedy said such products as Cope, Compoz, Miles Nervine, Tranquim and Quiet World would be affected.

The FDA commissioner said he knew of no evidence that daytime sedatives lessen anxiety or otherwise provide sedation other than by causing drowsiness.

Users of these products, he said, run the risk of being drowsy during the day when they may be operating automobiles or dangerous machines and need to be alert.

Dr. Kennedy made the announcement during a hearing on sedatives conducted by a Senate Small Business Monopoly subcommittee.

About $7 million a year is made by drug companies from daytime sedatives.

There are roughly 10 major daytime sedatives. Labeling and advertising for the sedatives may contain such terms as "calmative," for the relief of "simple nervous tension" or "sedative."

Kennedy said that, given the risks of drowsiness "and the absence of any demonstrated medical benefit, there seems to be no justification for the continued marketing of these products."

The first step in removing daytime sedatives from the market will be the publication of a tentative FDA regulation later this year. After that, hearings will be held to gather testimony from the public and industry.

The FDA then plans to publish a final regulation, with a projected time for removing the nonprescription daytime sedatives from the market about mid-1978.

Kennedy said he has asked the National Cancer Institute to review an independent study that the antihistamine, Methapyrilene, which is used in sleep aids and other over the counter products, is linked to cancer.

Methapyrilene is a major ingredient in every sleep aid and daytime sedative on the over the counter market. It is also prominently used in most cough and cold remedies.

Last Tuesday Dr. William Lijimsky of the Frederick Cancer Research Center in Maryland testified before the subcommitee that his study showed that methapyrilene in some instances could be linked to liver cancer in rats.

Lijimsky said that methapyrilene could react with nitrites in the stomach to form a cancer-causing ingredient called dimethylnitrosamine. He said that 30 per cent of the rats fed a combination of methapyrilene and a nitrite got some form of liver cancer.

Nitrites are used in the preparation of bacon and some prepackaged sandwich meats.

Kennedy said that the research on the Lijimsky test should be concluded within two months and the FDA will then make a decision whether to ban dugs which contain methapyrilene.

Home fire fatal to Ontario woman

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

A 62-year-old Ontario woman died in a fire Monday afternoon which heavily damaged her home at 1018 Orchard Lane.

The victim, according to the Ontario Fire Department, was Mrs. Irene Holbrook. Her husband, Gilbert, and her son, Stephen, in his early 20s, were at work when the fire started, firemen said.

A discarded cigarette may have been the cause of the blaze which firemen believe smoldered inside the house from 1½ to 2 hours before it was detected.

Stephen arrived home about 5:30 p.m. to discover the inside of the home consumed in flames, firemen said. His attempts to gain entrance were futile because of the intense heat.

Mrs. Holbrook's body was not found until the fire had been brought under control. Firemen said she had been burned beyond recognition.

The San Bernardino County Coroner's office will perform an autopsy to determine cause of death.

The interior of the home, built about 1948, was all wood and extremely combustible, firemen said.

Loss estimates were $25,000 to the house and $10,000 to contents.

May hike marks 5th straight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher food and fuel prices pushed consumer prices up six-tenths of 1 per cent in May, the fifth consecutive month of big price hikes, the government reported today.

The increase, following April's rise of eight-tenths of 1 per cent, shows inflation is continuing but not accelerating.

Food prices, which have sparked this year's surge of inflation, jumped another seven-tenths of a per cent in May. Although the increase was about half the rise in April, it exceeded the increases posted in every month of 1976 except one — the eight-tenths of 1 per cent gain in May a year ago.

Prices for ground coffee jumped another 10.3 per cent last month, while instant coffee rose 7 per cent, the government said. Wholesale coffee prices declined last month but the drop has not been reflected at the retail level.

Gasoline and motor oil rose eight-tenths of 1 per cent, and new cars were up nine-tenths of 1 per cent.

The average price for a gallon of regular grade gasoline rose 1.1 per cent in May to 62.6 cents per gallon. Premium prices also rose 1.1 per cent and averaged 67.6 cents per gallon.

The May increase in consumer prices, equivalent to an annual rate of 7.2 per cent, is still above the 6 per cent level that administration economists regard as the nation's underlying rate of inflation.

During the first three months of the year, inflation rose at a nearly 10 per cent annual rate, largely because of surging food and energy prices that reflected the effects of the severe winter weather on crops and fuel supplies.

Government economists predict that spiralling food costs will slow down later this year, easing the overall pressure on consumers' pocketbooks.

The Labor Department said its consumer price index for May stood at 180.6 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods priced at $100 10 years ago cost $180.60 last month.

It's 1st day of summer!

At precisely 12:14 p.m. Greenwich Mean Time today, that's 4:14 a.m. locally, the sun reached the Tropic of Cancer at 23 degrees 27 minutes north latitude.

Put more simply — today is the first day of summer.

While the sun is climbing to that high point in the sky today, the weatherman was predicting temperatures would climb to about 85 degrees in the valley after early morning clouds burn off.

Beaches were expected to warm up to 70 and mountain areas to about 80, while the deserts will be sizzling at temperatures up to 108.

Much the same is expected Wednesday following an overnight low of 55 in the valley.

Being the first day of summer, today is also one of the longest days of the year in terms of hours of sunlight. The sun rose locally this morning at 5:40 a.m. and will not set tonight until 8:05 p.m.

Brake handle carried no warning

No charge against boy in fatal train accident

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

No charges have been filed against a 14-year-old boy who authorities say released the brakes on a parked tandem of railroad cars in Pomona, allowing them to roll almost 18 miles to Duarte and crush to death a 16-year-old youth there.

The accident occurred June 3. The boy who was killed was Monte Annet. The 14-year-old suspect, a Pomona boy, was arrested a few days later by sheriff's investigators. He since has been released without charge after the district attorney's office ruled that no conviction could be obtained because the brake handle carried no warning and thus the youth could not have been expected to know the possible consequences of his act.

The two cars, which are designed to transport automobiles, rolled all the way to Duarte, killed the boy who was walking along the tracks, and did not stop until they lost momentum on an uphill grade. When they bore down on young Annet they were traveling almost silently on a quarter-mile section of solidly-welded track.

The two cars reached speeds of up to 30 miles an hour, along the Santa Fe Railroad right-of-way.

Railroad officials said later that they knew electronically when the tandem of cars rolled onto the Santa Fe mainline, but they could do nothing about it. No locomotive was nearby which could have run down the cars and captured them with an automatic coupling device; no brakemen were along the route to switch the cars onto a siding; and no one was near enough to place an automatic derailing device on the track to knock the runaways off the rails.

There apparently is no completely fail-safe method to prevent the accident from occurring again, except to have the thousands of miles of railroad tracks guarded so heavily that trespassers would be caught. That method is impossible because of the cost, a railroad spokesman said.

$3.3 million windfall for Pomona

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Pomona will get a $3.3 million windfall during the next fiscal year as its share of the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), Los Angeles County officials revealed today.

The proposal to allocate $109 million to the county's governmental agencies between now and September 1978 was approved by the county Board of Supervisors today.

It includes a stimulus of $58 million approved by President Carter.

The money is to be used to provide jobs for poverty-level residents.

Supervisor James Hayes said he had been informed that the jobs will be "more than make-work." He said the workers will help in the energy conservation field, such as winterization of public buildings and improvements in the water systems.

Under the newest CETA funding, the effort will be to reach the long-term unemployed and the low-income worker with an emphasis on finding jobs for veterans, the supervisor explained.

Disclosure of Pomona's share was part of an early report. Allocations to smaller cities will be made in the next few days, Clayton Cottrell, director of the Community Development Department, said.

Pomona's allocation was double the amount originally expected. The original estimate had called for a total of $1,212,308. The stimulus program adds another $2,160,323 to that program.

The proposal was given to the supervisors this morning and went through quickly. Cottrell had told the board that to implement the program in time, speedy action was needed.

Hayes said the new funds will allow a 100 per cent increase in the number of employes under CETA.

Pilot killed in crash of plane near golf course

CORONA (AP) — The body of a Santa Ana pilot was to be removed today from the wreckage of his single-engine plane that crashed in rugged terrain on its way to Chino Airport, the coroner's office said.

Richard Donovan DeBrick, 24, crashed in Santa Ana Canyon near Green River golf course Monday. He was alone in the plane, Riverside County sheriff's deputies said.

Coroner's investigators were to remove the body from the twisted wreckage of the Cessna 340 with cutting torches later in the day, authorities said.

Haldeman gets ready for prison

Former Nixon aide begins term Wednesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harry Robbins Haldeman has an appointment with the U.S. government. Five years and five days after the Watergate break-in, he dons prison grays and starts serving time for his part in the Watergate coverup.

"I go to prison on the 22nd," was Haldeman's terse reply when asked to comment recently on his upcoming incarceration. Speaking was the matter-of-fact, self-assured Haldeman of the days when he was President Richard Nixon's top staff man — literally the country's second in command.

Haldeman was convicted on New Year's Day 1975, along with John Ehrlichman and John Mitchell, of conspiracy to obstruct justice, of obstructing justice and of lying under oath. Each was sentenced to 2½-to-8-year terms.

On Wednesday Haldeman begins a 2½-to-8-year sentence at the Lompoc Federal Correctional Facility, a minimum security institution some 200 miles northwest of here.

Mitchell, the former attorney general, reports Wednesday to a federal prison on a military base in Alabama. Ehrlichman began serving his time last year at a federal prison camp in Arizona.

Life at Lompoc will be a stark contrast to Haldeman's current lifestyle.

Haldeman lives well. He has a tidy pension that his 20 years at J. Walter Thompson advertising agency earned him.

A New York Times-owned publishing house, Quadrangle, has bought the book he is writing about Watergate, paying Haldeman an advance which a Quadrangle editor called "a substantial, generous amount, more than we usually pay an author."

Haldeman has bought a $250,000 Tudor-style home in the Hancock Park area, an island of affluence among the tacky Hollywood flats.

In the evenings, he walks his huge African ridgeback dog along the Sycamore-lined street, always ready with warm smiles and friendly words for neighbors. They see him as a maligned hero, an honest, brilliant man blessed with "the most wonderful children in the world" and cursed with malevolent political enemies.

"They re ideal neighbors," says Mrs. John Stevens, wife of an industrial manufacturer. "He's a very normal, decent, kind neighbor with four of the most wonderful kids you ever saw ... His wife Jo is a very fine person. We're very saddened by it. We all think it's very, very unfair. We don't think he did anything to deserve it."

Last Sunday, Haldeman was at UCLA's Royce Hall, watching his daughter Susie graduate from law school. Haldeman, too, attended UCLA, receiving his bachelor's degree in business administration.

Haldeman has also gone back to his religion, Christian Science. For several months, he labored one night a week in the Christian Science Reading Room downtown, explaining the faith to the uninitiated, handing out pamphlets and keeping copies of the Christian Science Monitor in order.

"I figured it wasn't any of my business what his problems were, so I didn't ask him any questions," said a fellow worker, who saw Haldeman as a prodigal son come home.

"He knows what Christian Science can do," she said, "and he knows that if he'd been applying it, he could have avoided the mess he's in."

Child pornography bills

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Tougher laws against child pornography, described as a fastgrowing, multimillion-dollar illicit business, are halfway through the California Legislature.

The Senate Monday, without a dissenting vote, sent two bills to the Assembly aimed at clamping down on pornographers who exploit children in sex films and magazines.

Approved was a bill, SB 740, by Sen. Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa, that would define "obscene nudity" involving minors as any material that depicts a sexual act or draws attention to the genital areas. It would ban such materials effective Jan. 1.

The bill also would make violations a felony, subject to 4-, 5or 6-year prison terms if a minor between 15 and 18 was involved, and 7, 8 or 9 years if a minor 14 or under was involved.

Nursing home 'strike force'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A legislative budget committee has chopped out funding for a Brown administration nursing home "strike force," formed to crack down on abuse of elderly patients.

The strike force, now about 30 lawyers and health professionals, travels the state investigating reports of poor care, unclean conditions and fraud at nursing homes and state mental hospitals.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s Finance Department had asked for more than $1.2 million, to expand the force to 68. An early budget hearing in the Assembly cut the amount to $519,000, for a force of 15 lawyers and eight medical professionals.

The two-house conference committee refused to approve even that amount Monday, voting instead 5-0 to pay for only two attorneys involved in checking state mental hospitals.

Landlord-tenant court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A tenant fighting an eviction notice or a landlord trying to collect four months' back rent will have a special court in which to air their complaints beginning Wednesday.

Municipal Court is setting up a branch to handle only landlord-tenant disputes, Presiding Judge Irwin Nebron said Monday.

"We are convinced that a specialized court will insure more equal justice through allowing the sitting judge to become sensitive to the problems of both landlords and tenants in this technical area of the law," Nebron said.

The judge said that the special court, the first of its kind in the state, is needed both to handle the large number of cases and to develop experience in landlord-tenant disputes.

Marine's charges reduced

CAMP PENDLETON (AP)— The Marine Corps is substantially reducing charges against one of 14 black Marines charged in last November's attack on seven white Marines.

Both prosecutors and defense lawyers said Monday Cpl. Curtis Jones Jr., 22, of Seale Russell, Ala., entered a guilty plea to charges of simple conspiracy and assault.

The reduced charges are expected to cut possible punishment from 21 years to less than six months, the Pendleton Legal Defense said.

Lt. Col. William Draper, trial judge of a general court martial, accepted the guilty plea and said sentencing of Jones would be announced after formal seating of a jury, which will then be told of the pretrial agreement.

$1 million building fire

SUN VALLEY (AP) — A fire that burned out of control for 90 minutes this morning caused an estimated $1 million damage at a large building in the eastern San Fernando Valley.

There were no injuries, according to Ned Chatfield, the Los Angeles Fire department spokesman who provided the damage estimate.

The fire was reported at 3:44 a.m. and was declared under control about 5:15 a.m., Chatfield said.

The building, 150 feet long and 300 feet wide, was reported at leat two-thirds destroyed. It houses "Designs by MJW, Inc."

Mobilehome tenants' rights

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation giving mobilehome tenants new rights faces a probable second vote in the Assembly after winning passage on its first vote.

Foes who said Monday the measure is tantamount to rent control delayed its further progress by moving for reconsideration of the bill, by Assemblyman Terry Goggin, D-San Bernardino.

The bill won a 41-25 tally despite mobilehome industry opposition. That was the bare majority needed for passage.

Now Goggin probably will have to bring it up again for another vote this week because of the reconsideration maneuver.

Catholic teachers' benefits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lay teachers in Southern California's Roman Catholic high schools have won improved benefits in a new agreement worked out with church officials.

The United Catholic Secondary Teachers Association and school administrators of the Los Angeles Archdiocese and the Orange Diocese Monday announced a new pact offering 550 teachers in 26 schools improved benefits. Those included maternity leaves, as well as agreement that teachers could be dismissed only for just cause.

The contract offer came nearly three months after a 21-day walkout by Catholic high school teachers.

VACATION TIME NEARS

With the state legislature having been in session for the past six months and hopefully planning to start their six-week summer vacation within a few days, Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Beverly Hills, possibly expressed the feelings of all his fellow lawmakers as he emitted this healthy yawn during the Assembly floor session Monday.

One convicted spy gets postponement, other gets 6 years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The sentencing of convicted spy Andrew Daulton Lee has been postponed for national security reasons, but his codefendant, Christopher Boyce, was given a tentative six-year term for espionage and conspiracy.

The two men, found guilty of selling national secrets to the Soviets, appeared at separate hearings Monday. Lee sat silently while his attorneys contended he was innocent.

Boyce made a tearful apology to his father and his country for his confessed betrayal of classified information.

"I express profound regret to the American people and their principles," said Boyce, "...I did a great disservice to these people."

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Kelleher ordered Boyce to undergo a 90-day diagnostic study at the federal correctional facility at Springfield, Mo.

Pending results of that psychological evaluation, the judge temporarily sentenced Boyce under the federal Young Adult Offenders Act to six years on one of the eight counts of his conviction. He will be re-sentenced Sept. 12, at which time he could draw a stiffer penalty.

The temporary sentence is required for the psychological evaluation to begin.

At a separate hearing, Lee's lawyers lost a battle to upset his conviction on grounds that jurors were swayed by exposure to news of Boyce's earlier conviction. The judge ruled that no impropriety occurred.

The government moved unexpectedly to postpone Lee's sentencing and defense attorney Kenneth Kahn would say only that national security was involved.

He acknowledged that the government is seeking to debrief Lee about his contact with the Soviets.

Boyce, in tears, stood before the judge at his earlier hearing and spoke of the WatergateVietnam era which disallusioned him.

He portrayed himself as part of a generation which "placed little or no faith in our established institutions."

"What I failed to understand," he said, "was that it didn't matter if the President was a criminal ... if the land was filled with prejudice and bias ... or that we could kill and maim in Vietnam for eight years. It didn't matter if we could assassinate and topple elected governments.

He said his chief error was "in failing to appreciate that my country is anchored in principles no matter what the practices of its government."

Montclair council okays six-point package

Firefighters to get 17.5 increase

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Montclair City Council accepted a memorandum of understanding Monday night from the Montclair Firefighters Association that will give the organization members a 17½ per cent salary and fringe benefit package for two years.

The council unanimously accepted and filed the sixpoint package that will benefit 36 firefighters. The agreement does not cover management or clerical personnel in the Montclair Fire Department.

The package is similar in some respects to an agreement rejected last week by the Montclair Police Association. In the negotiations with police personnel, an impasse has been declared and a meeting is scheduled for this week to determine if that declaration will be officially upheld by City Administrator Lauren Wasserman who serves as the municipal employes relations officer.

The firefighters, fire engineer and fire captain all receive a 5 per cent salary increase in the first year of their contract; and the fire prevention inspector receives an increase of 5½ per cent. Both salary schedules are effective July 4, the first day of the first pay period in the 1977-78 fiscal year. In the 1978-79 fiscal year, the salary increase will be 5 per cent to firefighters; 7.36 per cent to engineers and prevention inspector; and 5.78 per cent to fire captains.

The city has also agreed to absorb the increases in fringe benefit costs which result from the proposed salary increase, according to a staff report from Assistant City Administrator Mike Milhiser. This includes increases in retirement costs, life insurance, workers' compensation, vacation and sick leave, sick leave redemption expenses, unemployment insurance and overtime expenses.

A third part of the agreement calls for a retiring firefighter to take his retirement compensation on the basis of the final and highest salary year. Previously, retirement benefits were based on the average of the three highest salaried years.

The memo of understanding also increases the city contribution to $24.41 from $19.59 for group health and accident insurance; and increases the maximum coverage from $20,000 to $1 million per employe. Dental insurance coverage through Connecticut General Insurance Co. remains $10.02 for the city contribution in this upcoming fiscal year, but it could increase to $12.02 if necessary to cover dental contributions in 1978-79.

The cost for dependent coverage will be paid by the employe, according to the agreement. The final provision specifies that if an employe works more than four shifts in a different job classification he will be compensated 5 per cent from the fifth shift to such time that he returns to his regular job duties.

"We worked with the firefighters' association and worked together in order to come out with a mutually effective memorandum of understanding," Milhiser said.

Claremont City Council holds meeting tonight

A recommendation that holds be placed on all one-time expenditures and all proposed park improvement capital expenditures will be discussed by the Claremont City Council at an adjourned meeting today at 7:30 p.m. at the Claremont Public Library.

City Manager Norman King reported the city may enjoy a somewhat higher ending balance for fiscal 1977-78 than anticipated.

He said a proposed $75,000 "deficit" in the 1977-78 budget may be reduced and more one-time balance funds may be available for expenditure next year.

King said the council may wish to adopt the basic operating budget, but not act on certain expenditures until the books are cleared for 1976-77.

An exception to the hold on park improvements would be the Cahuilla Park restrooms. King suggested the council decide as soon as possible what will be spent next year in the city parks to enable city crews to begin a "rather ambitious park development program."

The council also will consider a request from Actors' Repertory Theatre asking for $300 for transportation for senior citizens on Sunday to attend the Claremont Playhouse, and $300 to enhance the Children's Theatre program.

The Independent Cities of Los Angeles County has invited the city to join that organization for $261 during 1977-78.

The council also will discuss a request from Pomona Valley Community Services that Pomona, Claremont, San Dimas and La Verne sign a joint powers agreement to gain grant funds from Caltrans.

Correction

In a recent story concerning the U.S. Justice Department being asked to investigate the death of Rudy Garcia in Pomona, it was erroneously reported that a Justice Department official was already in the city meeting with the Latin community.

A representative of the agency, Fred Gray, has been working in the community, meeting with city officials and members of the Minority Coalition for Equal Justice, which represents not only Latin residents but black residents as well.

Claremont planners discuss Myers ranch

The hotly-disputed Myers ranch is back on the Claremont Planning Commission's agenda for its 7:30 p.m. meeting today at the council chamber.

William Myers has asked the city for a conditional use permit to allow a horse ranch of up to 42 horses at the Claremont Riding Academy, 4030 N. Mills Ave.

Myers has made approval of the permit a condition of his being annexed to the City of Claremont. He also is asking that about 13 acres in proposed Annexation 54 be pre-zoned from county zoning agricultural 15,000-square-foot lots to single-family 20,000-square-foot lots.

Myers had requested the matter be deferred at least two weeks because some of his supporters were out of town.

The commission will discuss a general plan change for the area bounded by Base Line Road, Mills Avenue, Foothill Boulevard and the county line, a permit to allow a one-story nursing home at Pilgrim Place, a permit to allow the erection of a 30-room housing unit for Western Assemblies Home on Berkeley Avenue, and a permit for the Claremont Tennis Club to expand its facilities by six tennis courts.

The commission will hold a preliminary discussion on the freeway commercial property on the west side of Indian Hill Boulevard, south of the San Bernardino Freeway.

41 perish in Ivory Coast nitery blaze

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) — Flames gutted a night club popular with European tourists and local residents early today, and the French consulate reported 41 persons killed and four seriously injured.

D.B. school site tests to be recommended

The Pomona school board will receive a recommendation from Assistant Supt. for Business Lynn Rountree for the district architects of Cashion and Horie to prepare geological and seismic tests of the three sites proposed for the Diamond Bar high school at the regular meeting of the board tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Education Center.

The proposal marks a turnabout in Rountree's earlier recommendation to the board last Thursday when he suggested hiring someone in no way connected with any of the sites to prepare the reports which the board will use in determining the eventual school site.

The board will also hear a report from Rountree on the possibility of providing a prefabricated building for the Marshall Junior High School cafeteria as an alternative to the previous plans submitted. The prefabricated structure would be considerably less costly.

The board will also receive a report on its 1977-78 insurance portfolio. Insurance costs are expected to increase dramatically in the coming year.

A newspaper and mayor join the smut war

. . . Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Ralph Perk's smut poll, put in the hands of garbagemen for delivery to 240,000 residences, has drawn a mixture of responses, ranging from "it's a farce" to "it's a good idea."

In response to the poll, City Council President George Forbes, who has been poking fun at Perk's war on pornography, invited strippers to perform at a hearing on ntismut legislation. Forbes said he wanted councilmen to see for themselves whether nude performers were a threat to the city.

Scores of city workers started delivering questionnaires houseto-house Monday, and Perk said copies of the poll would be in each of the city's residences by the end of the week.

Perk said his campaign had nothing to do with his reelection campaign.

The four-page questionnaire is fronted by a letter from Perk saying he is "declaring war on pornography" and needs the poll to set community standards acceptable by the Supreme Court in obscenity cases, so "we can drive this filth from our streets."

But some judges have said the poll lacks objectivity and would not be acceptable in court.

The questionnaire got mixed reactions from residents.

"I hope Perk succeeds," said Mary Gill, who was washing windows on the front porch of her westside home when William Butler, a sanitation department laborer, handed her a form and a stamped envelope to return it.

"But they'll get it (pornography) someplace if they want it," Mrs. Gill added.

"I hate having the kids see that stuff," she yelled at her neighbor.

"I hate having anybody see it," the neighbor yelled back.

An eastside woman, Shannon Abbey, said she thought the stores "should be able to sell whatever they want to. It's up to the parents to teach their kids what's right," she added.

Cene Holley, who was sitting on the front steps in the sunshine with her young children when the city worker came by with questionnaires, said she thought it was "a good idea." With a nod at her 7-year-old daughter, she added, "It'll stop a lot of kids her age from getting raped."

New York . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says it has limited the amount and type of advertising it will carry about pornographic films.

The new rules, which go into effect July 1, were announced Monday by Publisher Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, who said much advertising of "films whose primary emphasis is the protrayal of sex acts is as much a blight in print as displays for pornographic films are a blight on our city streets."

"The Times," Sulzberger said, "believes it can distinguish pornographic films from some other contemporary films in which explicit sex is part of a wider appeal and purpose...

"The new policy reflects our regard for the sensibilities of our readers and a sense of responsibility as citizens of New York."

Sulzberger said the Times, recognizing that some readers might want to know the names of theaters and times of performances on such films, will print this information in singlecolumn advertisements with no pictures or descriptive material.

Movie titles must be no more than one inch high — 1⅜ inches for both titles of a double feature.

The Times also said it would accept only one ad from any one theater in a single day's editions. If the newspaper considers the film title or the theater's name to be offensive, the ad will not be accepted.

Sulzberger said banning all X-rated film advertising would not solve the problem because the "X" rating only signifies that children should not be admitted, and does not necessarily mean the film is pornographic.

Also, he said, "many pornographic films are not rated but rather exhibitors or producers place an 'X' or 'XXX' marking on the advertising on their own, as a promotion device."

The Times said it carries about $750,000 worth of advertising a year for pornographic films. There was no immediate estimate on how much the new policy would cost the newspaper.

Rape charged

A 15-year-old Pomona youth was arrested Monday by police who booked him on rape and child-molesting charges. The teen-ager, a Garey High School student, was accused of offenses against a 10-year-old neighborhood girl which were alleged to have taken place in his home.

Nuclear talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain will join U.S-Soviet talks for a total ban on nuclear weapons testing, the Washington Post reported in its Tuesday editions.

The talks, which begin in Geneva on July 13, follow productive test ban discussions between the two superpowers last week in Washington.

Saccharin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed mid-summer ban on saccharin will be delayed while the Food and Drug Administration evaluates a new Canadian study linking the artificial sweetener to bladder cancer in men.

The FDA cited evidence linking saccharin to bladder cancer in laboratory rats last March 9, when it announced plans for prohibiting the marketing of the sugar substitute as a food additive by July or August.

The agency's decision was based on an earlier Canadian study showing that large amounts of saccharin caused bladder cancer in laboratory rats.

U.S. snooping

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The South Korean government asked U.S. Ambassador Richard Sneider today for an explanation of a New York Times report that the United States conducted electronic surveillance of President Park Chunghee's office in 1975.

Korean officials said Sneider told Foreign Minister Park Tongjin the newspaper report was groundless, and he expressed his regret.

Coal strikes

Wildcat strikes began to spread through the Appalachian coal fields today and coal officials blamed them on cutbacks in union health benefits requiring members to pay part of hospitalization costs.

OAS meet

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (AP) — A procedural victory for the United States at the Organization of American States meeting has improved prospects for adoption of an American resolution on human rights.

The OAS assembly on Monday adopted a resolution aimed at combating terrorism and rejected efforts by four military dictatorships to link it with the human rights resolution. U.S. officials said the separate passage of the terrorism measure, which was sponsored by the Dominican Republic, greatly improves chances the OAS will adopt the American resolution on human rights.

Driver hurt as car hits pole

A Claremont motorist suffered back and rib injuries Monday when his car slammed into a utility pole at San Antonio and Hallwood avenues in Pomona.

The driver, Derrick Thomas, 20, was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital with the recommendation that he seek followup care.

Police reported that Thomas was northbound when his car left the road and struck the pole. The impact jarred loose the transformer atop the pole, Officer Walter Barkley said.

Police said Thomas told them he must have fallen asleep.

Generals abound in new Israeli regime

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel's new conservative government has one thing in common with the Labor governments that preceded it — plenty of former generals in the cabinet.

Four out of the 21 members of the last Labor cabinet had been generals, including Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin. The proportion is nearly double in Menahem Begin's new streamlined, 13-member cabinet.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan was a hero of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war and the army chief of staff. Defense Minister Ezer Weisman was the air force chief who planned the destruction of the opposing Arab air forces in that war. Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon was the hero of the Suez Canal crossing in 1973. And Begin commanded the Irgun Zvai Leumi guerrillas in the war for independence although he never served in the regular army.

The new prime minister is still trying to get the centrist Democratic Movement for Change to join his rightist coalition. If he succeeds, he will get more military men. The DMC has three prominent ex-generals including its leader, Yigael Yadin.

So many former military commanders are political leaders because Israel has been in a state of war since it was established 29 years ago, and the Jewish population today totals only 3 million. There has never been enough leadership material for the government, the rest of the civilian sector and a corps of professional officers who could be put out to pasture when their military careers were over.

But the democratic tradition is strong, and persons are barred by law from being in the military and in politics at the same time.

"I suspect Israel will stay the same, a democratic garrison state, not a militaristic one," said a leading political scientist, Prof. Shevah Weiss of Haifa University, in an interview Monday.

Israel's generals, he continued, are socialists, communists, peaceniks and strategic activists, some who want to give up all the occupied territories and some who want to keep them.

One thing they have in common "is a very democratic education," Weiss added. "Many were fighters in the Haganah or the Palmach (pre-independence military groups) which were organized very democratically. And in Israel the civilian leadership has always been in command of the military. This is why we have no atmosphere of military revolution in Israel."

"The comparison between generals in other countries and Israeli generals is fallacious," said Yitzhak Ben-Aharon, a former Labor party member of parliament. "Our people are civilians in uniform. There is no military caste here."

But the garrison atmosphere is strong.

Uniformed soldiers carrying automatic rifles are seen everywhere, lounging in coffee shops, congregating at bus stops, patrolling the beaches and borders.

Garage fires deliberate?

Pomona Fire Department officials are investigating two fires in garages at 668 E. Eighth St. Monday which caused about $1,000 damage.

One of the apartments of a six-unit complex at the same address was damaged by fire set by matches thrown through a window a few days ago, firemen said.

The property is owned by Obeal Labay of Ontario. The garages were used by Sandra Tillman and by Ray Tannenhill.

Brake line sabotage

A Pomona woman told police Monday that she feels an attempt was made on her life by the person who sliced the brake line on her automobile.

The victim, Maye Levy, 27, said she found the car had no stopping power when she backed out of her driveway and got no response when she applied the brakes.

Panthers lose $47.7 million suit

CHICAGO (AP) — Survivors of the police raid in which two Black Panthers were shot and killed say they will appeal the dismissal of a $47.7 million civil suit against seven policemen involved in the case.

Panther attorney Jeffrey Haas said Monday that U.S. District Judge Joseph Sam Perry should have declared a mistrial, letting the charges stand, after the jury failed to reach a verdict in four days of deliberation.

Perry, often accused by Panther lawyers of unfairness, dismissed the civil charges against the seven defendants, saying there was "insufficient evidence" to support the charges.

The case stems from the pre-dawn raid Dec. 4, 1969, on a West Side apartment by 14 Chicago policemen connected with the Cook County state's attorney's office.

The raiding party, carrying a search warrant to look for illegal guns, fired from 82 to 99 rounds into the flat, authorities say. Ballistics experts traced one shot to a Panther weapon.

Energy

Nuclear fuel . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dozen scientists, challenging the government's own estimate, are warning President Carter against an energy program based on assumptions of enough uranium to last into the 21st century.

Their report tells the White House that the federal Energy Research and Development Administration's estimate of reserves may not accurately reflect the amount of uranium that can be produced.

ERDA offficials earlier this year estimated "a domestic uranium resource base of about 3.7 million tons," including proven reserves of about 700,000 tons and about three million tons of "potential resources."

Potential resources reflect geologic judgments based on mineral trends and limited investigations. They "lack the certainty of ore bodies defined by drilling data," ERDA officials acknowledged.

But in the study undertaken by the panel of government and industry scientists, headed by Dr. G.W. Cunningham, an ERDA deputy assistant administrator for nuclear energy, the administration was told:

"Considerable concern exists with respect to the propriety of including 'possible' and 'speculative' estimates of uranium resources in the basis for the formulation of national energy policy."

Gas tax . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is considering a new variation of a rejected 3-cent per gallon tax on gasoline to replace its proposal for a standby 5-cent tax killed in Congress two weeks ago.

"We have not completely come to grips with the best way to deal with it," an administration source said Monday night. "But we're considering some form of the 'Rostenkowski 3-center' that failed the first time — getting that re-introduced."

The source said the administration has not decided what new variation of the 3-cent tax to propose. The tax was suggested originally by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., as a measure to conserve gasoline and finance mass transit and energy research.

Carter's standby tax was rejected 27 to 10 by the House Ways and Means Committee on June 9. It would have added 5 cents a gallon to the present 4cent federal gasoline tax each year the nation failed to reach the President's conservation goals.

Carter proposed rebating the tax revenue to energy savers.

Divestiture . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of plans to break up giant oil companies, weary of congressional inaction, are trying new strategies to bring the issue to votes in both houses of Congress.

In the House of Representatives, divestiture proponents are mounting a roundabout campaign, hoping to bypass what they see as an unresponsive Judiciary Committee by pleading their case before a more sympathetic Interior Committee.

An interior subcommittee planned to begin hearings today on a bill to require self-divestiture by energy companies that want to bid for federal leases on the Outer Continental Shelf or for other federally held resources.

And senators who want to check the growth of these huge energy conglomorates, which include 10 of the 20 biggest U.S. corporations, are rallying behind legislation that would ban oil companies from owning and developing energy sources other than petroleum.

This is known as "horizontal" divestiture.

Backers claim such an approach has better odds.

Mine safety . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lax mine safety laws and inadequate enforcement by the Interior Department may have contributed to 260 deaths in five major mine disasters since 1972, a Senate report concludes.

The report was issued in advance of a vote expected today in the Senate approving legislation that adds strength to the mine safety laws and transfers their enforcement to the Labor Department.

"These disasters and the hundreds of deaths and serious injuries which occur in our mines each year are testament to the inadequacies of our current mine safety and health laws and their past enforcement by the Department of Interior," the report says.

Committee Chairman Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., told the Senate that the Interior Department should be stripped of its authority to enforce these laws because of its past performance. He said the mine safety program should be placed in the Labor Department, an agency which administers other occupational health and safety rules.

During debate on the bill Monday, an amendment by Rep. Harrison N. Schmitt, RN.M., to keep the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration within the Interior Department was defeated, 58-25.

The bill also would establish a common regulatory program for coal, metal and hardrock mines.

. . . Alaska Pipeline . . .

Life in Deadhorse

DEADHORSE, Alaska (AP) — Deadhorse never sleeps.

America's largest city north of the Arctic Circle, Deadhorse throbs all night with a mechanical heartbeat — machines which never stop in this purest of "company towns."

About 4,000 people live in Deadhorse, squeezed between the icy sea and the 250-square-mile Prudhoe Bay oil pool, at 9.6 billion barrels America's largest single reserve of crude.

The town boasts one hotel, a car rental service and a state owned airstrip. There isn't much traditional night life, but then there isn't any night at this time of year. The sun never sets in the summer.

As discouraging to sleep as the machine rhythm is the soft gray light of midnight on the eve of the summer solstice, the longest day of the year.

The NANA Hotel is one of several module units imported to house pipeline workers. NANA Construction Services, operated by the Kotzebue-based NANA Regional Native Corp., has few rooms to spare and makes them available to the rare visitor for $100 a night.

You don't get much for your money. The dorm-style cubicles are symmetrically furnished with two beds, two closets and two desks.

Except for the "executive suites," they are not equipped with private baths.

The hotel has four "wings," trailer-like units that converge at a comfortably shabby cafeteria. Workers wander in and out of a tiny shop at the entrance, buying tape recordings and books.

One of the hotel wings is reserved for women — mostly maintenance personnel who clean floors and change beds.

"They're making $1,200 a week," South Dakotan Don Lamp confided as a sleepy blonde ambled into the cafeteria for a hot meal before the 8 p.m. kitchen shutdown. The facility is open all night for coffee, milk, doughnuts or juice.

Lamp, a NANA employe, has been on the Slope for about two years, working four weeks on and two off.

"You know, with all these guys up here, there are hardly any problems with the women. If anyone gives them any trouble, some guy straightens him right out. They respect the women here," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) — With Alaskan oil finally headed toward the lower 48 states, here is a brief question-and-answer primer on the situation:

Q: When will all that Alaskan oil result in lower prices at the gas pump?

A: Probably never. Because of the extremely high transportation charges, about $6 per barrel for Alaskan oil instead of 50 cents per barrel for other domestic oil, the federal government plans to allow oil companies to charge the highest possible price for the oil. That price is about $14 per barrel, the same as currently paid for foreign oil.

The transportation charges proposed by the oil companies — which not only drilled for the oil but also combined to build the pipeline — have been called too high by the Justice Department. But no matter how the dispute is resolved, the price almost certainly will be the same as for foreign oil.

Q: But with all that additional oil, shouldn't there be more gasoline and other products, and therefore lower prices?

cost Q. and A.

A: You would think so, but there's another complication. When the pipeline reaches full capacity by mid-1978, 1.2 million barrels a day of Alaskan oil will be heading south towards the West Coast.

But refineries able to handle the high-sulfur Alaskan oil already are working at full capacity and have no room for the additional oil.

Q: What will be done with it?

A: Alaskan oil will replace foreign oil, mostly from the Middle East. The price will be the same, but the money will stay in the United States. To refine the high-sulfur oil, plans call for shipping much of it through the Panama Canal to Gulf Coast refineries, but experts aren't sure if there are enough tankers available to handle the load.

Q: You mean they spent $7.7 billion over 10 years to build the trans-Alaska pipeline and now can't figure out what to do with the oil?

A: Essentially, that's correct. Oil companies hoped to build pipelines from the West Coast to the Midwest or Gulf Coast. But conservationists have stymied those plans, although some proposals are still alive.

Optional YRS for Walnut?

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Walnut Valley school board has received a recomendation from its Ad Hoc Committee on Year Round Schools that the district begin to move toward the implementation of an optional YRS program for those schools electing it in the 1978-79 school year.

About 40 persons turned out Monday night for the board's regular meeting in the choral room of Walnut High School to hear trustees and members of the administration discuss the proposal as well as more refined administrative proposals on the means of implementing the program.

Aside from its basic recommendation, the ad hoc committee also recommended the district:

—Allow schools adopting the YRS option develop plans for implementation which would include the level of acceptance by parents, students and staff, curriculum modifications, calendar, costs and evaluation procedures.

—The YRS option be limited to elementary and intermediate schools.

—That further study be initiated in 1977-78 and feasibility be determined for possible implementation at the high school level at some future date.

The committee's report to the board Monday evening included a point which was re-emphasized by trustees and administrators alike, "Those districts which failed (in implementing and operating their YRS program) moved too quickly or were autocratic in determining which schools would be involved or mandated the program for an entire district."

The board received a recommendation from the administration calling for two paired schools in the north and south portions of the district to initiate the program on the elementary level.

In the south in Diamond Bar, Castle Rock and Evergreen elementary schools would be paired, with one the YRS school and the other the traditional school. In the north, Morris and Vejar elementary schools would share the same symbiotic relationship; one school filling the gap the other couldn't.

Supt. David Brown told trustees that elaborate preplanning would go into the implementation and that before any further work was done a survey would be conducted in the attendance areas of the four schools mentioned to learn of the acceptance or rejection of the idea on the part of parents.

Brown said he would like to see a substantial return on the survey of at least 90 to 95 per cent response. He further stated that at least a 60 per cent acceptance of the idea would have to be received in the two pair school areas or the concept would be dropped.

Said Brown, "We know from other districts' mistakes that you just can't try to shove this down the people's throats or it just won't work."

Trustee Richard Vind also reminded those attending that even if the concept were adopted, it would be on a purely optional basis.

Reacting to an audience which seemed to be somewhat disapproving of the idea, Brown said, "As an administrator, I'm not going to get anymore money if the board adopts the year round school concept. Implementing this will be a great deal of work and we have instituted this recommendation because of the concern the board has expressed over the very serious problems of school housing facing this district."

Trustee Ladd Hollist voiced his concern over the loss of the neighborhood school concept in establishing year round school under the administrative recommendation. Hollist asked if it wouldn't be possible to establish both a YRS program and a traditional program at the same school site.

Assistant Supt. Jack Jolley said other districts trying the idea had soon left it because it created too much confusion for the school principal and, more importantly, cut down on the amount of space saved. The principal idea behind the YRS program is to fit more students into the same school site by spreading their attendance time out over the entire year instead of only nine months.

Brown said that in addition to the district's survey of parents this fall, an extensive public information program explaining both the pros and cons of the YRS program would be undertaken.

Baboon heart transplant fails

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Heart transplant pioneer Christiaan Barnard's first attempt to bolster a human heart by grafting a baboon's heart onto it ended with the death of the patient, a 26-year-old Italian woman, early today

"I think I will use chimpanzees next time," the surgeon told a news conference.

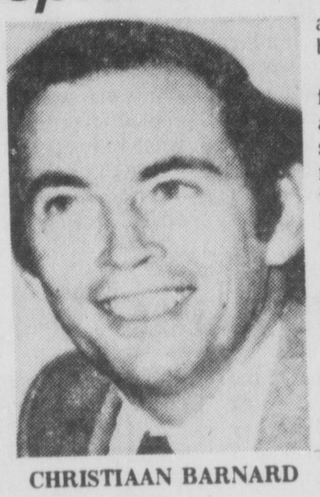
Looking haggard after the 10-hour operation Monday at Groote Schuur hospital and the losing battle for the life of his patient, Barnard said the transplant of the baboon's heart was a "last resort" to save the woman's life.

He said the woman's death was certain without a transplant and a human heart was not available.

The woman's husband was reported under sedation at Groote Schuur, and the hospital refused to release her name until he gave permission.

Barnard said the baboon's heart proved too small to keep the woman's circulation going when her own heart began failing.

The 53-year-old surgeon told an interviewer in March that a human patient could be expected to reject a transplanted animal heart eventually. But he said the alien organ might work long enough for the patient's heart to make some recovery or might keep the patient alive until a human heart became available.



CHRISTIAAN BARNARD

He told the news conference today that baboon and the woman had the same blood type but matching of tissue types was not possible. He said he would not know whether the woman's body rejected the heart until laboratory tests were completed, but he said no evidence of rejection was apparent.

Dr. Reeves Saunders, a spokeswoman for the hospital, said the woman was born with a chronic heart condition and entered the hospital for replacement of a valve which had been put in her aorta, the main artery from the heart, several years ago.

The operation to replace the aortic valve "became considerably more extensive" than planned, Saunders said.

Cancer claims actress Geraldine Brooks, 49

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Geraldine Brooks, whose acting career spanned more than 30 years in theater, movies and television, is dead of cancer at age 49.

Miss Brooks, wife of novelist Budd Schulberg, had been ill for some time but had remained active almost up to the time of her death. Only 10 days ago, she completed a role in an episode of the TV series "Baretta" and was negotiating for another TV acting job.

But last Wednesday she entered Suffolk Hospital here and died late Sunday afternoon.

Schulberg said a memorial service would be held at the Quogue Wildlife Refuge near their eastern Long Island home next Sunday at 2 p.m. after private funeral services Wednesday.

Miss Brooks had taken up wildlife photography in recent years and her photographs illustrate a book by Schulberg, "Swan Watch."

The daughter of the late James Stroock, head of the Brooks Costume Co., Miss Brooks got her first acting role in a Theater Guild Shakespeare touring company and studied at the Actors Studio before going to Hollywood.

GERALDINE BROOKS

One of her first roles was as Joan Crawford's daughter in "Possessed," and her performance led New York Times reviewer Bosley Crowther to regret the movie audience had not seen more of Miss Brooks.

After a series of ingenue roles, Miss Brooks went to Italy to act with Anna Magnani in "Volcano" and opposite Vittorio Gassman in "Streets of Sorrow."

After appearing on Broadway in a revival of "The Philadelphia Story," Miss Brooks shifted her career to television. She won several Emmy nominations, including one for "The Defenders."

She also won a Tony nomination for her Broadway role in Dore Schary's "Brightower," even though the show failed.

After an ill-fated TV series, "The Dumplings" with James Coco, Miss Brooks starred at various summer theaters and appeared in Jules Pfeiffer's off Broadway success, "Hold Me, Hold Me."

Miss Brooks' first marriage, to writer Herbert Sargent, ended in divorce. She married Schulberg in 1964.

Also surviving are her mother, the designer Bianca Stroock, and a sister, Gloria Stern.

BOB HOPE

DAVID EISENHOWER

JACKIE GLEASON

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — David Eisenhower says his father-in-law, Richard Nixon, was the "most aggressive, ambitious and successful young man in America in 1952."

But, says young Eisenhower, Nixon's energies and ability were bottled up in the vice presidency and those pressures led to the tragedy of the Nixon presidential years.

The pressures were created by President Dwight Eisenhower's staff and cabinet, not by the late president himself, says young Eisenhower, who is married to the former Julie Nixon.

Eisenhower, 29, has been doing research on a biography of his late grandfather at the Eisenhower Center here and held a news conference in response to requests for a progress report.

He said the untitled biography is tentatively scheduled for completion within 1½ years.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Hope says that singer Anita Bryant's stand against homosexuals has provided him with plenty of material. But he refuses to criticize Miss Bryant, pointing out that she helped him entertain American troops stationed overseas on various occasions.

When asked by a reporter if he supported her recent successful effort to repeal a Florida ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals, Hope replied, "Well, you know, I've been in show business a lot and I know an awful lot of people of all sexes — the middle sex included — and I don't want to criticize anybody that way.

"But I do admire Anita Byrant personally because she went on seven trips with me and I know the kind of gal she is and the kind of dedication (she has). But I don't want to get into that kind of mixup."

The 73-year-old comedian held a news conference here several hours before his opening performance at a nearby summer theater.

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Former U.S. House Speaker Carl Albert has dropped charges against an 81-year-old man in a hit-and-run accident that sent Albert to a hospital.

Charges were dropped Monday against Sampson Benjamin, who allegedly knocked Albert to the street as he stepped off a curb near his office here earlier this month. A witness said Benjamin drove away when a bystander decided to call police.

Albert, who received minor injuries, was hospitalized overnight after the accident.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — While her mother was busy presiding over a hearing held by the President's Commission on Mental Health, Amy Carter was busy with some duties of her own — enjoyment.

The 9-year-old daughter of President Carter spent the day with the family of Tucson psychiatrist Allan Beigel, a member of the mental health commission that is chaired by Rosalynn Carter.

Accompanied by the Beigel family, Secret Service agents and reporters, Amy went to the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum, where she petted a turkey vulture and saw other desert animals in their natural environment.

At the Tucson Mountain Park, the group went to Old Tucson, built in 1940 as a movie set and used now for movies and as an amusement park.

Amy saw a wild West shootout re-enacted, including stuntmen tumbling from atop wooden storefront facades on Main Street, and rode a stagecoach.

Amy also was an attraction for the other tourists visiting Old Tuscon in the 100-degree heat.

When she was besieged by picture-taking tourists as her party ate lunch in a public dining area, the Secret Service moved Amy and her hosts to a closed area to finish their meal.

MIAMI (AP) — The Tourist Development Authority has rejected an attempt by comedian Jackie Gleason to tape two upcoming television specials in Miami Beach at defrayed costs.

Gleason is now negotiating to use Miami's Gusman Hall to tape two "Honeymooners" shows.

The TDA rejected Gleason's request that it defray some of the cost of producing the shows at Miami Beach, the scene of 125 earlier Gleason shows.

"It costs $40,000 to $60,000 extra to produce the show here, rather than New York or California," said Gleason's publicist Hank Meyer. "Jackie said to the TDA, 'You underwrite some of that, and look at the publicity you'll get,'" Meyer said.

Meyer said each of the one-hour specials, to be aired by ABC at Christmas time and on Valentine's Day, would have contained numerous "plugs" for Miami Beach

Healthy stings?

SOUTH WOODSTOCK, Vt. (AP) — You get more talk than service down at Clyde Wood's garage these days. "Limited service: too much New Deal and old age," reads a sign posted on a grimy window.

You probably won't get to borrow his tools either, according to another sign: "No tools loaned: reasons same as you might have for not loaning your wife."

But you can get honey as sweet as Wood's talk is tart.

Wood, who should have died in 1935 but wasn't ready, credits the venom from his 40 swarms of bees with saving his life.

As the New York Cancer Research Institute put it in a 1965 annual report that Wood fingers like a precious Bible, "Why do beekeepers have the lowest incidence of cancer?

"Perhaps it is because they are continually receiving injections of bee venom, i.e. bee stings, which cause an acute inflammatory reaction liberating histimine which then activates the reticuloendothelia system — another important defense mechanism against cancer."

Wood puts it another way: "I wasn't exactly reconciled to pushing up daisies."

At 79, he still isn't ready. But Wood, who bills himself as "the beekeeper who eluded death," loves to tell the story.

"It was Hodgkin's Disease," he intones. "I was doomed. It spread to my lung, my spleen and my arm."

Wood recovered.

His love of bees, whose angry buzz his speech resembles, began as a child, when he discovered his first wild hive.

A lot has happened since, he says. More than 30 state elections have come and gone, all, says Wood, with the same results. "You get together once every two years and you pick the damndest fool in town. Then you send him to the legislature."

Men have invented pesticides and "gone about the business of eradicating themselves." Farmers have sold out and taken the clover with them.

Without good clover, clover honey has become scarce. And that, says Wood, is the worst part of all.

But bees haven't changed, and of that Wood is glad. The stocky white-haired mechanic, who thinks nothing of reaching bare-handed into a hive and pulling out bees by the handful, has harvested as much as 5,000 pounds of honey in a single year.

"Shoot, just 'cause they can sting you doesn't mean they have to," he says, waggling a finger in the dust of the old garage.

In handling bees, the Golden Rule has stood Wood in good stead. He says it has netted him 10 consecutive years of harvests averaging 107 pounds per hive — compared to a statewide average of only 20 to 30 pounds.

Mixed-marriage discussion

Lynne Hoffman Keating and Tom Keating, Pomona, will lead a discussion on inter-faith marriage entitled "A Jew By Any Other Name Is . . . " Friday at 8:15 p.m. at Temple Beth Israel, Pomona.

Keating, a teacher at Garey High School has received his doctorate in education from the Claremont Graduate School.

New hotline

The number for the 24-hour energy conservation hotline recently set up by Southern California Gas Co. is (800) 252-9090.

The toll-free telephone line was initiated to give Southern and Central California customers immediate answers to questions about saving energy at home.

It is part of a campaign to help stretch existing supplies of energy through conservation.

Phone calls to the hotline number are answered by gas company consumer information specialists in Los Angeles.

Moon messages

Radio messages to be bounced off the moon for reception on all seven continents back on earth — a round trip of 500,000 miles — will be transmitted from a 1,500-foot hilltop within Forest Lawn-Covina Hills this weekend.

The program is part of an international emergency practice procedure by ham radio teams in the U.S. It will utilize capabilities needed in case of man-made or natural disasters.

Operating from hilltop at Forest Lawn — highest point of the Covina Hills chain — will be 24 members of the Aerojet Welfare and Recreation Amateur Radio Club, Azusa, and the San Gabriel Valley Radio Club. They will transmit more than 1,000 practice messages under emergency field conditions between noon Saturday and noon Sunday.

MWD budget

The Metropolitan Water District board of directors, Los Angeles, has approved a 1977-78 budget of $209 million, reflecting a continuing trend of reduced construction expenditures but higher operation and maintenance costs.

This represents an increase of $16 million over the 1976-77 budget of $193 million.

The new budget shows a $15 million increase in operation and maintenance expenditures from $43 million to $58 million largely resulting from a $10 million increase in the cost of power to pump water into Metropolitan's service area.

The new budget calls for construction expenditures of $28 million, down from $29 million last year.

Other changes in proposed 1977-78 expenditures include a $2 million decrease from $72 million to $70 million in payments (exclusive of power) under the district's contract for water from the State Water Project and a $5 million increase in payments on bond interest and principal.

Walk-for-freedom

The La Verne Bicentennial Walk-for-Freedom resulted in pledges of $2,000 for 96 walkers. The group enjoyed a cloudless day and the "Poopout Pickup" had not a single customer. Walkers are collecting their pledges, which will be returned to the La Verne Chamber of Commerce.

Winner named

Kathi Helm, 13, of 885 Dublin Court, Upland has won a World Almanac for having her question selected for use in the "Johnny Wonder" feature in the Progress Bulletin.

The question, "How does the anchor hold the ship?" and the answer will appear in the Saturday edition.

Square dancers

The "Steeltown Twirlers" will hold a "Hillbilly Days" square dance Saturday, 8 to 11 p.m., at the Kaiser Steel Corp. gymnasium. Osa Mathews will be the caller.

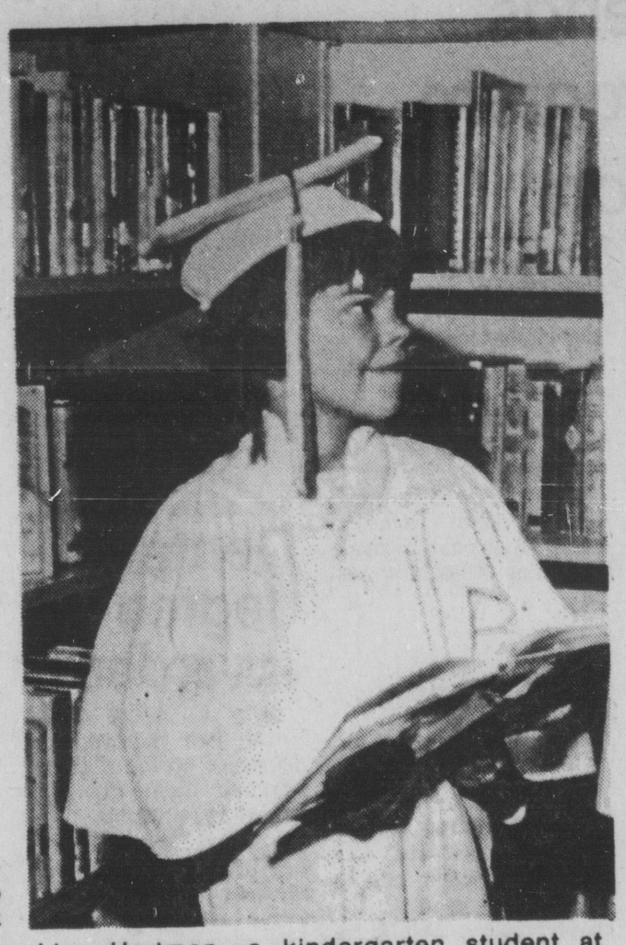
Slide Show

A slide show, "Mighty High Sierras" is set on July 6 at 2 p.m. in the multipurpose room of the Upland library.

The slide tour, presented by Homer Wooden, begins in April in the high desert at the old mining town of Randsberg.

The tour continues on to June Lake Loop area for trout fishing and then to Bodie, a mining town of the 1800s.

The public is invited to this 45-minute tour, which took 20 years to photograph. There is no charge.



Lisa Hartman, a kindergarten student at Pomona Valley Christian Schools in Pomona, has read 255 books this year. Her teachers say she is not the only reader in the kindergarten class, she just read the most books. The private school, operated by the Pomona Valley Baptist Church, 845 E. Arrow Highway, stresses phonics, reading, spelling and arithmetic in its kindergarten and first-grade instruction, executives said. Other kindergarteners and the number of books they read this year are Leslie Dowd, 175; Billy Ott, 115; Carmen Acosta, 95; Yolanda Blackshear, 95; Tim Dudley, 85; Daniel Lowe, 100; Osaze Omoruyi, 88; and Jacqueline Watts, 45.

THE SHOCKING DANGER OF TRANQUILIZERS

In the fast pace of everyday living, too many Americans may be literally dying from over-tranquilized lives. Heat damage due to tranquilizers may well be the culprit in many cases where a young, seemingly healthy person dies from mysterious causes.

Dr. H.L. Fisher D.C.

"While many people tend to think of drug deaths in terms of the so-called 'street people' who include illicit drugs in their culture, drug abuse is common to the country club set as well," warns Dr. Fisher, D.C., of the Fisher Chiropractic Offices.

"Chronic stress is a very real and distinct problem for many people, especially for those who lead a fast pace in family, business, or social circles," the good Doctor continues. "The young executive, who constantly strives to reach the pinnacle of success, finds it hard to unwind at the end of the day. Too few people today know how to relax through constructive leisure time activities. For many of them, the answer appears to lie in tranquilizers."

Dr. Fisher cited a recent article in the Journal of the American Medical Association which stated that the heavy use of tranquilizers is a suspected cause of heart damage.

"You must understand that tranquilizers can well cause heart lesions by blocking the action of chemicals from the adrenal glands," he noted in agreeing with the article. "I am pleased to note that my colleagues in the medical profession concluded much the same in their research project."

According to Dr. Fisher, if the fast pace of living drives you up, up the wall, and you need a tranquilizer to bring you down to the ground each night, you should look for the cause of the problem before you are driven under the ground.

"The stress must be treated at its source, an improperly functioning system," concludes Dr. Fisher. "Once the cause of that malfunction is located and treatment commenced, you will find it much easier to let nature help you unwind."

Note: Dr. Fisher maintains Chiropractic offices at 601 So. Oaks Ave., Ontario, California. Telephone: 983-0766.

On campus

A public lecture on the space telescope system by an astronomer, a symposium on the results of the Viking mission to Mars, lectures on the evolution of galaxies, interstellar clouds, and extreme ultraviolet astronomy, and papers by professional and amateur astronomers will highlight the 1977 scientific meeting of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific to be held on the POMONA COLLEGE campus through Wednesday.

The society was invited to meet in Claremont in conjunction with the opening of the new Harry G. Steele Astrophysics Laboratory at Pomona College's Brackett Observatory.

During the three days of the meeting, participants will hear talks by Allan Sandage of the Hale Observatories, John H. Black of the University of Minnesota, and Stuart Bowyer of the UC Berkeley.

Capping the event will be the dinner when Sir Fred Hoyle will be announced as recipient of the Dorothea Klumpke-Roberts Award and Black will be presented with the Robert D. Trumpler Award.

Guest of honor, Bart Bok, University of Arizona, will receive the Catherine Wolfe Bruce Medal for his studies of regions of star formation in our galaxy. He will deliver the principal talk following the dinner.

A new course in oceanography designed for science teachers is offered during the summer quarter by CAL POLY'S Office of Continuing Education.

Geology, physical processes, and life along the California shore is emphasized, with an optional one-day cruise to Anacapa Island to study sea life.

The class meets Tuesdays and Thursdays, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., June 27 to July 28 in Building 8, room 301. Fee is $66 which includes three units university credit.

Registration will be accepted at the first class meeting. For further information, persons may call the Office of Continuing Education, 598-4392.

The Rev. David Horton of the Westminster Pastoral Foundation, London, and minister of the Chelsea Methodist Church in the King's Road will be pastor-in-residence during the summer session of the SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY AT CLAREMONT.

Casket opened: it's wrong body

SAUGERTIES, N.Y. (AP) — "That isn't mother," gasped one member of the grieving family as the casket of Ella Shaw was opened at a funeral home here.

"An absolutely honest mistake," said Dr. Herman Snow, director of the Hudson River Psychiatric Center in Poughkeepsie, describing how the body of Laura Shaw found its way into the casket intended for Ella Shaw.

Both women were patients at the state hospital. Ella is still alive, but when Laura died last Thursday, hospital officials incorrectly notified Ella's relatives and the funeral was arranged.

"Laura's name somehow got on Ella's chart," Snow said Tuesday. "It was a clerical error ... Something like this happens maybe once every five years.

"We've apologized to the family and we will try, in the course of the law, to remimburse them (for expenses)," Snow said.

The state hospital has 1,780 patients.

Everyone wants a piece of the rock

Three parties attempt to get the ownership of meteorite

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County supervisors are frankly a little upset.

Sometime during the past several hundred years a streaking flash of light crossed the evening sky and crashed into the Old Woman Mountains near Twentynine Palms.

No one had ever paid much attention to the desolate area until three county residents decided to set out and "strike-it-rich" with some mining claims in the mineral rich country.

That was back in 1975.

David Friberg, one of the hopeful miners, was hiking in the hills one day and noticed a peculiar looking boulder. Its rusty red-colored appearance contrasted sharply with the surrounding countryside.

He decided to investigate further, and to his surprise discovered the cause of that forgotten flash across the sky several centuries before. The 4-foot long, 3-foot wide 6,000-pound rock proved to be a meteorite — the second largest meteorite ever found in the U.S.

It wasn't until recently, however, that the story got out.

Friberg and his partners realized that even though a 6,000 pound meteorite is probably not worth its weight in gold . . . it was worth something to scientists.

The three kept their discovery relatively secret.

Somehow, however, information leaked out and the federal government learned of the meteorite discovery.

Utilizing an obscure federal law, the Bureau of Land Management and the Marines, the federal officials moved in with a helicopter and claimed the rock last Friday.

The move touched off a spark of controversy over who owns and should get the meteorite. The Bureau of Land Management claims the meteorite and will put it on display at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D.C.

Friberg, of Twentynine Palms, says its his . . . after all, he discovered it.

Now, however, San Bernardino County supervisors are looking to get a piece of the rock.

Supervisors said Monday that since the meteorite was discovered in San Bernardino County, it was only fitting it remain in the county.

The supervisors directed county museum officials to protest the "high-handed" actions of the federal government and to ask that the meteorite be returned for display in a local museum.

Supervisor James Mayfield, who represents residents in the area the meteorite was found, said he was a "little upset" over the federal governments response to the find.

He jokingly suggested the county send sheriff's department deputies to the Smithsonian to get the valuable rock back.

"Its almost as if they kidnaped the thing," he said.

The driver was ejected from the cab as the truck rolled onto its side. He suffered cuts and bruises but declined medical treatment. The ramp was closed for a time.

Drug abuse house will still operate

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Overruling the advice of the city's planning commission and the testimony of local residents, Pomona City Council Monday night voted to allow the continued operation of a drug abuse recovery house in south Pomona.

The council voted unanimously to allow the house, located at 998 W. Ninth St., to continue operations for another year with the provision that monthly reports about the center be filed with the city staff.

An emotional hearing preceded the vote, with advocates of the center, operated by the People's Coaltion, defending the house against charges that addicts and former addicts living there cause neighborhood problems.

John Owsley, administrator, and Charlie Barnett, assistant administrator, told the council they were eager to work with neighbors and would not hesitate turning over a resident of the house who committed a crime.

They denied, however, that the house is a criminal influence on the neighborhood.

"A lot of complaints are made just because people know they are addicts or ex-addicts," said Willie White, a member of the board of directors.

Their testimony seemed to be backed up by Sgt. Larry Todd, who told the council that the police have not had any major problems at the location in recent months.

Property owners in the area contended they have been subjected to verbal abuse and witnessed indecent behavior on the part of residents of the house. They suggested drug trafficking in the area may also be connected to the house.

"There's a lot of drug traffic in the area. It's like sticking an alcoholic in a liquor store," said Henry Cole.

He suggested that the recovery house find a more suitable location in an "area not quite so dense."

Another property owner, Harold Ketterman, suggested that a new and more modern facility was needed for treating drug addicts.

"We're not arguing against the program, we're just saying the area they are in is not appropriate," he said.

Council members noted, however, that since the drug recovery house was first approved for operation in 1975 the neighborhood has not been prevented from showing marked improvement.

The house is actually a two-story, four-unit apartment house. Owsley said up to 11 residents are housed at any one time.

A conditional use permit for the facility was first approved in March 1975 and reissued in August of 1975 and April of 1976. It came up for review to the planning commission in May this year, at which time the commission sided with property owners and cancelled the permit.

In reinstating the permit, the council imposed no new limitations on the center — other than the stipulation that monthly reports about the operation be made.

Search continues for missing kids

Pomona police and volunteers of the Citizens Community Alert Patrol (C-CAP) resumed their search this morning for two children missing from their home since shortly after noon Monday.

The missing youngsters are Toni Ann La Porte, 7, and her stepbrother, Keith Allan Williamson, 11, of 540 Arboleda Way. A missing persons report was filed on each child early Monday afternoon by Mrs. Toni Williamson.

Pomona police and C-CAP volunteers searched the childrens' neighborhood extensively beginning Monday afternoon and continuing on until midnight. The police department helicopter was used but the children could not be located.

Police and C-CAP members followed up many bits of information and tips they received from residents of the neighborhood about children who had been seen that afternoon and evening, but all proved fruitless.

Mrs. Williamson, in the missing persons reports, said all the childrens' friends had been notified to be on the lookout for them.

Their mental state was normal, she said. Only Keith had money and that amounted to 80 cents.

The most extensively-searched area was between Reservoir Street and San Antonio Avenue north to Holt Avenue.

Keith was described as white, 5 feet 4 with brown hair and blue eyes. He wore a white sweat shirt with "Santa Barbara YMCA" printed on it, dark trousers and blue-and-white tennis shoes.

Toni Ann, also white, is 4 feet 5 weighs 50 pounds and has brown hair and eyes. She wore an ID bracelet, white sweat shirt with a picture of Mickey Mouse on it, white shorts and brown shoes.

The children were believed to have had a green knapsack with them and may have been seen picking fruit this morning. Both are fond of animals and searchers planned to investigate areas near horse stables.

L.V. council delays rent control decision

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

The La Verne City Council has put off a decision once more on whether to place its mobile home parks under rent control — this time the crowd was too large and one of the gang was on vacation.

More than 200 persons showed up at the City Hall Monday night. Most were mobile home owners who had gone there to witness the approval of the state's first rent control ordinance, but there were a large number of mobile home park owners and others who wanted to talk against the proposal.

They didn't get a chance. Mayor Mike M. Morales, who himself had just come to the meeting from his vacation, looked at the crowd that overflowed the small council chambers, crowded the hallways and stood waiting on the street, and decided it was too large.

"I wish we had a larger place," he declared. "This meeting should be held at the La Verne College auditorium. We never had such a large crowd at a council meeting before."

He suggested that in view of the fact that the audience was so large and that Councilman Robert Neher was absent, the rent control matter be heldover until after Neher returns.

His suggestion met with grumbles from the audience. A mobile home owner told the council there already have been too many delays since last December. Another said he had 550 signatures favoring passage of the regulation.

But Morales reminded them that the council had a bare quorum, since Councilman Frank Johnson, who has a secondary interest in one of the parks, had disqualified himself from participation.

"Suppose one of the three remaining members votes against you?" he argued. "You'd not get a majority."

Morales said those who had come to the meeting but could not get in also had a right to be heard. Councilmen Melvin Belcher and Allan Mackay agreed with him and the rent control ordinance was tabled.

It will be heard at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. July 6 at La Few Fetra Hall in La Verne College.

The proposed ordinance calls for a rollback of all rental fees charged by the city's mobile home parks to Dec. 31.

It would set up a mobile home rent control board that would consider grievances and applications for rental hikes once a month. The ordinance would remain in effect for two years.

While the council tabled action on that ordinance, it approved the introduction of two others.

One would prohibit noise by construction companies at night, in the early mornings and on Sundays throughout the city.

The other would reduce the quorum of the parks and recreation commission from five to four to allow the board to function more easily.

The council also passed a tentative budget of $5,231,418 for next year, about $1.15 million more than the current one. City manager George Caswell said there would be no need to raise taxes.

Chaffey district residents may get tax rate decrease

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Residents in the Chaffey school district may receive a present this year — in the form of a 25-cent drop in the tax rate.

School board members Monday night approved a $28.7 million tentative budget for the 1977-78 year that calls for the reduction.

If the decrease is contained in the final budget to be adopted in August, it would lower the tax rate to $2.37 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Consideration of the budget was at the end of a lengthy agenda and board members hardly discussed it. They seemed content to wait for later presentations of the publication and final budgets before asking any questions of administrators.

Russell Dickinson, assistant superintendent for business, told reporters after the meeting that the tax rate will drop because of an estimated 9.4 per cent increase in assessed valuation.

Under state formulas for computing taxes, if a district's assessed valuation rises, the tax rate goes down, Dickinson explained.

The $28,699,151 tentative budget calls for a $1.5 million spending increase over last year. Expenditures are estimated at $24,007,916 and total income at $24,966,897. Officials forecast an ending balance (surplus) by next year of $757,400.

Dickinson said the district will spend more money next year because of inflation, higher salaries, and increased enrollment.

The district also will raise the amount per pupil spent on books and supplies from $80 to $100, noted Dickinson. "This was requested by the school board as a change from the preliminary budget."

Possible drop in property tax rate

Upland council approves budget

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Upland City Council Monday adopted a proposed budget of just under $10 million for 1977-78 and expressed the hope the tax rate could drop below the present $1.88 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget was adopted by a 4-0 vote with Councilwoman Ina Petokas absent.

Councilman John McCarthy said that since the budget is no greater than that of the present fiscal year and yet the entire city is being reassessed, the tax rate should be held to a minimum possible when it is set later this summer.

"Some areas of the city have had increased assessment of from 20 to 40 per cent," McCarthy said. "This must be considered in determining the tax rate and its impact on the homeowner."

The only major change in the budget from earlier discussions was the deletion of $100,000 for the third fire station on Benson Avenue since the city now hopes to receive federal funding for the station construction.

The council has postponed any decision on salary increases for police, fire, nonsafety and management personnel. The salary scale will again be presented at the July 5 council meeting.

Council members spent a great deal of time deciding just how they could spend the $2.2 million grant announced for Upland by the Economic Development Administration (EDA) on June 9.

City Manager Lee Travers outlined projects which would consume the public works grant funds but warned that the Upland Elementary School District is to share in the funding.

"The school staff is now working on some proposals, too," Travers added.

The projects suggested for Upland include the third fire station, costing $258,000. These plans need some updating, added the city manager.

Other projects are $500,000 for a new city shop and garage structure; $40,000 to complete the new senior citizen center; $750,000 for resurfacing streets; $280,000 for the 11th Street Park; $65,000 for Citrus Park; $65,000 for miscellaneous water projects; $40,000 for an addition to the Upland Library; and $140,000 for improvement of the Chaffey Cultural Center.

Travers said the federal grant is designed to stimulate the economy by reducing unemployment. He added that all projects must be decided upon rapidly.

A complete description of all proposed projects must be submitted to Seattle, Wash., by July 1. Most projects must be reviewed by several official groups before that date to qualify.

Councilman Hal Bailin summed up the council's feelings about the grant funds thus:

"The insanity of the whole program is the time constraint imposed."

The Upland council also passed a resolution honoring Richard Rothschild, 20, who was badly burned when he tried to rescue five victims who died in a plane crash in north Upland recently. The city also voted to donate $100 to a fund which has been started for the burn victim.

Sales system has pitfalls

The Yankee peddler of American folklore is still very much with us. Today, however, instead of traveling between isolated frontier communities in a wagon laden with all manner of household items, he drives a car and sells a single line of products within his own neighborhood. "He" is also likely to be a "she."

The direct sales industry — that is what it is called — has in recent years emerged as a distinct and important field in the retail industry. In 1975, the direct selling of everything from cosmetics to jewelry to plastic kitchen utensils to shoes accounted for more than $6 billion worth of goods sold at retail by some two million salespersons.

The direct sales industry is described by the Direct Selling Association (DSA) as a form of retail distribution involving personal selling in the home of the buyer or at his or her place of work. It includes door-to-door sales, presentations by appointment and home parties.

According to the DSA, American households are called on an average of four times a year by a direct salesperson. Many of them are housewives or retirees earning a little extra money in their spare time. For others, direct selling is a fulltime profession and major source of income.

Inevitably, the phenomenal growth of the direct selling industry has been accompanied by illegal or quasi-legal "get-rich-quick" schemes which masquerade as part of the legitimate direct selling industry and prey as much on the salesperson as they do the consumer.

Some of the differences between bonafide income opportunities in direct sales versus the losing proposition of dubious "pyramiding" and similar schemes have been outlined by Amway Corp. of Ada, Mich., a major but typical direct selling organization which in 1976 reported revenues of more than $240 million in sales of home-care and personal-care products through 250,000 independent distributorships.

For one thing, the shady, get-rich-quick operator usually requires a high initial investment from the potential salesperson or distributor, anywhere from $500 to $5,000 and usually non-refundable. The bonafide direct selling company typically requires a very low investment, and even this is refundable.

When a promoter emphasizes high profits from recruiting others or from selling distributorships to others, it is a pyramid scheme. The only one who stands to profit is the originator of the scheme. Reputable direct selling organizations emphasize profits from the sales of products.

The get-rich-quick schemers do not have sizeable manufacturing plants, trained staffs, research and development experts, quality control technicians and other basic and necessary elements of a manufacturing concern.

Legitimate direct sales organizations, on the other hand, have all of these basics. In fact, the only significant difference between a direct sales company and a company which sells via traditional retail outlets is the method of product distribution.

Illegitimate distribution companies also do not have a product guarantee. This can spell disaster to the independent distributor.

Again in contrast, legitimate companies have written money-back guarantees which back up their independent distributors and assure customer satisfaction.

Other characteristics of the reputable direct selling company are that it has a code of ethics or subscribes to the code of ethics of the Direct Selling Association, provides training and sales and business aids to its distributors and invests in national advertising to support their sales efforts.

In the days of the fabled Yankee peddler, it was often a case of buyer beware. Today, in the direct selling industry, it is the one who sells who needs to exercise the caution.

"Excuse me, but has anyone seen a golf ball bounce by here?"

Mailing error points to computer

Dear Editor:

I recently mailed a newsletter to all the registered voters in my district. Thanks to the people who have taken the time to write to me, I find that all the single men were addressed as "Miss" and all the single women as "Mr.".

I have asked Secretary of State March Fong Eu to investigate this error. The list we use for this mailing comes from the Secretary of State's office. It is put on a computer, and this is how the letters are addressed. It is obvious that someone fed the computer the wrong information.

I want my constituents to know that I am doing an investigation on this to determine how it happened and will respond to them as soon as it is completed.

I am very sorry that we had this error.

Council needs support

Dear Editor:

Several weeks ago a Mary Harper came out strongly in a letter to the editor for HUD subsidies for low income renters.

In rebuttal, I am curious as to how close she is tied to the Los Angeles housing authorities and what her real motives are. If she were so concerned about Pomona, she should realize that our problems have stemmed basically from one thing — we go out of our way to attract the low end of society. What did we reap from this policy? Almost the highest crime rate in California, one of the highest proportions of people on relief, and general deterioration.

We have a new mayor who is beginning to turn this entire situation around. He and the council are doing a good job and need our support.

The other side of Castro

WASHINGTON — Happily, Cuban-American relations are brightening; the United States has halted its bullying; Fidel Castro has softened his bombast. It makes good sense, certainly, to restore normal relations with a nation that lies 90 miles off our coast.

All this has produced some euphoric journalism out of Havana — stories about the good life in Cuba and interviews with a Castro on his best behavior. It has been the Happy Hour in Castroland for the visiting press.

But there is another side to the story, which is hidden from the visitors. We have written dozens of columns about political oppression in dictatorships of both the right and the left. One of our targets has been Cuba.

Castro's prisoners have smuggled letters, affidavits and other evidence to the United States with directions that they be delivered to us. We have checked out their charges, as best we could, with former prisoners. We offered to make a personal inspection of Cuban prisons, if Castro would permit it. We asked Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., who enjoys friendly relations with Castro, to help us arrange a working trip to Cuba. The Maximum Leader sent back word he didn't want us on his island.

We, therefore, have conducted an investigation from afar. For weeks, we have talked to sources who have gone beyond the guided tours in Cuba and to experts who have spent their careers studying Cuban affairs. We can give the details of Cuba's seamier side.

In fairness, Cuba is one of the least repressive of the Communist states. It is, in the words of one informed source, a nation of "passive repression." There is no longer need for brutal tactics. Castro's enemies have either been killed or have been driven off the island; the "counter-revolutionaries" have been put down; his revolution has been institutionalized; a whole generation of Cubans has grown up under his tutelage. Therefore, Castro can now afford to be the benevolent dictator.

It has not always been thus. After he overthrew the cruel dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista, Castro's revenge was equally cruel. Hundreds of Batista's associates were executed outright. In some cases, they were rounded up, trucked to firing ranges, gunned down and bulldozed into mass graves. The executions, of course, were unquestionably popular. Crowds at some public trials jeered the defendants, screaming "Kill him! Kill him!"

Castro's goons broke up newspaper offices and attacked Catholic churches. The new dictator then began a systematic reorganization of Cuban society. Committees for the Defense of the Revolution were created. They carried out Castro's directives down into city blocks. Other organizations regimented women, farmers and laborers. Youth groups took over children from the first grade through graduation. All these organizations functioned as tools of the government.

With the help of the Soviet KGB, Castro set up security agencies — the DGI concentrating on foreign intelligence and the DSE keeping watch over the natives. Both agencies have a worldwide reputation for effectiveness. Among the Cuban populace, according to one account, "there is a pervasive atmosphere of suspicion that your neighbor belongs to the DSE."

Castro is thus regarded by his vassals with a mixture of fear and adulation. There is no free press in today's Cuba, and no public opposition to Castro's policies is permitted. Those few who dare to criticize suddenly find themselves cutting sugar cane. Anyone who might influence others against Castro winds up in a political prison or forced labor camp. At the same time, the experts agree that Castro is a master showman who would easily win a free election.

When his revolution was young and his grip on the government less secure, his prisons were crammed with Cubans guilty merely of expressing political viewpoints that differed from the dictator's. A decade ago, Castro held some 20,000 political prisoners in chains. This number, according to the best estimates of U.S. analysts, has now been reduced to between 4,000 and 5,000.

Think on these things

There's a loveliness unequalled on a summer morning when the first rays of sunlight sweep a golden wheat field heavy with dew. And few could be so callous as not to be awed as the light breaks on the other side of the woods and throws misty shafts into areas usually untouched.

A miracle happens with the morning light. Everything that was tired and wilted and spent has suddenly been revived. The trill of the summer tanager is clear and crisp, the squirrels scurry in all directions in playful moods, and the day prepares to unwind. Some unknown poet saw it too, and wrote: "Lean thine arms awhile upon the window sill of heaven and gaze upon the Lord. And with that vision in your heart, turn strong to meet the day."

More drinkers, less drinking

More of us are doing it. But we're not doing as much of it as we used to. Nevertheless, we worry about it more than ever.

Drinking, that is.

And these days, wine is the way to go. Not just with dinner, either. More and more the cocktail crowd is switching from the hard stuff to white wine.

"Two years ago," says one local Perle Mesta type, "I'd order a case each of bourbon, scotch and gin for a big cocktail party. And maybe a fifth of vodka. Wine? Never.

"Now I lay in several cases of white wine. And only half a dozen bottles of all the others. And you know what? I don't get nearly as many burn holes in the carpets as I used to."

The trend to lighter drinking has been coming on gradually, but last year it really took off, giving distillers a headache akin to the morning-after suffered by their former customers.

In 1976, the liquor industry managed to grow only 1.5 per cent. And beer sales went up less than 2 per cent, the worst year for brewers in 27 years.

Even the moonshiners are moaning. Despite their new portable stills (the better to outrun revenooers, chum), they can hardly give it away. Sixteen years ago, 30 per cent of all drinkers in the country preferred Kickapoo joy juice. Last year only 0.6 per cent did.

What puzzles the boys in the booze business is the fact that the lower figures on their sales charts don't tally with the greater number of folks entering the legal drinking age.

Back some 20 years ago, only 55 per cent of those over 18 admitted they took a glass now and then. Now 71 per cent say they do. The ladies are partly responsible for this; they're up from 45 per cent to 66 per cent.

So you'd think liquor sales would be booming, wouldn't you? They're not. And the only answer the Distilled Spirits Council can come up with is that people are drinking less per person.

Part of their problem is that 60 per cent of the drinking population are the 18-to-34-year-olds (who make up only 19 per cent of the total population). And they're the ones responsible for the explosion in white wine.

Cheaper prices are one reason. The vintage products of France may be a litle high for their budgets, but California wines aren't. And coming up fast on the charts are wines from the Rioja district of northern Spain, which are half the price of the bottles from Bordeaux and Burgundy.

Back in the good old days (hic), the liquor industry could always console itself that, sooner or later, the young people would come over to their side. That as drinkers grew older they gave up "gimmick drinks" and moved on to the more potent proofs.

That was before the days of wine and (not roses) cheese. And don't think the vineyard crowd isn't pushing the trend.

In October, the Masters of Wine Tasting will toss half a dozen "international festivals" in Washington, Denver, Atlanta, St. Louis, Boston and Chicago. On a smaller scale, the ladies of the altar guild are turning to wine-tasting parties to raise money. They're even better than bingo.

As near as anybody can count (and don't think wives are the only ones who keep track of how much you drink), Americans now guzzle an average of a gallon and a half of something alcoholic every year.

Not much, maybe, compared to the peak year of 1830, when dedicated drinkers averaged a staggering 9.5 gallons. Each. But enough to make alcohol a problem in a lot of homes.

A recent poll showed the number of families troubled by drinking has risen to 18 per cent in the past couple of years. That's up 50 per cent from the years 1966-to-1974.

Most of the unhappiness was in the West, where 77 per cent of the population drink liquor, wine or beer (the national average is 71 per cent) and where 26 per cent said liquor had caused problems in their families. (Maybe the drought has something to do with it.)

The heaviest drinkers were those with college degrees — 82 per cent, compared to 71 per cent for those with a highschool education and 46 per cent for those who quit after elementary school.

Who says a college education makes us smart?

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Two years ago, after a lengthy government survey, it was determined that 2½ pounds of popcorn per person were produced in the United States during 1975. And it is interesting to note that over the years it has been dedicated governmental studies and research programs of that type which have been instrumental in making it possible for Americans to become the best informed people on the face of the earth. — So what will the government's big survey of 1977 be all about? — Well, I'll give you three guesses but many of you will probably need no more than one to arrive at the correct answer. What else could it possibly be other than a determination of the per person production and consumption of peanuts?

Alter laws on prostitution

By EARL G. WATERS

California cities are experiencing a seeming expansion of prostitution. From the complaints of businessmen and residents in larger communities of the state it would appear that the "hookers" are swarming like locusts. No doubt the drift of young women into the "easy life" accelerates during periods of inflation and unemployment. But the tendency of many, as always, is to blame it on the degeneration of today's morality.

Yet, as any student of history knows, harlotry has existed as far back as written records of civilization and before. Not for nothing is prostitution known as the "oldest profession." In ancient Sumaria, Egypt and Babylon it flourished and the courtesans even achieved a measure of honorable status.

Today's problems with the prostitutes are not because it has suddenly become widespread. If the facts were known there are probably no more percentagewise, if as many, plying that trade than at any other period in modern day America or otherwise.

The real difference is that the laws, and the methods of enforcement of those laws made necessary by court decisions, have driven the joy girls into the bars and into the streets where their promiscuity is blatantly conspicuous.

As a result, the businessmen see their establishments shunned by patrons who don't want involvement with such traffic and the householders witness their streets being turned into outdoor brothels as the shady ladies solicit customers for their wares. This brings demands for more active enforcement and the heat is applied to the police and the courts.

But the cold fact is that arrests, fines and even jail sentences won't stamp out prostitution today any more than it has over thousands of years of history.

Still, since the businessmen are to be protected from the conduct of others which becomes unwarranted interference with their trade and respectable householders have every right to be shielded from activities which blight their neighborhood, a solution must be found.

Not surprisingly, in view of its long history, other generations did not have a workable answer. This was the restriction of prostitution to "red light" districts. There in "parlor houses" and "stockades" the girls entertained out of public view but under the watchful eyes of "madams" who brooked no disorder. Pimps and drugs were not tolerated. Patrons could frequent the establishments without fear of being robbed or contracting social diseases.

The simple answer, then, is the legalization of "houses of ill repute." The contention that morality is involved in such a decision is sheer hypocrisy. Sexual intercourse is no crime in this state excepting when there is an instant payment of cash. If it is performed for other favors such as mink coats, jewels, furnished apartments, trips to Acapulco, or solely for pleasure, no crime has been committed.

If surveys taken by Assemblyman Leroy Green, who authored legislation a couple of years ago to carry out his findings, are accurate the majority of the public favors decriminalization of prostitution.

Certainly, with the high rate of violent crime including murder, robbery and rape, the time of the police and the courts can be far better occupied providing protection for the public than in waging an unending battle with the natural instincts of men and women which have defied subduing down through the ages.

The public has a choice of altering the laws to gain some measure of control over the practice or continuing to be plagued openly by the practitioners while the police and the courts divert their energies from more important duties.

Ann Landers

Social worker replies

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in response to the welfare mothers who signed themselves "Sick Of The Labels In St. Paul." They wanted to "help educate the damn fools" who criticize people on relief.

How about a little education concerning the snow job these women are giving? They didn't say they wanted to work or better themselves by receiving job skills. They just want the taxpayers to pick up the tab so they can stay home.

I am employed by the Public Welfare Division and carry a caseload of 160 ADC families. I encourage employment and training whenever it's feasible, but most ADC mothers do not want to work. Some say they are sick and can't take a job. One woman I see regularly must be at home when her 16-year-old son comes from school so she couldn't possibly work. Another has no car and refuses to take a bus. Still another will not work because the cost of her food stamps would go up. (She doesn't realize she could add $500 to her monthly income.)

An ADC mother can earn over $900 a month and still receive financial assistance from welfare (depending on the amount paid for child care), food stamps, free medical services, free denntal services and emergency help if needed. Of course, with high incomes, the cost of the food stamps goes up — but why shouldn't it?

Our community (as do most others) has numerous advantages for ADC mothers who seek training. They can receive through local WIN offices free child care, transportation and meals, plus tuition, books and supplies paid via federal grants. These are all in addition to their full welfare grants.

So you see the advantages are many for the ADC mother who is in training or employed, yet I find very few women who want to acquire the needed skills to get off welfare. Those who use the excuse of "being worse off when working" don't have their facts straight — or they are using this as an excuse for not being self-supporting. If you want to be fair to both sides you will print this, Ann. — A Conscientious Taxpayer

Dear Taxpayer: Here's your letter and my thanks for writing. I've checked your facts and they are correct as stated.

Dear Ann Landers: I read recently that several million dogs are eligible for health insurance under the new Medipet program introduced by Lloyd's of London.

My understanding is that for $45 a dog owner can cover his dog against veterinarian fees for accidents and illnesses. This policy also covers the owner should the dog bite someone.

How does one go about getting this insurance? It sounds like a wonderful idea at a modest price. Will you kindly track this down and let me (and millions of others) know? — All For It

Dear All: Medipet is available to dog owners, but not in the United States at this moment. You'll have to move to Australia unless the picture changes between now and the time this goes to the press.

CONFIDENTIAL to Want Him: What for? a 27-year-old man who hasn't the courage to ask his mother for his bank book doesn't sound like very good husband material. Remember Landers' Law: Any woman can get married if she sets her standards low enough. Cool it, honey. A bargain he isn't.

Artists with bad eyesight

Those great artists Holbein, Cranach and El Greco painted their pictures in somewhat distorted protractions. Holbein saw things stretched out laterally. Cranach visualized things long and thin. El Greco perceived things at an angle that leaned to the right. A person with normal vision, wearing the appropriate corrective eyeglasses, sees the works of these painters in normal proportions with normal postures. The artists might never have been regarded as masters if they hadn't had such bad eyesight.

RABBITS

That steel magnate Andrew Carnegie was quite an operator, even as a youngster. His pet rabbits were multiplying so quickly he couldn't find time to take care of them all personally. So he painted the monikers of some young friends on the rabbit hutches, thus naming each rabbit family in honor of a local boy. And those boys thereafter showed up each day to feed and water the rabbits.

Q. "What proportion of the people who bankrupt out their personal debts repeat the process when the law allows them to do so six years later?"

A. About 17 per cent.

Q. "Where'd we get the word 'Jeep'?"

A. It started out in World War II as Army slang for General Purpose vehicle.

CONVALESCENTS

Consider what happened at Wharsedale General Hospital in Yorkshire, England. The place was getting badly overcrowded. The hospital administration had no choice but to open one ward to convalescents both male and female. The men started shaving again. The women went back to using makeup and doing their hair. The recovery rate speeded up almost miraculously.

What's so appealing about the game of golf? One student of human behavior contends it satisfies an ancient inherent craving in certain men, and possibly women, too, to swing a club with all one's might at something, as though that something were a skull.

When that football superstar of yesteryear Red Grange was introduced to President Calvin Coolidge as a man from the Chicago Bears, the president said, "I'm glad to meet you, Mr. Grange. I've always liked animal acts."

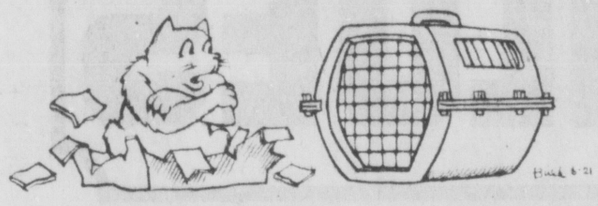
Plastic carrier for cats sturdy



DEAR DR. MILLER: Somehow Missy has learned to chew her way through these cheapo cardboard carriers, They're now good for about one trip. Before we invest in a higher-priced, escape-proof cat carrier, can you tell me what kind to look for? What about these come-apart plastic jobs? They look strong enough. — J.E.

DEAR J.E.: Yes, there are two-piece molded plastic carriers on the market which are sturdy, easily cleaned, and with a door opening large enough to make it feasible to lift out a reluctant cat. Be sure, however, that your proposed cat carrier has adequate ventilation. For hot weather travel, the larger the cage, the better, and, more importantly, optional cross ventilation is very desirable.

A carrier with a metal mesh door on one end allows more air inside than a carrier with only a few inches punched around the sides. More air is desirable since, in such a confined space, the animal's temperature will tend to rise to dangerous levels quickly. In hot weather a cat should be kept in a carrier for brief periods of time only, and NEVER in direct sun.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm a hayfever sufferer, and have been for the last couple of months. Suddenly, my dog's started sneezing and snorting a lot. Could he be a hayfever victim, too? Could it be a sympathetic reaction? We're very simpatico. — J.R.

DEAR J.R.: Sudden severe sneezing episodes in the canine are most often due to foreign bodies in the nose. A nostril could contain a grass awn or other small plant portion, or even an insect. Dust particles, including those containing household materials or, as you suspect, a snuffed-up heavy dose of pollen might cause a sneezing outburst. Slower developing sneezing episodes would be more typical with hayfever, or for other causes ranging from parasites in the sinuses to a polyp or tumor. A checkup's indicated, quickly, if sudden severe episodes persist, since pain and nosebleeds are usual complications.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've heard of chicken pox and smallpox, but now something new — mouse pox. Are my pet mice endangered? Do they need vaccinations for it? — N.H.

DEAR N.H.: Ectromelia (mouse pox) is not a current problem in the United States, though mice visitors from overseas could carry it here. It's unlikely ever to be a problem among pet mice however, and (good news) your wee ones won't require a vaccination.

Erma Bombeck

Mother too busy to understand

Retirement is not without its problems.

As I told my Mom and Dad when they hung it up, "You people are on the threshhold of a new career — that of finding something to do. Naturally, I want to help, but you both must understand I have my family, my own responsibility and with my hectic schedule I do not have time to sit around exchanging cures for irregularities. You are basically on your own."

Several weeks after they moved into their retirement community, I called Mother.

"What do you want?" she asked breathlessly, "I was just going out the door. Got organ lessons this morning."

"No big deal," I said. "Just call me back when you have a moment."

Four days later, I called again, "You okay?"

"Sure. Sorry I didn't call you back but we were out collecting rocks for the rockhounds and then I had to go to the beauty shop and today is my oil painting class. What's up?"

"I didn't want you to feel ignored on my birthday."

"Is today your birthday? Are you sure?"

"I was there, Mother. Why don't you come over this evening?"

"I'd love to, but there's a bell-ringing concert and after that we're all going over for a swim and a cookout."

"I just don't want you to be lonely. Maybe I'll come out tomorrow and we can visit."

"I'd love to have you but we're picking grapes and making raisins out of them. Maybe after my macrame class on Thursday. Let me check my calendar and call you back."

The next afternoon she popped in. "I only have a minute," she said, "I'm having a fund raiser coffee and I've got to vacuum the living room. Your father is out playing golf. So, what have you been doing?"

"I visited a mobile chest X-ray yesterday at the shopping center."

Mother looked at her watch.

"Did I tell you my yeast expired yesterday? I thought it had a week to go, but when I got it out of the refrigerator . . ."

"That's interesting," said Mother.

"My insurance man sent me a birthday card."

"That's nice," said Mother. Then she took my hand and said, "Dear, I want to help you through our retirement. I really do, but you must understand I have my own life, my own responsibilities and with my hectic schedule I can't sit around with you discussing your iron deficiency. You are basically on your own."

Mother was a middle-aged person once. I thought she'd understand.

Dr. Lamb

Reformed alcoholic writes

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 35-year-old male. I was an alcoholic for 11 years and finally came to grips with it nine months ago. I went through a horrible case of the D.T.s which I hope has put the fear of the Lord in me for the remainder of my existence.

I am being treated by a very fine doctor who has me on Librium. But since stopping alcohol with the D.T.s I have a total lack of libido.

Tell me the truth, will it ever return? Or have I caused irreparable damage to my body? Otherwise I am in excellent health, including being mentally alert and feeling better than I can ever remember.

My weight dropped from 211 to 150 pounds during this period. My blood pressure averages 120 over 70 and I feel like a young man.

DEAR READER — You are a young man. And there is a good chance that your interest in sex and sexual responses will return to normal.

Part of this will depend upon how much damage you may have done to your liver. Eleven years of alcoholism is a real insult to the body. The liver has an important role in eliminating estrogens and maintaining a proper balance between male and female hormones.

You should know that alcohol has a direct effect on the testicles, resulting in a decrease in male hormone production. In a study of men who consume an equivalent of one and one-fourth pints of 80 proof whiskey a day for four weeks, Dr. Gary Gordon of New York Medical College found a 21 to 50 per cent decrease in testosterone production. And the testosterone in the blood stream was more rapidly removed.

Your weight loss has also been a factor. Men in starvation situations lose all interest in sex. I do not mean to imply your loss of weight is bad — it is good, but I doubt that your body has completed its readjustment.

I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer, to give you a broader picture of the bad effects of alcohol on the human body. Others who want this issue may send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to Post Office Box 1881, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You may wish to share this information with other people who have a drinking problem and have not been as successful as you in overcoming it. Congratulations.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a radio broadcaster and in my work I use headphones every day. Through the years I've noticed it's been necessary for me to boost the volume of the phones — bit by bit. I'm worried the phones are damaging my hearing and yet I have to use them in my work. How harmful are headphones to the ears?

DEAR READER — The headphones are not harmful — it is the sound that comes out of them. If the noise level is low enough it should not harm your ears. But if you have high intensity noise exposure regularly it will induce ear damage.

Of course you may be having changes in your hearing that are completely unrelated to your headphones. I would suggest that you see an ear, nose and throat specialist and have your hearing checked. You may have a completely different condition that he can help you with.

Here is a good hand for use of the code word ARCH. At least South needs the "C" (Count your winners and losers) and the "H" (How can I make this hand?).

There are two sure trump losers, a very likely heart loser and two possible club losers.

South's problem is to handle those two club losers and he can do this with proper trump management.

He must find a way to play two rounds of trumps without giving the defense a chance to play a third round.

This isn't too difficult. He simply leads a low trump at trick two. It doesn't matter who wins the trick and what is led back. Suppose East wins and leads back a second club.

South wins and cashes his ace of spades. Then he ruffs a club. Next come three high diamonds from dummy. West can ruff the third or discard. It doesn't matter there is no way to keep South from ruffing his last club with dummy's last trump.

Ask the Jacobys

A Toronto reader asks the proper opening bid with: ♠ A K Q J 8 7 6 ♥ A K J 2 ♦ x ♣ x.

Playing standard American or Acol you open two spades. If you play two clubs as your only forcing bid, open two clubs. The hand is too powerful for a four-spade opening.

Drought gone, now Europe swept by rains

By MICHAEL WEST
AP Writer

LONDON (AP) — This time last year a severe drought was taking its toll in Western Europe. Rivers and reservoirs were shrinking. Relentless sunshine was turning fields and pastures brown.

London businessmen left their umbrellas at home, took off their bowlers and stripped down to shirtsleeves.

This summer it's raining. The Thames, the Rhine, the Rhone and the Po are brimming again. Reservoirs, dangerously low when rains last October ended the drought, are full.

Last June, Britons, Belgians, French, Germans and Italians were sweltering. This year they are huddled in raincoats under umbrellas.

"It's been cloudy, cool and wet and looks likely to stay that way," says the London weather center.

"Lots of rain in sight" is the word from the meteorological office in Brussels, Belguim.

Farmers in Northern Italy are complaining that crops, especially fruit, are suffering from too much rain. In parts of West Germany almost twice the average rainfall has fallen this month.

Floods have hit many parts of France. Wine growers in the usually sunny south are asking for government subsidies because of rain and frost damage to their vineyards.

In Spain, parts of which also were hit by the drought last year, the temperature is below normal.

Dutch weather experts report "a near normal summer so far."

The 1976 heat wave started in early May. The Royal Dutch Meteorological Institute recorded the first "tropical day" on May 9, when the temperature rose to 86 degrees.

Then came day after sunny day of rainless skies with temperatures in the 90s, bringing elation at first, and then gloom.

Food prices climbed as crops withered in the fields. Water rationing went into effect in Britain and elsewhere.

Tens of thousands of cattle were slaughtered for lack of fodder. French housewives hoarded sugar. The Germans imported sauerkraut from the United States. Poles were eating foreign ham.

A severe potato shortage in Britain pushed the price from cents a pound to 20 cents. The Dutch, who usually export potatoes, imported them from the United States.

Denmark reported its grain harvest was 15 per cent below normal. Britain's yield was 5.7 per cent below the average for the previous three years.

The West German government made a $26 million emergency payout to farmers whose crops were hit by the drought. Low water hindered barge traffic on the Rhine.

Some after-effects of last year's dry spell linger. Britain's underground water table which feeds springs and wells is still low.

Psychologist says

Children need fairy tales

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Children need fairy tales to survive because they teach that everyday problems are not unique, says a noted psychologist.

"The tremendous value of fairy tales is, when exposed to fairy tales, a child knows 'This doesn't happen only to me. It happens all over the world,'" says Prof. Bruno Bettelheim.

In addition, he says, children who aren't allowed to escape the real world through fairy tales may become addicted in later life to drugs or television in an effort to try to escape.

Bettelheim is a professor emeritus at the University of Chicago and a researcher at Stanford University. He spoke recently at Southern Illinois University here.

A key ingredient in fairy tales such as Cinderella, says Bettelheim, is that the hero or heroine emerges from the experience as a changed person.

"There is no fairy tale anywhere in the world where the hero or heroine is not an entirely different person (at the end)," said Bettelheim. "A better person. A wiser person. A more mature person."

That is where many of today's children's tales fail, he said. The hero remains the same after going through his trials.

Bettelheim, author of several books on rearing children, said television soap operas are distorted fairy tales for adults in which people experience tremendous problems but are not changed.

Bettelheim believes it is "unfair that many young people do not know how to live" because they did not experience fairy tales in their childhood to help them figure out problems.

"To grow up well, to be able to master life, we need hopeful images ... all that you'll find in the traditional fairy tales."

Summer jobs given okay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The City Council has approved a $10.2 million contract with the U.S. Labor Department that assures operation of the Summer Program for economically disadvantaged youth.

The council's action Thursday will direct Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds into 13,790 jobs for persons aged 14 to 21 years. The young people will work an average of 25 hours a week at $2.50 an hour in city departments, the Los Angeles Unified School District, and other agencies.

Euclid parents hope to retain school principal

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A group of parents has petitioned the Ontario-Montclair school board in hopes of keeping John Duncan as principal of Euclid School.

Juanita Patton, parent of a child at Euclid, submitted petitions signed by 430 parents who, she said, are "very unhappy" about Duncan's transfer to Monte Vista School for next fall.

Duncan is one of a number of district principals being transferred to other schools in September. Von Richardson, now a principal in La Habra, will take over Duncan's post at Euclid.

Mrs. Patton told the school board that Duncan "knows our children and cares about them. And it's hard to get to know people in the southern part of Ontario."

She added that Duncan "is loved and respected by his students."

A new principal will have to start from scratch, she indicated.

Board President Rose Kelber told Mrs. Patton that "We have to place people in buildings where they can do the most good."

Sam DiGiovanni, another trustee, said if Duncan remained at Euclid (after already serving five years at the school) "he would never advance. It's good to advance and get a well-rounded experience in education.

"If I were John, I'd want to advance."

Mrs. Kelber said the board "is aware of the problems in changing principals."

Mrs. Patton said after the meeting that parents are angry over Duncan's transfer and "the board could care less. He's our principal and cares about what's happening. We have unruly kids in the area and you can talk to him about it. He doesn't just do his job — he tries to solve problems."

Board members took no action on the request, and it seemed unlikely they would in the future.

Handyman sentenced to life term

PASADENA (AP) — A handyman who murdered a 26-year-old pregnant woman has been sentenced to life in prison.

Superior Court Judge Arch Tuthill imposed the sentence Thursday on Emery S. Riddle, 25, and urged that he "never be paroled."

Riddle was convicted May 26 of murdering Renee Kan, earlier identified as Renee Kane. He also was convicted of robbery and burglary.

Mrs. Kan, the wife of an Arcadia attorney, disappeared from her home Dec. 2. Her body was later discovered near the Pasadena Rose Bowl. She had been strangled with an electrical cord.

Police arrested Riddle, a resident here, after neighbors reported seeing his car in the area when Mrs. Kan disappeared.

Bids being taken for improvements of Claremont roads

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The City of Claremont is calling for bids for about $160,000 in various street improvements.

Improvements would include resurfacing of Bonita Avenue from the west city limit to Indian Hill Boulevard, San Jose Avenue from College Avenue to Mills Avenue, and Seventh and Eighth streets between Indian Hill Boulevard and College Avenue, and slurry seal treatment on 22 other streets.

The City Council last year budgeted $72,000 for street improvements. The proposed city budget for 1977-78 recommends that $129,000 be spent from the 1976-77 budget and $47,000 from 1977-78 budget to complete the work on Bonita and San Jose avenues.

About $23,000 may be funded by the Claremont Redevelopment Agency for that portion of Bonita Avenue between Cornell Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard.

Slurry seal will be put on the following streets: Carthage Court, Clemson Avenue between Teasdale Drive and Sumner Avenue, Wheaton Avenue, Oxford Avenue between Colby Circle and Occidental Drive, St. Augustine Avenue between Oak Park Drive and Springfield Street, Chatham Court, Wagner Drive between Indian Hill Boulevard and Radcliffe Drive, Radcliffe Drive between Indian Hill Boulevard and Mills Avenue, Miami Court, Knox Court, Abilene Way, Judson Court, Stowe Court, Converse Avenue between Meredith Street and Cedar Crest Avenue, Cedar Crest Avenue between Meredith Street and Converse Avenue, Clark Avenue between Meredith Street and Oak Park Drive, Academy Court, Pembroke Court, Loyola Court, Barrington Court, Brockport Court and Austin Court.

City Community Development Director Paul Cook said that the project should start about Aug. 15 and last two months. He said that the order in which the different segments are done will be up to the contractor.

Super contest on tonight

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Tonight's fourth annual Pomona Valley All-Star Basketball Game promises to be a super contest at the Supertent.

The game, featuring the top prep basketball players in the area, is set to go at 8 p.m. at La Verne College's Supertent. It's sponsored by the La Verne Rotary Club and profits from the affair will be donated to local charities.

The South leads the series 2-1. However, many cage experts are picking the North to even up that score tonight, based mainly on the presence of All-Valley performers Bill Duffy and Rich Davis on the North roster.

The South squad, while not possessing a player of the stature of a Duffy or Davis, does appear to have the edge in depth and quickness. The North team, with the 6-10 Davis in the lineup, will have a definite advantage in heighth.

All in all, it shapes up as perhaps the most interesting matchup in the four-year history of the classic, with this year's team rosters exceptionally strong.

"I guarantee you that there will be plenty of college coaches and scouts at the game," South coach Gary Fulkerson said. "I'm sure that, since almost no one on my squad has signed a letter of intent, that there will be a lot of interest in the game from a scouts' standpoint."

Indeed, remarkably enough only one South player, Ganesha's Steve Polee, has indicated his college plans.

"From a fan's standpoint, it should be a great game," Fulkerson continued. "We'll use a run and gun approach which will keep things hopping, while the North has two "supers" in Duffy and Davis."

Neither Fulkerson or North mentor Bill Roberts of Damien would reveal a starting lineup. However, since by the rules of the game every player must play at least five minutes of the first half, you can bet that there will plenty of substituting.

The added length of the game (48 minutes as opposed to the 32-minute prep games) will also insure everyone seeing a lot of playing time.

"Conditioning will definitely be a factor," notes Roberts. "I'm sure some of our guys will really be dragging in the last quarter, so I am going to try to keep them all as fresh as possible."

Fulkerson indicated that the South squad is healthy with one exception. Garey High center James Lofton, who is expected to help counterbalance Davis' talents under the basket, is suffering from a groin pull. It remains to be seen if how it affects him, if at all, tonight.

If Lofton is hurting, expect to see a lot of Montclair's Bruce LaVallee. LaVallee, Fulkerson feels, is one of the most underrated players on his South roster. The 6-foot-6 ex-Cavalier has looked most impressive at South practice sessions.

Other South members are Mickey Donaldson and Leo Olivas from Ontario, Herbie Banks from Garey, Hank Bouwman from Ontario Christian, Roger Hairston from Chino, Randy Wenzel from Chaffey, Darrin Pierce from Montclair and Randy McFarlen and Kelley Needham from Rowland.

North coach Roberts also has a couple injury problems. Royal Oak's Bill Cavanaugh and Charter Oak's Brad Keilty are both doubtful for the game with injuries.

Other players are Mike Boyd and Keith Brandt from Bonita, Kyle Fortson and Ray Kwiatek from Claremont, Kevin Comstock from Alta Loma, Ed Carlson from Damien, David Moore from Pomona and Ken Muraki from San Dimas.

Fulkerson will be assisted by Mike Wells of Garey High. Roberts' assistant will be Jeff McCall of Alta Loma.

The contest, one of only 30 sanctioned by the NCAA nation-wide, will feature 12-minute quarters, with each player being allowed six fouls before fouling out.

A special halftime gymnastics demonstration is also planned under the guidance of Jesse Staples of host La Verne College.

Tickets will be available at the door tonight, priced at $2.50 for adults and $2 for students.

Connors snubs British hosts

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors, the world's No. 1 tennis player and the No. 1 seed at the Wimbledon championships, is no longer No. 1 with the British.

In a display of what the English regarded as bad manners, Connors snubbed the royal family, the All-England Club and the tennis public Monday when he failed to turn up for the Parade of Champions marking the opening day of Wimbledon's centenary.

"If a charming 85-year-old lady on crutches feels proud to take part in the centenary celebrations," said veteran tennis correspondent Laurie Pignon of the London Daily Mail, "It is inconceivable that a young man cannot bother to walk a few hundred yards with a bad thumb."

Pignon was referring to 85-year-old Elizabeth Ryan, the American who won a record 19 doubles titles here from 1914 to 1934 and who hobbled onto the center court on crutches to take her place among the 43 Wimbledon champions who were honored in pre-tournament ceremonies. Each received a commemorative medal from the Duke of Kent, cousin of Queen Elizabeth II.

Connors, meanwhile, was practising on an outside court with his friend Ilie Nastase. He had not even replied to the club's invitation to join the parade and a special luncheon for champions. Connors won the men's singles title here in 1974.

He sent no apology or explanation for missing the parade and when asked by a newsman why he was absent, he said: "Maybe I was seeing my doctor."

Maj. David Mills, secretary of the All-England Club, said the championship committee had met and decided not to give Connors his medal because of the American's "extreme discourtesy."

Connors, nursing a cracked bone in the thumb on his right hand, was also unpopular with his first-round opponent. Their match was postponed until today at Connors' request while a special splint was fitted onto his thumb.

Said his British opponent, Richard Lewis: "I'm quite sure that if I had been the player with the bad thumb, the match would not have been put back."

Other recent Wimbledon champions were puzzled by Connors' action.

Bjorn Borg, the 1976 champion who joined the center court parade just before opening defense of his title, said of Connors' absence: "I was very surprised. I don't know why he didn't show up."

John Newcombe, champion in 1967, 1970 and 1971, said: "I have had a talk with Connors and told him he made a serious misjudgement. I think he realizes it now."

But Connors himself was not available for comment.

Nevertheless, tournament officials expected him to be on court today for his first match.

Peter Wilson of the Daily Mirror, who first covered these championships 48 years ago, said of Connors: "His behavior equals the worst I can remember at Wimbledon."

The big upset in Monday's action was the defeat of No. 4-seed Roscoe Tanner, upset 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 8-6 by British Davis Cup player John Lloyd. The other seeded men's singles players engaged on the first day all won.

Evert routs R. Gerulaitis

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Chris Evert started her defense of the Wimbledon women's tennis title today by routing Ruta Gerulaitis of Kings Point, N.Y., 6-0, 6-3.

Miss Gerulaitis, making her first visit to Wimbledon, had to start with the kind of match every newcomer dreads—against the defending champion on center court.

She looked nervous in the first set, and although she hit some impressive ground strokes Miss Evert was in complete command.

Miss Evert won the first game of the second set at love and led 40-0 against service in the next game. But then she made a couple of errors and Miss Gerulaitis hit two fine backhands to win her first game.

Dodgers big hits for Rhoden

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — When Rick Rhoden pitches, the Dodgers hit.

It's just that simple as the Dodgers pounded four home runs Monday night to give Rhoden a laugher as he became the National League's first 10-game winner with a 9-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

But Rhoden is not thinking too much yet about winning 25 or more games. All he is thinking about now is getting No. 11 Sunday.

"If they keep scoring like that for me, I ought to win 25 games," the righthander said. "But right now, I want No. 11 because my next start is against the guys we have to beat."

Rhoden will take the mound again Sunday in Cincinnati against the second-place Reds, who are again 8 1/2 games behind the Dodgers as L.A. has won six of its first seven games on the current homestand.

In his 10 wins, Rhoden has been blessed with 79 runs. His earned run average of 4.21 isn't anything to brag about and Rhoden is aware of it.

He was working on a four-hit shutout until the Cards broke the spell with three runs in the ninth inning to get something out of the one-sided loss.

"I really wanted to pitch well tonight," Rhoden said. "For some reason, I've been hit hard in three or four games in St. Louis so I was looking forward to pitching against them here. But I was disappointed about the three runs in the ninth. They didn't help my ERA much."

Rhoden is especially tough at Dodger Stadium as his 19-4 lifetime record indicates.

"I love to pitch here and the big crowds have been a big help for the whole team," Rhoden said in referring to the Monday night turnout of 39,614.

With four more homers Monday, the Dodgers have raised their season total to 82 only nine below last year's total. In this homestand, L.A. has hit 12 in seven games.

Rick Monday led the HR parade with two for his eighth and ninth of the year while Steve Garvey drilled his 15th and sixth in nine games and Dusty Baker connected for his 13th.

The big crowd really got a show in the fifth inning when Reggie Smith walked, Garvey doubled, Baker homered and Monday followed with his second HR of the night.

"Naturally, to say anything but the fact I am overjoyed would be an understatement," Monday said. "I haven't been hitting. That concerns me. But what concerns me more is staying healthy - the back problems have caused me to develop so many bad habits."

The centerfielder have been in and out of the lineup because of back spasms.

Garvey started the assault on Cardinal starter Pete Falcone (2-6) in the second inning when the Dodgers added two more runs on a walk, two singles by Monday and Steve Yeager and a double by Teddy Martinez.

Monday added a two-run homer in the fifth.

DODGER DATA — Davey Lopes missed his ninth consecutive game with a muscle pull in his left rib cage and Lee Lacy couldn't make it Monday because of a pulled muscle.

The Cardinals will send John Denny (7-2) to the mound tonight against Doug Rau (6-1). Wednesday's probables are Burt Hooton (4-3) vs. Tom Underwood (3-2).

The Dodgers have hit at least one home run in their last 13 games. The record is 25 by the 1941 New York Yankees.

L.A. is 13-3 against the East at Dodger Stadium and has won eight straight over the Cards at home in a stretch dating back to 1975.

The Cards' Lou Brock has 875 career stolen bases and 2,758 hits. He needs just 18 more steals to top Ty Ty Cobb's career record of 892.

Orioles sign Steve Polan

BALTIMORE — La Verne College third baseman Steve Polan has signed a pro contract with the Baltimore Orioles, it was announced today.

Polan had been a 12th round selection of the Orioles in the recent draft. He batted .360 for La Verne this past season and clubbed 16 home runs while turning in some dazzling glove work at third for the Leos.

The Sacramento native will be reporting to Baltimore's farm club at Bluefield, W.Va. in the Appalachian League. That club is managed by La Verne's Ben Hines.

The Birds also announced the signing of their no. one pick in the draft, 17-year old outfielder Drugo Hazewood of Sacramento. Hazewood turned down a football scholarship at Southern Cal to ink with Baltimore.

Allen is suspended

CHICAGO (AP) — The Oakland A's won a game against the Chicago White Sox but lost a player.

After Oakland defeated Chicago 7-1 Monday night to break a five-game losing streak, team owner Charlie Finley announced he was suspending first baseman Dick Allen for a week without pay.

The reason, Finley said, was because the slumping slugger decided to take a shower and leave the clubhouse while the game was still in progress.

"If he doesn't like it, he can take a hike," said Finley. "I don't care if he ever shows up again. I was trying to show the world I could work with him, but I found out I was like the rest of the suckers."

"I hope he never shows up again," Finley said later in a telephone interview. "I saw Dick Allen in the shower in the sixth inning and that was all I wanted to see of Dick Allen. No, I didn't say anything to him. I called the manager, Bobby Winkles. He's his man. It's beneath my dignity to say anything to him."

It was another in a series of incidents marking the career of the 35-year-old slugger who was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1972 when he made a stop with the Chicago White Sox.

J. Davis returns as Walnut coach

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Walnut High did not have to go far to find a new basketball coach.

The Mustangs have announced the hiring of Jerry Davis to direct their cage fortunes. If that name sounds familar, it should.

Davis, 39, was the school's first varsity cage coach ever in 1968-69. In 1969-70, he directed the school to a record-setting 24-5 record and the semifinals of the CIF 2A playoffs.

He left his coaching duties in 1971 to assume the vice principal's office at Walnut, but the past three years has been a physical education instructor at the school, and has coached freshmen, J.V. and girls teams in basketball and tennis.

Prior to coming to Walnut in the late 1960's, Davis was the head hoop coach at Rowland High.

"It's very gratifying for me to get a second chance at the Walnut job," the new Mustang mentor indicated. "I feel fortunate to be able to get back into coaching at the varsity level.

"When I resigned as coach in 1970, it was because I felt I did not have the time to be both vice principal and coach. But as the years went by, I realized just how much I missed the game and working with young players."

Davis was one of 40 applicants for the Walnut post, left vacant when Bill Murray left the school in June to search for a head coaching job in the Orange County area.

Davis' son, Jeff, was an All-Valley basketball selection this past year as a senior guard.

"I've already met with the kids and they have been super responsive," said Davis. "I had this group as freshmen and they were undefeated then. It's a real treat to come back and be able to coach them as seniors.

"We should be in good shape for next year," Davis promised. "I've got an excellent young coach, Scott Wright, working with me on the varsity and we are involved in two summer leagues. We're currently playing every Friday night in the league at Mt. San Antonio College, and are also in a league in Placentia.

Davis also indicated that he is in the process of forming a parents' booster group and that he has received "great support" from Walnut students and the surrounding community.

"It's a pleasure to be back," he said. "I think I can build a fine program, one that the school and community can be proud of."

Martin escapes axe for present

DETROIT (AP) — The headsman will have to wait for another day.

Fiesty Billy Martin has escaped the axe. Suddenly the New York Yankees baseball manager feels "very much more relaxed."

The question remains, however, whether Martin was given a reprieve or whether Yankee management ever actually intended to fire him—as had been reported.

Gabe Paul, president of the Yankees, denied the reports. He said at a 10-minute news conference in the Tiger Stadium press box Monday night that Martin would remain New York's manager.

Yet, Paul said, "We don't have votes of confidences."

He said there was a "very short" meeting in the clubhouse before the Yankees' 2-1 loss Monday night to the Detroit Tigers. It was to clear the air on the Martin situation.

"No, I wouldn't say it was a vote of confidence," Martin said. "They just said I'm their manager. They told me I'm the best manager in baseball."

"There were a couple other things they wanted me to do," the volatile, 49-year-old Martin added. "For instance, I missed a meeting. I know I should have been there. That's something I'll have to correct. Otherwise, there were no complaints about my managing."

Rumors that Martin was about to lose his fourth major league managerial job began circulating Saturday after he pulled high-priced right fielder Reggie Jackson from the lineup in Boston. Jackson appeared to have nonchalantly let a bloop hit become a double.

He and Martin nearly came to blows when Jackson went into the dugout.

Martin, however, did not fault Jackson for losing a Mickey Stanley ball in the lights in the seventh inning Monday night. The ball fell in for a double and led to the 1-1 tiebreaking run.

Paul sloughed off the Jackson-Martin flareup in Boston.

"No one incident will determine whether a club would keep or not keep a manager," Paul said. "Things like this are of great importance and we are now all happy. We consider Martin the best manager in major league baseball.

"There were strong rumors that a change was imminent," he said. "There was no change imminent."

That made Martin—who has been fired from managing jobs at Minnesota, Detroit and Texas—quite happy. He seemed even more pleased about the ovation the crowd of 47,236 gave him when he took the lineup cards to home plate before Monday night's nationally-televised game.

"I'm very much more relaxed," he said. "What made me feel good is when the fans gave me that ovation. It was the best ovation I've ever had in my life. It came at a really good time."

Paul, in his announcement said: "Although there have been unconfirmed rumors regarding changes in personnel and management of the New Zork Yankees ball club, there will not be a change in managers regardless of what has been said. Billy Martin will continue as manager of the New York Yankees."

Phillies finally beat Reds

By The Associated Press

It was a long time coming, but the Philadelphia Phillies finally defeated the Cincinnati Reds. And the Phillies' Jim Kaat finally threw another complete game.

Since Aug. 26, 1976, the Phillies had dropped nine consecutive games to the world champions. Cincinnati topped the Phillies in the final three regular season games last year, three times in the National League playoffs and in the first three meetings this season.

Then came Monday night's 10-4 Philadelphia victory over Cincinnati as Kaat, 2-5, hurled his first complete game since Aug. 3, 1976. Kaat gave credit to former pitching coach Johnny Sain.

"John told me I was rocking in my motion," Kaat said after his nine-hitter. "That gave the hitters a timing device. Now I'm starting from a dead position."

Which is the almost the position Kaat found himself in early this season when he was dropped from the starting rotation by Manager Danny Ozark.

"I've felt like excess baggage here, not a part of the club," said Kaat, though Ozark didn't share the 38-year-old left-hander's opinion.

"I'm happy with him," said Ozark. "I still think he is doing a good job, even if he isn't starting every fifth day."

Mike Schmidt and Larry Bowa homered in Kaat's support. Bowa's third home run of the season marked a career high for the slap-hitting shortstop.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago edged San Francisco 10-9 in 12 innings, Houston topped Montreal 6-3, Pittsburgh snapped a seven-game losing streak with a 5-3 defeat of San Diego and Los Angeles slammed St. Louis 9-3. Atlanta's game at New York was rained out.

Cubs 10, Giants 9, 12 innings

Bobby Murcer drove in six runs with a three-run homer and a three-run double, but the Cubs didn't beat the Giants until Mick Kelleher's two-out triple in the 12th inning scored Joe Wallis.

Chicago moved ahead 4-0, helped by Murcer's homer, then the Giants rallied to take a 5-4 lead. Jack Clark's pinchhit three-run homer in the sixth, his fourth round-tripper in four games, put San Francisco on top.

The Cubs grabbed a 6-5 lead in the eighth on Jerry Morales' two-run homer but the Giants moved ahead 8-6 with the help of a pair of Chicago errors in the bottom of the inning.

The Cubs took a 9-8 lead in the top of the ninth on Murcer's double before San Francisco tied the score on Clark's twoout double that scored Gary Alexander.

Astros 6, Expos 3

J.R. Richard pitched an eight-hitter, striking out nine and walking three. Joe Ferguson aided Richard, 6-6, with a two-run double in the seventh inning that drove home the decisive runs.

Richard provided an insurance tally in the ninth by clouting his first homer of the season. Enos Cabell had three hits and a homer for the Astros while Gary Carter knocked in the Montreal runs with a homer and a two-run single.

Pirates 5, Padres 3

Phil Garner's solo homer in the eighth inning snapped a 3-3 tie for Pittsburgh. The Pirates were helped by consecutive throwing errors by San Diego shortstop Bill Almon in the fifth.

Pittsburgh's Kent Tekulve, 4-1, got relief help from Rich Gossage, who earned his 11th save with two shutout innings.

Thomas facing action

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Spokane first baseman-outfielder Danny Thomas has received an ultimatum from the Milwaukee Brewers, parent team of the Pacific Coast League Indians: play all week, or be suspended.

Thomas, 26, says he'll take the suspension rather than violate his beliefs and those of his religion, the World Wide Church of God.

He said his beliefs prevent him from working during the church's Sabbath, between sundown Friday and sundown Saturday.

Thomas, who missed Friday night and Saturday afternoon games against Albuquerque last week in Spokane, said the Brewers told him "they'll suspend me Friday without pay if I don't show up."

Spokane opens a 10-day road trip Friday in Albuquerque.

"They're my bosses, and they have that right," said Thomas. "I don't feel any hostility. I feel thankful for the opportunity Milwaukee has given me."

In an injury-interrupted 1976 season with Spokane, Thomas hit .325 with 29 home runs and 83 runs batted in. He was named the league's player of the year and promoted to the Brewers.

Last winter Thomas joined the World Wide Church of God and took a vow to keep the Sabbath a day of rest.

He started the season with Milwaukee hitting over .300 but was sent back to Spokane when his average slipped to .271.

Thomas is hitting .254 in 18 games for the Indians with no home runs and nine runs batted in.

He said he doesn't intend to sue to prevent his suspension.

"This is a great country," he said.

Wise helps Bosox boost division lead

By Associated Press

You know all about the Boston Red Sox' hitters. How about a few kind words for their pitchers?

"We have a lot better staff than people think we do," slugger Carl Yastrzemski said Monday night. "When you pitch in Fenway Park, your earned run average is automatically one run higher."

The Red Sox were in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium rather than Fenway's friendly confines as Rick Wise hurled a two-hit, 10-strikeout shutout in defeating the Orioles, 4-0.

The Red Sox' fourth consecutive triumph and 10th in 11 games boosted their lead in the American League East to 3½ games over both the Orioles and the New York Yankees, who lost to the Detroit Tigers, 2-1.

Elsewhere, the Oakland A's whipped the Chicago White Sox 7-1, the Texas Rangers edged the Minnesota Twins 2-1, the Seattle Mariners downed the Kansas City Royals 4-2 and the Cleveland Indians outlasted the Toronto Blue Jays 8-5 in 11 innings. California and Milwaukee were not scheduled.

The Red Sox, who set a major league record by hammering 16 homers in three games against the Yankees over the weekend, settled for just one this time—Butch Hobson's ninth of the season—giving them a record-tying 22 in six games. But Jim Rice tripled home a run and Yastrzemski doubled across two more in an 11-hit attack.

Wise, who was banished to the bullpen from May 3-June 8, allowed doubles by Mark Belanger in the third inning and Lee May in the seventh. The veteran right-hander's strikeout total was the best in his American League career and one short of his National League high.

"I've never really been a fast starter, but I've never sat around for five weeks, either," said Wise. "I was sent to the bullpen after four starts and during one stretch I didn't pitch for 19 days. I knew if I got the ball, I could do the job."

In his last 27 innings, including three starts and one relief outing, he has allowed 17 hits and two runs and fanned 23.

"I'm not a strikeout pitcher," he said, "but I do have a good ratio of strikeouts to walks. I'm a control pitcher and I try to make the batter hit my pitch with a minimum of mistakes. This is a beautiful pitcher's park. I love to pitch here. In this park you don't have to be so fine.

"When you pitch for this club you try to keep the game close. You know this club is going to score runs."

Tigers 2, Yankees 1

New York right fielder Reggie Jackson lost Mickey Stanley's fly ball in the lights for a seventh-inning double and it led to the winning run. Meanwhile, Mark 'Fidrych held the Yankees to three singles.

Jackson's boo-boo followed a leadoff walk to Jason Thompson. Aurelio Rodriguez promptly singled home the tie-breaking run.

It was Jackson whose casual outfield play in Boston Saturday resulted in a near-fight in the dugout between the outfielder and Manager Billy Martin. Just before Monday night's game, Martin received a vote of confidence from club president Gabe Paul, who denied reports that the manager would be fired.

"He took it very hard," Martin said of Jackson's lost-ball goof. "He came running into the clubhouse and felt hurt. I went to Reggie, put my arm on his shoulder and said: 'Geez, you can't be faulted for that. You lost the ball in the lights.' It was nothing to be ashamed of. He played his heart out. He hustled all the way."

A's 7, White Sox 1

Light-hitting Rob Picciolo collected three hits, including a triple and a double, and Rodney Scott had a double and two singles to lead a 16-hit Oakland attack that ended the A's five-game losing streak and Chicago's four-game winning streak.

Rangers 2, Twins 1

Dock Ellis and three relief pitchers combined to check Minnesota despite 12 Twins hits. Toby Harrah homered for the Rangers, who were held to four other hits by rookie Paul Thormodsgard.

"It seems like every series we play Texas we manage to get a belt-high fast ball to Harrah and he never misses it," moaned Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch. "We got plenty of hits. It wasn't a matter of how many, but when."

Mariners 4, Royals 2

Steve Braun doubled, tripled and scored twice and Lee Stanton drove in three runs as Seattle withstood solo homers by KC's Tom Poquette and Hal McRae.

Indians 8, Blue Jays 5

Ray Fosse's bases-loaded triple in the 11th inning gave Cleveland its fifth consecutive victory and third in a row under new Manager Jeff Torborg. Frank Duffy's second home run of the season pulled the Indians even in the eighth and Toronto took an early 4-0 lead.

Webb places two on All-CIF team

Webb School, which made it to the 1A finals this year, has placed two men on the All-CIF 1A Baseball Team, it was announced today.

The Gauls' junior outfielder John Richards was tabbed as a first-team selection. Webb hurler Howard Lockie was a second-team pick.

Richards, a 5-foot-11, 155-pounder, batted .405 for the Gauls this season and sparkled in centerfield.

Lockie, one of only two sophomores picked to the team, compiled an 11-3 mound mark for Webb.

Fillmore's Rick Stewart, who no-hit Webb in the 1A finals, was an easy pick as the 1A Player of the Year. Stewart, a 5-foot-11, 185-pounder, compiled a sensational 17-0 pitching record this year and also batted .371.

Stewart, who was also the 1A's top player as a soph and junior, registered a career record of 39-2 with five no-hitters, and 432 strikeouts in 258 innings. His three-year earned run average at Fillmore was 0.38.

Fillmore topped all 1A teams with four players picked to the first and second units.

Members of the 1A team will be honored at a special awards program at Anaheim Stadium on Sunday, July 3.

Vikings get Bradley

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Two-time All Pro free safety Bill Bradley has been acquired by the Minnesota Vikings from the Philadelphia Eagles for an undisclosed National Football League draft choice.

The 30-year-old Bradley, the Eagles' top choice in 1969, was enthusiastic about the trade.

"I can't tell you how delighted I am," he said. "It's like going from Class B ball to Class A."

Borgmann injured

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — A knee injury will keep catcher Glenn Borgmann out of action six to eight weeks, the Minnesota Twins said Monday.

A spokesman for the American League baseball club said Borgmann underwent surgery to repair torn ligaments in his left knee. Borgmann suffered the injury Sunday in a play at home plate during the TwinsRoyals game in Kansas City.

Cauthen returns

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Cauthen, the nation's leading jockey when he was injured in a spill May 23 at Belmont Park, is scheduled to return to action with rides on four mounts Thursday at Belmont.

The 17-year-old apprentice was expected return from his home in Walton, Ky., to exercise horses Tuesday and Wednesday mornings at Belmont.

Jr. Olympics on TV

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The NBC television network will broadcast the championship events of the AAU Junior Olympics to be held in Lincoln Aug. 13-14.

"We want to make this a major production; we think it deserves it," said Don Ohlmeyer, in charge of Olympic production for NBC.

Ohlmeyer said Monday the Junior Olympics represent "a tremendous step in the right direction" toward developing young American athletes for eventual Olympic competition.

Billy Corbett sets mark for amateurs

PEBBLE BEACH (AP) — "It wasn't spectacular. I didn't chip in or anything, but I did hit 16 greens," said San Rafael's Billy Corbett after setting a Spyglass Hill record for amateurs with a 68 in the opening of play in the 66th California Amateur Golf Championship.

The four-under-par round Monday by the 17-year-old recent high school graduate broke the record of 70 shared by former Stanford golfer Bruce Robertson and current touring pro Forrest Fezler.

Corbett moves today to the the Pebble Beach course, also par 72, for the second round of qualifying. A cut to 64 will be made after the round, and 32 will survive Wednesday's third round and begin match play Thursday.

Corbett held a three-stroke lead over Roger Armstrong of Oakland after the opening round. Three players matched par — Pat McGowan of Colusa, Gary Matteson of Fresno and Trans-Miss tournament champion Doug Clarke of La Jolla.

Among the other leaders were two-time NCAA champ Scott Simpson of USC, 1975 State Am winner John Cook of Palm Springs and former San Francisco 49ers quarterback John Brodie, all at 74. Those at 75 included Camarillo's Lee Mikles, the NCAA runner-up from Arizona State.

Carr signs Kings' pact

Twins facing loss of unsigned stars

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The list of unsigned Minnesota Twins players sounds like the heart of the team's batting order mixed with the elite of the pitching staff.

The most prominent Twins playing out their option years are outfielders Larry Hisle and Lyman Bostock. But pitchers Dave Goltz, Tom Burgmeier and Ron Schueler and utilityman Jerry Terrell also remain unsigned.

Since the June 15 signing deadline zipped by without any apparent notice by Twins' owner Calvin Griffith, it's possible the whole bunch will depart at the end of the season.

"I think there is more of a chance at this time to sign the others before Lyman," Griffith admitted Monday night. "We have some plans in the works now, but we don't want to divulge them."

Hisle's situation is a rerun from last year of Bill Campbell's sojourn from the ranks of an underpaid relief pitcher to a Boston millionaire.

Hisle began the year wanting a six-figure, one-year contract since he is a six-year performer and eligible to become a free agent, anyway, at the conclusion of the season. The Twins, of course, wanted to keep their top slugger around for a longer period and countered with a multi-year pact. He wants to help his tax situation and the Twins hedged again.

Now the Twins are ready to consider the request for deferred payments, but Hisle has become so involved in the negotiations that he would like a five-year contract to avoid going through a similar struggle again.

"It's really tough and I don't think my mind is always where it should be," said Hisle, who leads the American League with 60 runs batted in. "I lived here all winter and the Twins mentioned contract to me once."

In addition, Hisle is beginning to consider permitting an agent to conduct his business and that would mark the beginning of the end for him at Minnesota if he goes on the open market.

Bostock wanted a four-year, $800,000 contract and set opening day as the Twins' deadline to meet his demands. They were never considered, but the Twins kept the 26-year-old Bostock to help them in their bid for the division title in the American League West. The fleet centerfielder is hitting .351.

"Heck no, I don't want to lose Lyman," said Griffith. "At the same time, I don't want to do something to jeopardize my thinking with lots of other people."

Goltz is the only experienced starter in the Twins rotation and Burgmeier is the top left-handed relief pitcher.

The Twins appeared to be making headway on improving player relations at contract time when Clark Griffith took over the duties from his father, but Clark apparently was too generous and vice president Howard Fox now has those duties.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! — Roy Smith, Pamela Peadon and Joe Bennett tip their hats to their own show, "A Chorus Line," which celebrates its first birthday at the Shubert Theater, Los Angeles, July 7. The most successful play in Los Angeles theater history, it has been seen by three-quarters of a million people.

Recital offered at Garrison

By RALPH PIERCE

Saturday night saw a small audience of concert-goers and Naval Cadet Corps supporters attend a very well delivered recital by two fine artists from the Los Angeles area, Carol Stewart, pianist, and Jan Schmidt, soprano. The short program in Garrison Theater made us only wish that we could hear each of these fine artists in solo recital.

In her opening group of songs by Rodrigo, Miss Schmidt demonstrated a sporano voice of fine quality and always under control. She sings with musicianship which was further demonstrated in the group of songs by Milhaud which closed the first half of the program.

Miss Stewart, who is a member of the music faculty at USC, is a pianist who knows her way around both musically and technically. Her offerings consisted of works by Charles Ives, Chopin, Brahms and Saint-Seans. She demonstrated a sensitivity to the style of each of the composers represented and, again, we should hear her in a more complete program than one of the short works presented on this occasion.

In the closing arias Miss Schmidt ventured into the realm of the coloratura and showed that she could soar into the vocal stratosphere of high C's and above. The program closed with the Leonard Berstein aria, "Glitter and Be Gay" from "Candide" which almost got a little enthusiasm from a rather unresponsive audience. No review of this performance would be complete without mentioning the exceptionally fine accompanying skill of Miss Stewart. In this field she would certainly be rated with the top artists.

The concert was a benefit performance sponsored by the Naval Sea Cadet Corps and the Pomona Valley Council of the U.S. Navy League. Both orgainzations should be commended for sponsoring a program of this calibre.

HI HO, SILVER! — It's been 20 years since Clayton Moore hung up the mask of the Lone Ranger, but he doesn't regret playing the role that typecast him into semi-retirement. With him is Jay Silverheels as the faithful Indian scout, Tonto. Silverheels lives in Calabasas and runs an acting school for Indians. Moore reports that his white stallion, Silver, is now 28 and living a life of ease.

Auditions scheduled for Chaffey musical

Chaffey College will hold tryouts to pick four women and six men for the summer production of "Something's Afoot," a new murder mystery musical by James McDonald, David Vos and Robert Gerlach.

Auditions will be held in the Little Theater at 7 o'clock nightly through July 5 except weekends and July 4. Ralph Strane will direct. Persons interested in preparing for the tryouts can obtain scripts at the office of the creative arts division.

The who-done-it musical is adapted from Agatha Christy's "Ten Little Indians." It had its debut at the American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco and played at the Huntington Hartford in Hollywood.

The Chaffey presentation, slated for Aug. 4, 5, 6 with curtain at 8:30 p.m. is the first local production.

Open for women are the roles of Lady Grace Manley-Prowe, the grande dame; Lettie, the saucy maid; Hope, the ingenue, and Miss Tweed, the tweedy amateur sleuth.

Parts for men are Flint, the caretaker; Cline, the butler; Dr. Grayburn, the family physician; Nigel Rancour, the dissolute nephew; Col. Gillweather, the old army man, and Geoffrey, the collegian.

In addition to the performers, there are spots for persons who would like to work on sets, lighting, properties and costumes. All participants in the production can gain five units of college credit by enrolling in Theater Arts 108.

English poet Robert Browning was born in 1812.

A fair is a special event to which people come to buy and sell goods, hold contests and have a good time.

Fairs first came about as a means of carrying on trade. In ancient times towns were far apart and there were few stores or markets for trading or buying goods. Farmers and craftsmen often had to travel far to sell their products. The earliest fairs took place at times when people gathered together to celebrate important religious festivals.

Tradesmen would bring their goods and display them. Games, horse racing, sideshows, and other amusements were added later.

Today, state and county fairs often feature exhibits ranging from the latest farming equipment and achievements in industry to home canning and farm products.

Judges award prizes for the tastiest jams, pies and pickles.

Prizes are also given for the best cows, pigs and other farm animals. World fairs are called expositions.

31 towns suspended from flood program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty-eight communities, including one in Southern California, are being suspended from the government's flood insurance program.

The suspensions of communities including Carpenteria, Calif., near Santa Barbara, were announced Monday and most go into effect July 18.

Most of the suspended communities are in Eastern states.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development said the communities are being suspended because they no longer comply with the requirement for an adequate flood plain management plan.

The law establishing the flood insurance program provides that federal aid can only be provided in flood plain areas if there is flood insurance.

Thus, following suspension from the program, the communities will no longer be eligible for any kind of federal aid for purchasing property or construction in any area with flood potential.

Also, officials noted that current flood insurace in the affected communities will not be renewed while the communities are suspended.

RESTORATION UNDER WAY — An intricate scaffolding covers a tower on the Shwezigon Pagoda in Pagan, Burma. The town, known for its monumental architectural treasures, some of which date back to the 11th century, was hit by an earthquake in 1975, and 90 per cent of the buildings were damaged. The Burmese, hampered by lack of funds, are trying to restore the major monuments with locally raised money, as Burma refuses foreign assistance.

Pipeline workers hit riches that seldom occur in lifetime

BOSTON (AP) — Henry Letarte was earning about $125 a week cutting wood when he decided it was time to quit. A few weeks later, a few thousand miles away, his weekly paycheck was more than $1,000.

Letarte, 25, of Harvard, Mass., was one of thousands of Americans who dropped ordinary jobs and left familiar hometowns to build an 800-mile oil pipeline across the Alaskan wilderness.

"It was like the gold rush," Letarte said.

But unlike 1849, when prospectors went West with high hopes and too often came back broke and brokenhearted, the people who worked the Alaska pipeline returned with money in the bank.

For Jack Belmont, 27, also of Harvard, working a crane on the pipeline was a chance for him and his wife to buy a farm in Maine.

"We never had any money, and all of a sudden I was coming home with paychecks of $700," said Belmont, who worked in an apple orchard before going to Alaska.

"It enabled us to pay off all our debts and our two kids are well taken care of. The two years I spent on the pipeline would have taken me 10 years here.

"It just changed everything for us," Belmont said. "It gave us opportunities we never had . . . It was a dream for us."

For Radames Reyes, 30, of Boston, the job in Alaska reaped enough money to buy a new home for his mother in Puerto Rico. Reyes, now unemployed and living with relatives in a poor neighborhood in Boston, said he earned about $1,600 a week.

"I felt like anybody that got money," Reyes said. "I felt good."

Letarte first thought about working on the pipeline in early 1974, at the start of construction. But it was not until a friend flew to Alaska later that year and told him it was easy to find a job that he decided to make the move.

"It was for the adventure," Letarte said. "Booms like that are very luring. There will never be anything like it, except maybe someday on the moon.

"Besides," he added, "I had no better place to be."

When he arrived in Fairbanks, he applied for a job delivering pizzas. A short time later he signed up to work on the pipeline as a heavy equipment operator, a job he was confident he could do although he only had experience on farm machinery.

He was shipped to one of several remote camps where workers on the pipeline lived with free room and board.

For nine weeks at a stretch he got up at 5:30 a.m. and worked 12 hours a day before getting two weeks vacation. But he said he once worked 15 weeks without a break.

"There were really just two things in my life — working and sleeping. There wasn't much time for socializing," he said.

But because of the isolation of the camps, friends were important, Letarte said. "You'd get the 'I'm gonna quit blues,' but you'd hold each other up. It was the boredom, the routine of it all," he said.

Letarte did not have an opportunity to spend any of his new wealth except on his vacations, when he had a chance to go to Fairbanks.

"It never really hit me until I got to town," he said. "We went out one night and I spent over $75. I wouldn't have done that before because it wouldn't have been in my budget."

At first, Letarte said, he opposed the idea of the Alaska pipeline because he believed it would harm the environment — "But I figured: 'If I don't work on it, someone else will.'"

"Going up there changed my mind," he said. "The land that it passed through, it hasn't hurt. If there are no oil spills, it will be fine."

Ray a difficult prisoner

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It was typical that James Earl Ray was the only one of seven convicts who said nothing, who didn't even plead innocent, when they were punished for their dramatic prison break that ended a week ago.

Since entering prison eight years ago for the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Ray has remained alone and aloof, a man who "stays to himself" and conducts his own little battles against prison authority.

Ray has spent most of his time since 1969 in maximum security at the main prison in Nashville and at Brushy Mountain Penitentiary in East Tennessee. It was over the Brushy Mountain wall the escapees scrambled on June 10. Ray was run to ground 54½ hours later, about five miles from the prison.

Each of the seven men involved received 30 days in administrative segregation and each lost three years of honor time at an administrative hearing Friday at Brushy Mountain. The prison does not have solitary confinment.

During his imprisonment, the 49-year-old Ray has waged a private war with prison officials — at times refusing to work, tossing unwanted food from his cell and accusing his keepers of isolating him for no apparent reason.

He has spent much of his time writing legal briefs and writs in an effort to gain a new trial — he now says he is innocent — and the state is trying to persuade federal officials to take charge of him.

"He's a very difficult person to get a line on. He stays to himself and doesn't mingle. For the most part we've had little problems with him," said Charles Bass, assistant correction commisioner.

Bass was a guard at the main prison where Ray was imprisoned in 1969 and later was in charge of the cellblock where Ray was kept in maximum security.

"He never gave anyone a chance to know him," Bass said. "He would just quietly get up and do what he was told."

He has spent most of his time behind bars in Tennessee in maximum security or "administrative segregation," although he tried almost from the first day to be assigned to the general prison population.

Prison officials say Ray even refused repeatedly to appear before the disciplinary board which considers such requests.

"You have to meet with the board to be considered. They have to talk to you," one prison official explained.

On at least two occasions, Ray threw his food tray from his cell onto the walkway in front of his door.

"If you all are going to treat me like a dog, I will act like one," Ray reportedly said after a food-tossing incident in 1973. He tossed a breakfast tray through the cell bars a year later.

Bass said Ray was given an opportunity to do general maintenance work in his cellblock but refused to work after a few weeks. After refusing other work assignments, he finally settled for a job in the prison laundry — similar to a job he held at Brushy Mountain before his escape.

When Ray refused a job assignment in 1971, he reportedly said, "I would be there about three weeks and then some guy would go to the window and tell things on me. As long as you people are going to believe everything they say, I'll always be in hot water."

On several occasions Ray wrote letters to officials complaining about his being kept in maximum security.

"If it is the policy of state officials to keep me in isolation permanently and have the warden keep his foot on my neck, so to speak, I would like it known now, for the record, that I intend to do whatever necessary to get that foot off," Ray wrote in 1970.

Correction officials have said Ray was isolated from the rest of the prison population because he posed a security threat with his record of attempted breakouts and also because of possible reprisals by black inmates.

Although Ray has granted rare interviews to the news media in recent months, he has complained about reporters being on hand whenever he is taken from the prison.

"I am chained up, officials assume their junior G-men poses with me in tow while the picture crews goes into action," he wrote.

In 1971, he complained about reporters being brought to his cell at Brushy Mountain, and wrote, "My problems are legal — not public relations."

Ray was first transferred to Brushy Mountain on March 25, 1970, where he failed twice in escape attempts. He was returned to the main prison on July 22, 1972, after Brushy Mountain was closed in the wake of a strike by prison guards.

On June 7, 1976, he asked to be reassigned to Brushy Mountain on grounds that guards kept awakening him at the Nashville prison by checking his cell with a flashlight. His request was granted 10 days later.

ONE MILLIONTH OLDS

LANSING, Mich. — Oldsmobile reached another milestone today when the one millionth 1977 Olds rolled off the final assembly line at the division's home plant in Lansing.

The car, a firethorn red Cutlass Supreme coupe with a white landau top, Super Stock wheels and dual sports mirror, is powered by the one-millionth 1977 Olds engine . . . a 350-cubic-inch V-8 that was built a week earlier at the division's engine plant.

Members of the news meida and many divisional employes watched the car slowly make its way through the assembly plant that was decorated with banners and signs announcing the occasion. Olds officials said the historic Cutlass will be added to the division's collection of milestone Oldsmobiles.

Oldsmobile becomes only the third domestic manufacturer to build a million passenger cars in a single year. Ford reached a million mark for the first time in 1922 and Chevrolet followed in 1941.

Robert H. Mooney, divisional general manufacturing manager, praised the Lansing community, Oldsmobile and its employes during a civic luncheon attended by more than 100 persons.

"The high quality in our products, our people and our relationship with the community have brought us where we are today and we intend to make those same high standards our goal for the future," he emphasized.

Since its founding on August 21, 1897, Oldsmobile has produced nearly 18 million cars, a sizeable accomplishment for a company which built only four cars in its first year.

In tracing the company's history, Mooney pointed out that it took Oldsmobile 38 years, or until 1935, to build the first million cars and until 1941, or 6 years, to produce the second million. He said Oldsmobile expects to build more than 1,100,000 cars before 1977 model production concludes.

In business for 80 years, longer than any other American car manufacturer, Oldsmobile holds a solid grip on third place in domestic sales for 1977. The division also is credited with a long series of engineering firsts, including introduction of the mass assembly concept.

Other revolutionizing developments pioneered by Oldsmobile are the use of nickel plating (1907), chrome plating (1925), fully-automatic shift transmission (1939), high-compression V-8 engine 1948 and the modern-era application of front wheel drive in a full-size car (1966 Toronado).

"We are pleased with Oldsmobile's accomplishments and we are approaching the future with optimism," Mooney said.

Following is a breakdown by car line of the one million 1977 Oldsmobiles.

Joyce Brothers
Use of marijuana

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I just discovered that my 18-year-old daughter, a high school senior, has been smoking marijuana. I may sound old-fashioned, but I was disappointed and shocked. My wife feels we should discuss this with the school authorities. My neighbor practically laughed in my face and hinted that the teachers too are probably smoking grass. Are we overreacting. — R.C.

Dear R.C.: Apparently, more than half of the Americans in the 18 to 25 age group have tried marijuana at least once. A recent Gallup survey showed 55 per cent of college students had tried the drug. I'm not suggesting that because it isn't unusual that it's acceptable. This is a question that parents and youngsters must decide for themselves. What I am saying is that I don't think it would be wise to take the matter to the school authorities without first discussing it with your daughter. After all, she is reaching the age when she should be setting her own rules and ethical standards. Wherever she goes, marijuana is going to be readily available. Many parents may not approve, but this is a realistic approach. It is already against the law, so simply reporting it to another authority isn't going to solve her problem.

I do suggest you try to find out how much she's smoking; why and when she uses it. She may have only experimented under strong pressure from other students. If this is the case you might try to build up her self-esteem so she doesn't feel she has to do anything she doesn't wish to do in order to "fit in" or be accepted. Experimental drug-users often try something out of curiosity or a desire for a new sensual experience. They may also be attempting to let their parents know they're growing up, a kind of adolescent rebellion.

Adolescent drug use can be prompted by inner emotional, social and family pressures. Find out what your daughter wants from the drug, how she feels about it, and ask her directly if she's using it as an escape hatch for emotional problems she feels she's incapable of facing head on. She may not be. If she is, she may welcome the opportunity to bring some of these conflicts out into the open.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My husband becomes very jealous when I touch people, but it's hard for me not to. We touched a lot in my family and it's just my way of expressing friendship and love. I certainly don't think touching someone's hand or arm is a sexual advance. My husband doesn't like to be touched. On the other hand, he frequently touches me when he wants me to step back and let him take the floor, especially if I express a view that differs from his. — C.P.

Dear C.P.: How much people touch, and what that touch means depends a great deal on whether or not they were cuddled and touched in childhood. It's extremely important to give children lots of physical reassurance of your love. Touching is one of the earliest forms of love and communication that begins when the mother touches and fondles her baby. Children who haven't been touched enough often grow up to be out of touch with those around them.

To some, touching is a way to gain control and establish power.

By touching friends at parties you may unconsciously be trying to assert yourself and establish the position and power your husband won't allow you to gain in other ways.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks rallied along a fairly broad front early Tuesday in response to indications inflation was easing. Trading was heavy.

Wall Street investors hailed the Labor Department's report that May's Consumer Price Index rose 0.6 per cent, or at a 7.2 per cent annual rate. That was down from the 0.8 per cent, or 9.6 per cent annual rate, hike in April.

Investors also were encourged by indications the economy's growth was strong. Revised government figures showed the first quarter Gross National Product climbed 6.9 per cent and corporate profits jumped 5.1 per cent.

Against that background, the Dow Jones industrial average, a 3.82-point winner Monday, was ahead 4.33 points to 928.60 shortly before noon EDT.

Advances led declines, 753 to 352, among the 1,635 issues crossing the tape. There were 530 unchanged issues, however, indicating a sizable number of investors were uncertain about the course of the market and the economy.

Volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 12,400,000 shares, up sharply from the 10,330,000 traded during the same period Monday.

Sony Corp. was the most active NYSE issue, off ¼ to 9¼ following block trades of 300,000 shares at 9⅜ and 250,000 shares at 9¼. Federal National Mortgage followed, up ⅛ to 16⅛.

Twentieth Century-Fox, which lost a point Monday, was the third most active issue, off another 1⅜ to 21⅞. Columbia Pictures was off ⅞ to 14. Both had registered big gains lately and are being hurt by profit taking.

Sunstrand was ahead ¾ after the company predicted its second quarter earnings would be 10 per cent above the $1.16 a share it reported last year.

Data General was off ½. The computer firm reported third quarter earnings of 68 cents a share, compared with 52 cents a year ago.

Applied Digital Data Systems was off 1¼ after the company reported second quarter earnings of 22 cents a share, compared with 28 cents on fewer shares a year ago.

Prices were higher in active trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Goldfield Corp. was the most active issue, up ⅛ to 1. Houston Oil & Minerals followed, up ⅞ to 57⅝. Resorts International A stock was third, up ⅝ to 18⅝.

San Dimas firm reports earnings

SAN DIMAS, Calif. — (BW) — Acme General Corp. (NASDAQ) reported record second-quarter and six-month results for fiscal 1977.

Herbert Hezlep III, president of Acme General, said that net income for the 26 weeks ended May 1 rose to $881,000, or 61 cents a share, compared with $758,000, or 53 cents, in the like period a year ago. Revenues for the first half increased to $12,629,000 compared to $9,659,000 last year.

Net income for the second quarter increased to $605,000, or 42 cents, compared to $463,000, or 32 cents, last year. Revenues for the quarter rose to $7,834,000 compared to $5,115,000 in fiscal 1976.

Hezlep indicated that Acme's first-half and second-quarter results for fiscal 1977 include the month of April sales and earnings of Burgess Vibrocrafters Inc., which became a wholly owned subsidiary of Acme General during the second quarter.

In reviewing operations, Hezlep attributed Acme General's record first-half results to the continuing improvement in the housing and mobile home fields and to excellent progress in increasing the company's market share of traditional hardware products in the United States, Canada and overseas.

During the first half of fiscal 1977, Acme has continued to successfully market its consumer product lines to home improvement centers and the "do-it-yourself" consumer. In addition, the operations of Burgess Vibrocrafters contributed to the record results particularly in the area of lawn and garden products.

Hezlep indicated that the outlook for the balance of fiscal 1977 looks very encouraging which should result in the company's reporting continued improvement in profitability.

Continuation of good economic news helping

NEW YORK (AP) — The continuation of good economic news from the Washington statistics factory is putting some stock market analysts in a decidely sanguine mood.

Whether investors will follow their advice is another matter, to be sure, especially since margin debt on the New York Stock Exchange rose to a record-high level of $9.07 billion in May.

Still, the gradual fading of the somber mood that had gripped many an independent analyst for the past year or more is like a damp fog lifting. A few rays of sunshine are penetrating now, and it might warm things up.

If statistics can be believed, the news has been quite good.

Personal income in May rose six-tenths of 1 per cent; the prime rate was cut to 6.5 per cent by a major bank; retail sales rose to an annual rate of $60 billion in May; industrial output soared 1.1 per cent.

And more; housing starts have surprised almost everyone, and now even the doubters are realizing that a two-million unit year is possible; the jobless rate is down to 6.9 per cent; the wholesale price rise is slowing.

Perhaps more important than any of these is what is perceived to be the attitude of the Federal Reserve Board, or specifically, the attitude of Arthur F. Burns, its chairman.

No analyst of stock market behavior could possibly ignore the views of Burns because it is he more than any other man who dictates monetary policy — the supply of money, the level of interest rates and the like.

Great fears existed throughout the economy that Burns would view the present expansion as potentially dangerous, that is inflationary, and begin to squeeze on the money supply spigot. Those fears have now lessened.

One of the first reactions to these events has been the return of interest in some of the higher quality issues with long-established records for growth and dividend.

Earlier in the recovery cycle some of these issues were neglected by investors who instead jumped aboard the cyclical stocks, which were seen as the chief beneficiaries of the bounce back from recession.

Wright Investors' Service, to name one, believes that period is now behind us and that during the remainder of this year and into next the emphasis will be on high-quality growth stocks.

"Most high-quality growth stocks are now priced at about half of their normal price-value ratios," said John Wright in an assessment of the current market. In 1972, he said, these same stocks had price-value ratios double their norms.

Another consequence of the changing attitude of investors has been a gradual but rather consistent rise in trading volume, although no prominent analyst so far has declared the return of the small investor.

ASSASSINATION SCARE

Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, left, talks with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing at a chateau near Paris Monday. Soviet security officials warned their French counterparts an hour before Brezhnev's arrival in Paris of a possible attempt on the Soviet president's life by an assassin equipped with a rifle with telescopic sights. Brezhnev is in France for a three-day visit.

FDA takes step to ban use of all over-counter daytime sedatives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration intends to ban all over the counter daytime sedatives, it announced today.

FDA commissioner Donald Kennedy said such products as Cope, Compoz, Miles Nervine, Tranquim and Quiet World would be affected.

The FDA commissioner said he knew of no evidence that daytime sedatives lessen anxiety or otherwise provide sedation other than by causing drowsiness.

Users of these products, he said, run the risk of being drowsy during the day when they may be operating automobiles or dangerous machines and need to be alert.

Dr. Kennedy made the announcement during a hearing on sedatives conducted by a Senate Small Business Monopoly subcommittee.

About $7 million a year is made by drug companies from daytime sedatives.

There are roughly 10 major daytime sedatives. Labeling and advertising for the sedatives may contain such terms as "calmative," for the relief of "simple nervous tension" or "sedative."

Kennedy said that, given the risks of drowsiness "and the absence of any demonstrated medical benefit, there seems to be no justification for the continued marketing of these products."

The first step in removing daytime sedatives from the market will be the publication of a tentative FDA regulation later this year. After that, hearings will be held to gather testimony from the public and industry.

The FDA then plans to publish a final regulation, with a projected time for removing the nonprescription daytime sedatives from the market about mid-1978.

Kennedy said he has asked the National Cancer Institute to review an independent study that the antihistamine, Methapyrilene, which is used in sleep aids and other over the counter products, is linked to cancer.

Methapyrilene is a major ingredient in every sleep aid and daytime sedative on the over the counter market. It is also prominently used in most cough and cold remedies.

Last Tuesday Dr. William Lijimsky of the Frederick Cancer Research Center in Maryland testified before the subcommitee that his study showed that methapyrilene in some instances could be linked to liver cancer in rats.

Lijimsky said that methapyrilene could react with nitrites in the stomach to form a cancer-causing ingredient called dimethylnitrosamine. He said that 30 per cent of the rats fed a combination of methapyrilene and a nitrite got some form of liver cancer.

Nitrites are used in the preparation of bacon and some prepackaged sandwich meats.

Kennedy said that the research on the Lijimsky test should be concluded within two months and the FDA will then make a decision whether to ban dugs which contain methapyrilene.

Home fire fatal to Ontario woman

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

A 62-year-old Ontario woman died in a fire Monday afternoon which heavily damaged her home at 1018 Orchard Lane.

The victim, according to the Ontario Fire Department, was Mrs. Irene Holbrook. Her husband, Gilbert, and her son, Stephen, in his early 20s, were at work when the fire started, firemen said.

A discarded cigarette may have been the cause of the blaze which firemen believe smoldered inside the house from 1½ to 2 hours before it was detected.

Stephen arrived home about 5:30 p.m. to discover the inside of the home consumed in flames, firemen said. His attempts to gain entrance were futile because of the intense heat.

Mrs. Holbrook's body was not found until the fire had been brought under control. Firemen said she had been burned beyond recognition.

The San Bernardino County Coroner's office will perform an autopsy to determine cause of death.

The interior of the home, built about 1948, was all wood and extremely combustible, firemen said.

Loss estimates were $25,000 to the house and $10,000 to contents.

May hike marks 5th straight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher food and fuel prices pushed consumer prices up six-tenths of 1 per cent in May, the fifth consecutive month of big price hikes, the government reported today.

The increase, following April's rise of eight-tenths of 1 per cent, shows inflation is continuing but not accelerating.

Food prices, which have sparked this year's surge of inflation, jumped another seven-tenths of a per cent in May. Although the increase was about half the rise in April, it exceeded the increases posted in every month of 1976 except one — the eight-tenths of 1 per cent gain in May a year ago.

Prices for ground coffee jumped another 10.3 per cent last month, while instant coffee rose 7 per cent, the government said. Wholesale coffee prices declined last month but the drop has not been reflected at the retail level.

Gasoline and motor oil rose eight-tenths of 1 per cent, and new cars were up nine-tenths of 1 per cent.

The average price for a gallon of regular grade gasoline rose 1.1 per cent in May to 62.6 cents per gallon. Premium prices also rose 1.1 per cent and averaged 67.6 cents per gallon.

The May increase in consumer prices, equivalent to an annual rate of 7.2 per cent, is still above the 6 per cent level that administration economists regard as the nation's underlying rate of inflation.

During the first three months of the year, inflation rose at a nearly 10 per cent annual rate, largely because of surging food and energy prices that reflected the effects of the severe winter weather on crops and fuel supplies.

Government economists predict that spiralling food costs will slow down later this year, easing the overall pressure on consumers' pocketbooks.

The Labor Department said its consumer price index for May stood at 180.6 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods priced at $100 10 years ago cost $180.60 last month.

It's 1st day of summer!

At precisely 12:14 p.m. Greenwich Mean Time today, that's 4:14 a.m. locally, the sun reached the Tropic of Cancer at 23 degrees 27 minutes north latitude.

Put more simply — today is the first day of summer.

While the sun is climbing to that high point in the sky today, the weatherman was predicting temperatures would climb to about 85 degrees in the valley after early morning clouds burn off.

Beaches were expected to warm up to 70 and mountain areas to about 80, while the deserts will be sizzling at temperatures up to 108.

Much the same is expected Wednesday following an overnight low of 55 in the valley.

Being the first day of summer, today is also one of the longest days of the year in terms of hours of sunlight. The sun rose locally this morning at 5:40 a.m. and will not set tonight until 8:05 p.m.

Brake handle carried no warning

No charge against boy in fatal train accident

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

No charges have been filed against a 14-year-old boy who authorities say released the brakes on a parked tandem of railroad cars in Pomona, allowing them to roll almost 18 miles to Duarte and crush to death a 16-year-old youth there.

The accident occurred June 3. The boy who was killed was Monte Annet. The 14-year-old suspect, a Pomona boy, was arrested a few days later by sheriff's investigators. He since has been released without charge after the district attorney's office ruled that no conviction could be obtained because the brake handle carried no warning and thus the youth could not have been expected to know the possible consequences of his act.

The two cars, which are designed to transport automobiles, rolled all the way to Duarte, killed the boy who was walking along the tracks, and did not stop until they lost momentum on an uphill grade. When they bore down on young Annet they were traveling almost silently on a quarter-mile section of solidly-welded track.

The two cars reached speeds of up to 30 miles an hour, along the Santa Fe Railroad right-of-way.

Railroad officials said later that they knew electronically when the tandem of cars rolled onto the Santa Fe mainline, but they could do nothing about it. No locomotive was nearby which could have run down the cars and captured them with an automatic coupling device; no brakemen were along the route to switch the cars onto a siding; and no one was near enough to place an automatic derailing device on the track to knock the runaways off the rails.

There apparently is no completely fail-safe method to prevent the accident from occurring again, except to have the thousands of miles of railroad tracks guarded so heavily that trespassers would be caught. That method is impossible because of the cost, a railroad spokesman said.

$3.3 million windfall for Pomona

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Pomona will get a $3.3 million windfall during the next fiscal year as its share of the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), Los Angeles County officials revealed today.

The proposal to allocate $109 million to the county's governmental agencies between now and September 1978 was approved by the county Board of Supervisors today.

It includes a stimulus of $58 million approved by President Carter.

The money is to be used to provide jobs for poverty-level residents.

Supervisor James Hayes said he had been informed that the jobs will be "more than make-work." He said the workers will help in the energy conservation field, such as winterization of public buildings and improvements in the water systems.

Under the newest CETA funding, the effort will be to reach the long-term unemployed and the low-income worker with an emphasis on finding jobs for veterans, the supervisor explained.

Disclosure of Pomona's share was part of an early report. Allocations to smaller cities will be made in the next few days, Clayton Cottrell, director of the Community Development Department, said.

Pomona's allocation was double the amount originally expected. The original estimate had called for a total of $1,212,308. The stimulus program adds another $2,160,323 to that program.

The proposal was given to the supervisors this morning and went through quickly. Cottrell had told the board that to implement the program in time, speedy action was needed.

Hayes said the new funds will allow a 100 per cent increase in the number of employes under CETA.

Pilot killed in crash of plane near golf course

CORONA (AP) — The body of a Santa Ana pilot was to be removed today from the wreckage of his single-engine plane that crashed in rugged terrain on its way to Chino Airport, the coroner's office said.

Richard Donovan DeBrick, 24, crashed in Santa Ana Canyon near Green River golf course Monday. He was alone in the plane, Riverside County sheriff's deputies said.

Coroner's investigators were to remove the body from the twisted wreckage of the Cessna 340 with cutting torches later in the day, authorities said.

Haldeman gets ready for prison

Former Nixon aide begins term Wednesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harry Robbins Haldeman has an appointment with the U.S. government. Five years and five days after the Watergate break-in, he dons prison grays and starts serving time for his part in the Watergate coverup.

"I go to prison on the 22nd," was Haldeman's terse reply when asked to comment recently on his upcoming incarceration. Speaking was the matter-of-fact, self-assured Haldeman of the days when he was President Richard Nixon's top staff man — literally the country's second in command.

Haldeman was convicted on New Year's Day 1975, along with John Ehrlichman and John Mitchell, of conspiracy to obstruct justice, of obstructing justice and of lying under oath. Each was sentenced to 2½-to-8-year terms.

On Wednesday Haldeman begins a 2½-to-8-year sentence at the Lompoc Federal Correctional Facility, a minimum security institution some 200 miles northwest of here.

Mitchell, the former attorney general, reports Wednesday to a federal prison on a military base in Alabama. Ehrlichman began serving his time last year at a federal prison camp in Arizona.

Life at Lompoc will be a stark contrast to Haldeman's current lifestyle.

Haldeman lives well. He has a tidy pension that his 20 years at J. Walter Thompson advertising agency earned him.

A New York Times-owned publishing house, Quadrangle, has bought the book he is writing about Watergate, paying Haldeman an advance which a Quadrangle editor called "a substantial, generous amount, more than we usually pay an author."

Haldeman has bought a $250,000 Tudor-style home in the Hancock Park area, an island of affluence among the tacky Hollywood flats.

In the evenings, he walks his huge African ridgeback dog along the Sycamore-lined street, always ready with warm smiles and friendly words for neighbors. They see him as a maligned hero, an honest, brilliant man blessed with "the most wonderful children in the world" and cursed with malevolent political enemies.

"They're ideal neighbors," says Mrs. John Stevens, wife of an industrial manufacturer. "He's a very normal, decent, kind neighbor with four of the most wonderful kids you ever saw ... His wife Jo is a very fine person. We're very saddened by it. We all think it's very, very unfair. We don't think he did anything to deserve it."

Last Sunday, Haldeman was at UCLA's Royce Hall, watching his daughter Susie graduate from law school. Haldeman, too, attended UCLA, receiving his bachelor's degree in business administration.

Haldeman has also gone back to his religion, Christian Science. For several months, he labored one night a week in the Christian Science Reading Room downtown, explaining the faith to the uninitiated, handing out pamphlets and keeping copies of the Christian Science Monitor in order.

"I figured it wasn't any of my business what his problems were, so I didn't ask him any questions," said a fellow worker, who saw Haldeman as a prodigal son come home.

"He knows what Christian Science can do," she said, "and he knows that if he'd been applying it, he could have avoided the mess he's in."

Child pornography bills

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Tougher laws against child pornography, described as a fastgrowing, multimillion-dollar illicit business, are halfway through the California Legislature.

The Senate Monday, without a dissenting vote, sent two bills to the Assembly aimed at clamping down on pornographers who exploit children in sex films and magazines.

Approved was a bill, SB 740, by Sen. Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa, that would define "obscene nudity" involving minors as any material that depicts a sexual act or draws attention to the genital areas. It would ban such materials effective Jan. 1.

The bill also would make violations a felony, subject to 4-, 5or 6-year prison terms if a minor between 15 and 18 was involved, and 7, 8 or 9 years if a minor 14 or under was involved.

Nursing home 'strike force'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A legislative budget committee has chopped out funding for a Brown administration nursing home "strike force," formed to crack down on abuse of elderly patients.

The strike force, now about 30 lawyers and health professionals, travels the state investigating reports of poor care, unclean conditions and fraud at nursing homes and state mental hospitals.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s Finance Department had asked for more than $1.2 million, to expand the force to 68. An early budget hearing in the Assembly cut the amount to $519,000, for a force of 15 lawyers and eight medical professionals.

The two-house conference committee refused to approve even that amount Monday, voting instead 5-0 to pay for only two attorneys involved in checking state mental hospitals.

Landlord-tenant court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A tenant fighting an eviction notice or a landlord trying to collect four months' back rent will have a special court in which to air their complaints beginning Wednesday.

Municipal Court is setting up a branch to handle only landlord-tenant disputes, Presiding Judge Irwin Nebron said Monday.

"We are convinced that a specialized court will insure more equal justice through allowing the sitting judge to become sensitive to the problems of both landlords and tenants in this technical area of the law," Nebron said.

The judge said that the special court, the first of its kind in the state, is needed both to handle the large number of cases and to develop experience in landlord-tenant disputes.

Marine's charges reduced

CAMP PENDLETON (AP)— The Marine Corps is substantially reducing charges against one of 14 black Marines charged in last November's attack on seven white Marines.

Both prosecutors and defense lawyers said Monday Cpl. Curtis Jones Jr., 22, of Seale Russell, Ala., entered a guilty plea to charges of simple conspiracy and assault.

The reduced charges are expected to cut possible punishment from 21 years to less than six months, the Pendleton Legal Defense said.

Lt. Col. William Draper, trial judge of a general court martial, accepted the guilty plea and said sentencing of Jones would be announced after formal seating of a jury, which will then be told of the pretrial agreement.

$1 million building fire

SUN VALLEY (AP) — A fire that burned out of control for 90 minutes this morning caused an estimated $1 million damage at a large building in the eastern San Fernando Valley.

There were no injuries, according to Ned Chatfield, the Los Angeles Fire department spokesman who provided the damage estimate.

The fire was reported at 3:44 a.m. and was declared under control about 5:15 a.m., Chatfield said.

The building, 150 feet long and 300 feet wide, was reported at leat two-thirds destroyed. It houses "Designs by MJW, Inc."

Mobilehome tenants' rights

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation giving mobilehome tenants new rights faces a probable second vote in the Assembly after winning passage on its first vote.

Foes who said Monday the measure is tantamount to rent control delayed its further progress by moving for reconsideration of the bill, by Assemblyman Terry Goggin, D-San Bernardino.

The bill won a 41-25 tally despite mobilehome industry opposition. That was the bare majority needed for passage.

Now Goggin probably will have to bring it up again for another vote this week because of the reconsideration maneuver.

Catholic teachers' benefits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lay teachers in Southern California's Roman Catholic high schools have won improved benefits in a new agreement worked out with church officials.

The United Catholic Secondary Teachers Association and school administrators of the Los Angeles Archdiocese and the Orange Diocese Monday announced a new pact offering 550 teachers in 26 schools improved benefits. Those included maternity leaves, as well as agreement that teachers could be dismissed only for just cause.

The contract offer came nearly three months after a 21-day walkout by Catholic high school teachers.

VACATION TIME NEARS

With the state legislature having been in session for the past six months and hopefully planning to start their six-week summer vacation within a few days, Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Beverly Hills, possibly expressed the feelings of all his fellow lawmakers as he emitted this healthy yawn during the Assembly floor session Monday.

One convicted spy gets postponement, other gets 6 years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The sentencing of convicted spy Andrew Daulton Lee has been postponed for national security reasons, but his codefendant, Christopher Boyce, was given a tentative six-year term for espionage and conspiracy.

The two men, found guilty of selling national secrets to the Soviets, appeared at separate hearings Monday. Lee sat silently while his attorneys contended he was innocent.

Boyce made a tearful apology to his father and his country for his confessed betrayal of classified information.

"I express profound regret to the American people and their principles," said Boyce, "...I did a great disservice to these people."

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Kelleher ordered Boyce to undergo a 90-day diagnostic study at the federal correctional facility at Springfield, Mo.

Pending results of that psychological evaluation, the judge temporarily sentenced Boyce under the federal Young Adult Offenders Act to six years on one of the eight counts of his conviction. He will be re-sentenced Sept. 12, at which time he could draw a stiffer penalty.

The temporary sentence is required for the psychological evaluation to begin.

At a separate hearing, Lee's lawyers lost a battle to upset his conviction on grounds that jurors were swayed by exposure to news of Boyce's earlier conviction. The judge ruled that no impropriety occurred.

The government moved unexpectedly to postpone Lee's sentencing and defense attorney Kenneth Kahn would say only that national security was involved.

He acknowledged that the government is seeking to debrief Lee about his contact with the Soviets.

Boyce, in tears, stood before the judge at his earlier hearing and spoke of the WatergateVietnam era which disallusioned him.

He portrayed himself as part of a generation which "placed little or no faith in our established institutions."

"What I failed to understand," he said, "was that it didn't matter if the President was a criminal ... if the land was filled with prejudice and bias ... or that we could kill and maim in Vietnam for eight years. It didn't matter if we could assassinate and topple elected governments.

He said his chief error was "in failing to appreciate that my country is anchored in principles no matter what the practices of its government."

Montclair council okays six-point package

Firefighters to get 17.5 increase

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Montclair City Council accepted a memorandum of understanding Monday night from the Montclair Firefighters Association that will give the organization members a 17½ per cent salary and fringe benefit package for two years.

The council unanimously accepted and filed the sixpoint package that will benefit 36 firefighters. The agreement does not cover management or clerical personnel in the Montclair Fire Department.

The package is similar in some respects to an agreement rejected last week by the Montclair Police Association. In the negotiations with police personnel, an impasse has been declared and a meeting is scheduled for this week to determine if that declaration will be officially upheld by City Administrator Lauren Wasserman who serves as the municipal employes relations officer.

The firefighters, fire engineer and fire captain all receive a 5 per cent salary increase in the first year of their contract; and the fire prevention inspector receives an increase of 5½ per cent. Both salary schedules are effective July 4, the first day of the first pay period in the 1977-78 fiscal year. In the 1978-79 fiscal year, the salary increase will be 5 per cent to firefighters; 7.36 per cent to engineers and prevention inspector; and 5.78 per cent to fire captains.

The city has also agreed to absorb the increases in fringe benefit costs which result from the proposed salary increase, according to a staff report from Assistant City Administrator Mike Milhiser. This includes increases in retirement costs, life insurance, workers' compensation, vacation and sick leave, sick leave redemption expenses, unemployment insurance and overtime expenses.

A third part of the agreement calls for a retiring firefighter to take his retirement compensation on the basis of the final and highest salary year. Previously, retirement benefits were based on the average of the three highest salaried years.

The memo of understanding also increases the city contribution to $24.41 from $19.59 for group health and accident insurance; and increases the maximum coverage from $20,000 to $1 million per employe. Dental insurance coverage through Connecticut General Insurance Co. remains $10.02 for the city contribution in this upcoming fiscal year, but it could increase to $12.02 if necessary to cover dental contributions in 1978-79.

The cost for dependent coverage will be paid by the employe, according to the agreement. The final provision specifies that if an employe works more than four shifts in a different job classification he will be compensated 5 per cent from the fifth shift to such time that he returns to his regular job duties.

"We worked with the firefighters' association and worked together in order to come out with a mutually effective memorandum of understanding," Milhiser said.

Claremont City Council holds meeting tonight

A recommendation that holds be placed on all one-time expenditures and all proposed park improvement capital expenditures will be discussed by the Claremont City Council at an adjourned meeting today at 7:30 p.m. at the Claremont Public Library.

City Manager Norman King reported the city may enjoy a somewhat higher ending balance for fiscal 1977-78 than anticipated.

He said a proposed $75,000 "deficit" in the 1977-78 budget may be reduced and more one-time balance funds may be available for expenditure next year.

King said the council may wish to adopt the basic operating budget, but not act on certain expenditures until the books are cleared for 1976-77.

An exception to the hold on park improvements would be the Cahuilla Park restrooms. King suggested the council decide as soon as possible what will be spent next year in the city parks to enable city crews to begin a "rather ambitious park development program."

The council also will consider a request from Actors' Repertory Theatre asking for $300 for transportation for senior citizens on Sunday to attend the Claremont Playhouse, and $300 to enhance the Children's Theatre program.

The Independent Cities of Los Angeles County has invited the city to join that organization for $261 during 1977-78.

The council also will discuss a request from Pomona Valley Community Services that Pomona, Claremont, San Dimas and La Verne sign a joint powers agreement to gain grant funds from Caltrans.

Correction

In a recent story concerning the U.S. Justice Department being asked to investigate the death of Rudy Garcia in Pomona, it was erroneously reported that a Justice Department official was already in the city meeting with the Latin community.

A representative of the agency, Fred Gray, has been working in the community, meeting with city officials and members of the Minority Coalition for Equal Justice, which represents not only Latin residents but black residents as well.

Claremont planners discuss Myers ranch

The hotly-disputed Myers ranch is back on the Claremont Planning Commission's agenda for its 7:30 p.m. meeting today at the council chamber.

William Myers has asked the city for a conditional use permit to allow a horse ranch of up to 42 horses at the Claremont Riding Academy, 4030 N. Mills Ave.

Myers has made approval of the permit a condition of his being annexed to the City of Claremont. He also is asking that about 13 acres in proposed Annexation 54 be pre-zoned from county zoning agricultural 15,000-square-foot lots to single-family 20,000-square-foot lots.

Myers had requested the matter be deferred at least two weeks because some of his supporters were out of town.

The commission will discuss a general plan change for the area bounded by Base Line Road, Mills Avenue, Foothill Boulevard and the county line, a permit to allow a one-story nursing home at Pilgrim Place, a permit to allow the erection of a 30-room housing unit for Western Assemblies Home on Berkeley Avenue, and a permit for the Claremont Tennis Club to expand its facilities by six tennis courts.

The commission will hold a preliminary discussion on the freeway commercial property on the west side of Indian Hill Boulevard, south of the San Bernardino Freeway.

41 perish in Ivory Coast nitery blaze

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) — Flames gutted a night club popular with European tourists and local residents early today, and the French consulate reported 41 persons killed and four seriously injured.

D.B. school site tests to be recommended

The Pomona school board will receive a recommendation from Assistant Supt. for Business Lynn Rountree for the district architects of Cashion and Horie to prepare geological and seismic tests of the three sites proposed for the Diamond Bar high school at the regular meeting of the board tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Education Center.

The proposal marks a turnabout in Rountree's earlier recommendation to the board last Thursday when he suggested hiring someone in no way connected with any of the sites to prepare the reports which the board will use in determining the eventual school site.

The board will also hear a report from Rountree on the possibility of providing a prefabricated building for the Marshall Junior High School cafeteria as an alternative to the previous plans submitted. The prefabricated structure would be considerably less costly.

The board will also receive a report on its 1977-78 insurance portfolio. Insurance costs are expected to increase dramatically in the coming year.

A newspaper and mayor join the smut war

New York . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says it has limited the amount and type of advertising it will carry about pornographic films.

The new rules, which go into effect July 1, were announced Monday by Publisher Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, who said much advertising of "films whose primary emphasis is the protrayal of sex acts is as much a blight in print as displays for pornographic films are a blight on our city streets."

"The Times," Sulzberger said, "believes it can distinguish pornographic films from some other contemporary films in which explicit sex is part of a wider appeal and purpose...

"The new policy reflects our regard for the sensibilities of our readers and a sense of responsibility as citizens of New York."

Sulzberger said the Times, recognizing that some readers might want to know the names of theaters and times of performances on such films, will print this information in singlecolumn advertisements with no pictures or descriptive material.

Movie titles must be no more than one inch high — 1⅜ inches for both titles of a double feature.

The Times also said it would accept only one ad from any one theater in a single day's editions. If the newspaper considers the film title or the theater's name to be offensive, the ad will not be accepted.

Sulzberger said banning all X-rated film advertising would not solve the problem because the "X" rating only signifies that children should not be admitted, and does not necessarily mean the film is pornographic.

Also, he said, "many pornographic films are not rated but rather exhibitors or producers place an 'X' or 'XXX' marking on the advertising on their own, as a promotion device."

The Times said it carries about $750,000 worth of advertising a year for pornographic films. There was no immediate estimate on how much the new policy would cost the newspaper.

. . . Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Ralph Perk's smut poll, put in the hands of garbagemen for delivery to 240,000 residences, has drawn a mixture of responses, ranging from "it's a farce" to "it's a good idea."

In response to the poll, City Council President George Forbes, who has been poking fun at Perk's war on pornography, invited strippers to perform at a hearing on ntismut legislation. Forbes said he wanted councilmen to see for themselves whether nude performers were a threat to the city.

Scores of city workers started delivering questionnaires houseto-house Monday, and Perk said copies of the poll would be in each of the city's residences by the end of the week.

Perk said his campaign had nothing to do with his reelection campaign.

The four-page questionnaire is fronted by a letter from Perk saying he is "declaring war on pornography" and needs the poll to set community standards acceptable by the Supreme Court in obscenity cases, so "we can drive this filth from our streets."

But some judges have said the poll lacks objectivity and would not be acceptable in court.

The questionnaire got mixed reactions from residents.

"I hope Perk succeeds," said Mary Gill, who was washing windows on the front porch of her westside home when William Butler, a sanitation department laborer, handed her a form and a stamped envelope to return it.

"But they'll get it (pornography) someplace if they want it," Mrs. Gill added.

"I hate having the kids see that stuff," she yelled at her neighbor.

"I hate having anybody see it," the neighbor yelled back.

An eastside woman, Shannon Abbey, said she thought the stores "should be able to sell whatever they want to. It's up to the parents to teach their kids what's right," she added.

Cene Holley, who was sitting on the front steps in the sunshine with her young children when the city worker came by with questionnaires, said she thought it was "a good idea." With a nod at her 7-year-old daughter, she added, "It'll stop a lot of kids her age from getting raped."

News briefs

Rape charged

A 15-year-old Pomona youth was arrested Monday by police who booked him on rape and child-molesting charges. The teen-ager, a Garey High School student, was accused of offenses against a 10-year-old neighborhood girl which were alleged to have taken place in his home.

Nuclear talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain will join U.S-Soviet talks for a total ban on nuclear weapons testing, the Washington Post reported in its Tuesday editions.

The talks, which begin in Geneva on July 13, follow productive test ban discussions between the two superpowers last week in Washington.

Saccharin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed mid-summer ban on saccharin will be delayed while the Food and Drug Administration evaluates a new Canadian study linking the artificial sweetener to bladder cancer in men.

The FDA cited evidence linking saccharin to bladder cancer in laboratory rats last March 9, when it announced plans for prohibiting the marketing of the sugar substitute as a food additive by July or August.

The agency's decision was based on an earlier Canadian study showing that large amounts of saccharin caused bladder cancer in laboratory rats.

U.S. snooping

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The South Korean government asked U.S. Ambassador Richard Sneider today for an explanation of a New York Times report that the United States conducted electronic surveillance of President Park Chunghee's office in 1975.

Korean officials said Sneider told Foreign Minister Park Tongjin the newspaper report was groundless, and he expressed his regret.

Coal strikes

Wildcat strikes began to spread through the Appalachian coal fields today and coal officials blamed them on cutbacks in union health benefits requiring members to pay part of hospitalization costs.

OAS meet

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (AP) — A procedural victory for the United States at the Organization of American States meeting has improved prospects for adoption of an American resolution on human rights.

The OAS assembly on Monday adopted a resolution aimed at combating terrorism and rejected efforts by four military dictatorships to link it with the human rights resolution. U.S. officials said the separate passage of the terrorism measure, which was sponsored by the Dominican Republic, greatly improves chances the OAS will adopt the American resolution on human rights.

Driver hurt as car hits pole

A Claremont motorist suffered back and rib injuries Monday when his car slammed into a utility pole at San Antonio and Hallwood avenues in Pomona.

The driver, Derrick Thomas, 20, was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital with the recommendation that he seek followup care.

Police reported that Thomas was northbound when his car left the road and struck the pole. The impact jarred loose the transformer atop the pole, Officer Walter Barkley said.

Police said Thomas told them he must have fallen asleep.

Generals abound in new Israeli regime

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel's new conservative government has one thing in common with the Labor governments that preceded it — plenty of former generals in the cabinet.

Four out of the 21 members of the last Labor cabinet had been generals, including Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin. The proportion is nearly double in Menahem Begin's new streamlined, 13-member cabinet.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan was a hero of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war and the army chief of staff. Defense Minister Ezer Weisman was the air force chief who planned the destruction of the opposing Arab air forces in that war. Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon was the hero of the Suez Canal crossing in 1973. And Begin commanded the Irgun Zvai Leumi guerrillas in the war for independence although he never served in the regular army.

The new prime minister is still trying to get the centrist Democratic Movement for Change to join his rightist coalition. If he succeeds, he will get more military men. The DMC has three prominent ex-generals including its leader, Yigael Yadin.

So many former military commanders are political leaders because Israel has been in a state of war since it was established 29 years ago, and the Jewish population today totals only 3 million. There has never been enough leadership material for the government, the rest of the civilian sector and a corps of professional officers who could be put out to pasture when their military careers were over.

But the democratic tradition is strong, and persons are barred by law from being in the military and in politics at the same time.

"I suspect Israel will stay the same, a democratic garrison state, not a militaristic one," said a leading political scientist, Prof. Shevah Weiss of Haifa University, in an interview Monday.

Israel's generals, he continued, are socialists, communists, peaceniks and strategic activists, some who want to give up all the occupied territories and some who want to keep them.

One thing they have in common "is a very democratic education," Weiss added. "Many were fighters in the Haganah or the Palmach (pre-independence military groups) which were organized very democratically. And in Israel the civilian leadership has always been in command of the military. This is why we have no atmosphere of military revolution in Israel."

"The comparison between generals in other countries and Israeli generals is fallacious," said Yitzhak Ben-Aharon, a former Labor party member of parliament. "Our people are civilians in uniform. There is no military caste here."

But the garrison atmosphere is strong.

Uniformed soldiers carrying automatic rifles are seen everywhere, lounging in coffee shops, congregating at bus stops, patrolling the beaches and borders.

Garage fires deliberate?

Pomona Fire Department officials are investigating two fires in garages at 668 E. Eighth St. Monday which caused about $1,000 damage.

One of the apartments of a six-unit complex at the same address was damaged by fire set by matches thrown through a window a few days ago, firemen said.

The property is owned by Obeal Labay of Ontario. The garages were used by Sandra Tillman and by Ray Tannenhill.

Brake line sabotage

A Pomona woman told police Monday that she feels an attempt was made on her life by the person who sliced the brake line on her automobile.

The victim, Maye Levy, 27, said she found the car had no stopping power when she backed out of her driveway and got no response when she applied the brakes.

Panthers lose $47.7 million suit

CHICAGO (AP) — Survivors of the police raid in which two Black Panthers were shot and killed say they will appeal the dismissal of a $47.7 million civil suit against seven policemen involved in the case.

Panther attorney Jeffrey Haas said Monday that U.S. District Judge Joseph Sam Perry should have declared a mistrial, letting the charges stand, after the jury failed to reach a verdict in four days of deliberation.

Perry, often accused by Panther lawyers of unfairness, dismissed the civil charges against the seven defendants, saying there was "insufficient evidence" to support the charges.

The case stems from the pre-dawn raid Dec. 4, 1969, on a West Side apartment by 14 Chicago policemen connected with the Cook County state's attorney's office.

The raiding party, carrying a search warrant to look for illegal guns, fired from 82 to 99 rounds into the flat, authorities say. Ballistics experts traced one shot to a Panther weapon.

Energy

Nuclear fuel . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dozen scientists, challenging the government's own estimate, are warning President Carter against an energy program based on assumptions of enough uranium to last into the 21st century.

Their report tells the White House that the federal Energy Research and Development Administration's estimate of reserves may not accurately reflect the amount of uranium that can be produced.

ERDA offficials earlier this year estimated "a domestic uranium resource base of about 3.7 million tons," including proven reserves of about 700,000 tons and about three million tons of "potential resources."

Potential resources reflect geologic judgments based on mineral trends and limited investigations. They "lack the certainty of ore bodies defined by drilling data," ERDA officials acknowledged.

But in the study undertaken by the panel of government and industry scientists, headed by Dr. G.W. Cunningham, an ERDA deputy assistant administrator for nuclear energy, the administration was told:

"Considerable concern exists with respect to the propriety of including 'possible' and 'speculative' estimates of uranium resources in the basis for the formulation of national energy policy."

Gas tax . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is considering a new variation of a rejected 3-cent per gallon tax on gasoline to replace its proposal for a standby 5-cent tax killed in Congress two weeks ago.

"We have not completely come to grips with the best way to deal with it," an administration source said Monday night. "But we're considering some form of the 'Rostenkowski 3-center' that failed the first time — getting that re-introduced."

The source said the administration has not decided what new variation of the 3-cent tax to propose. The tax was suggested originally by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., as a measure to conserve gasoline and finance mass transit and energy research.

Carter's standby tax was rejected 27 to 10 by the House Ways and Means Committee on June 9. It would have added 5 cents a gallon to the present 4cent federal gasoline tax each year the nation failed to reach the President's conservation goals.

Carter proposed rebating the tax revenue to energy savers.

Divestiture . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of plans to break up giant oil companies, weary of congressional inaction, are trying new strategies to bring the issue to votes in both houses of Congress.

In the House of Representatives, divestiture proponents are mounting a roundabout campaign, hoping to bypass what they see as an unresponsive Judiciary Committee by pleading their case before a more sympathetic Interior Committee.

An interior subcommittee planned to begin hearings today on a bill to require self-divestiture by energy companies that want to bid for federal leases on the Outer Continental Shelf or for other federally held resources.

And senators who want to check the growth of these huge energy conglomorates, which include 10 of the 20 biggest U.S. corporations, are rallying behind legislation that would ban oil companies from owning and developing energy sources other than petroleum.

This is known as "horizontal" divestiture.

Backers claim such an approach has better odds.

Mine safety . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lax mine safety laws and inadequate enforcement by the Interior Department may have contributed to 260 deaths in five major mine disasters since 1972, a Senate report concludes.

The report was issued in advance of a vote expected today in the Senate approving legislation that adds strength to the mine safety laws and transfers their enforcement to the Labor Department.

"These disasters and the hundreds of deaths and serious injuries which occur in our mines each year are testament to the inadequacies of our current mine safety and health laws and their past enforcement by the Department of Interior," the report says.

Committee Chairman Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., told the Senate that the Interior Department should be stripped of its authority to enforce these laws because of its past performance. He said the mine safety program should be placed in the Labor Department, an agency which administers other occupational health and safety rules.

During debate on the bill Monday, an amendment by Rep. Harrison N. Schmitt, RN.M., to keep the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration within the Interior Department was defeated, 58-25.

The bill also would establish a common regulatory program for coal, metal and hardrock mines.

Life in Deadhorse

. . . Alaska Pipeline . . .

DEADHORSE, Alaska (AP) — Deadhorse never sleeps.

America's largest city north of the Arctic Circle, Deadhorse throbs all night with a mechanical heartbeat — machines which never stop in this purest of "company towns."

About 4,000 people live in Deadhorse, squeezed between the icy sea and the 250-square-mile Prudhoe Bay oil pool, at 9.6 billion barrels America's largest single reserve of crude.

The town boasts one hotel, a car rental service and a state owned airstrip. There isn't much traditional night life, but then there isn't any night at this time of year. The sun never sets in the summer.

As discouraging to sleep as the machine rhythm is the soft gray light of midnight on the eve of the summer solstice, the longest day of the year.

The NANA Hotel is one of several module units imported to house pipeline workers. NANA Construction Services, operated by the Kotzebue-based NANA Regional Native Corp., has few rooms to spare and makes them available to the rare visitor for $100 a night.

You don't get much for your money. The dorm-style cubicles are symmetrically furnished with two beds, two closets and two desks.

Except for the "executive suites," they are not equipped with private baths.

The hotel has four "wings," trailer-like units that converge at a comfortably shabby cafeteria. Workers wander in and out of a tiny shop at the entrance, buying tape recordings and books.

One of the hotel wings is reserved for women — mostly maintenance personnel who clean floors and change beds.

"They're making $1,200 a week," South Dakotan Don Lamp confided as a sleepy blonde ambled into the cafeteria for a hot meal before the 8 p.m. kitchen shutdown. The facility is open all night for coffee, milk, doughnuts or juice.

Lamp, a NANA employe, has been on the Slope for about two years, working four weeks on and two off.

"You know, with all these guys up here, there are hardly any problems with the women. If anyone gives them any trouble, some guy straightens him right out. They respect the women here," he said.

. . . cost Q. and A.

NEW YORK (AP) — With Alaskan oil finally headed toward the lower 48 states, here is a brief question-and-answer primer on the situation:

Q: When will all that Alaskan oil result in lower prices at the gas pump?

A: Probably never. Because of the extremely high transportation charges, about $6 per barrel for Alaskan oil instead of 50 cents per barrel for other domestic oil, the federal government plans to allow oil companies to charge the highest possible price for the oil. That price is about $14 per barrel, the same as currently paid for foreign oil.

The transportation charges proposed by the oil companies — which not only drilled for the oil but also combined to build the pipeline — have been called too high by the Justice Department. But no matter how the dispute is resolved, the price almost certainly will be the same as for foreign oil.

Q: But with all that additional oil, shouldn't there be more gasoline and other products, and therefore lower prices?

A: You would think so, but there's another complication. When the pipeline reaches full capacity by mid-1978, 1.2 million barrels a day of Alaskan oil will be heading south towards the West Coast.

But refineries able to handle the high-sulfur Alaskan oil already are working at full capacity and have no room for the additional oil.

Q: What will be done with it?

A: Alaskan oil will replace foreign oil, mostly from the Middle East. The price will be the same, but the money will stay in the United States. To refine the high-sulfur oil, plans call for shipping much of it through the Panama Canal to Gulf Coast refineries, but experts aren't sure if there are enough tankers available to handle the load.

Q: You mean they spent $7.7 billion over 10 years to build the trans-Alaska pipeline and now can't figure out what to do with the oil?

A: Essentially, that's correct. Oil companies hoped to build pipelines from the West Coast to the Midwest or Gulf Coast. But conservationists have stymied those plans, although some proposals are still alive.

Optional YRS for Walnut?

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Walnut Valley school board has received a recomendation from its Ad Hoc Committee on Year Round Schools that the district begin to move toward the implementation of an optional YRS program for those schools electing it in the 1978-79 school year.

About 40 persons turned out Monday night for the board's regular meeting in the choral room of Walnut High School to hear trustees and members of the administration discuss the proposal as well as more refined administrative proposals on the means of implementing the program.

Aside from its basic recommendation, the ad hoc committee also recommended the district:

—Allow schools adopting the YRS option develop plans for implementation which would include the level of acceptance by parents, students and staff, curriculum modifications, calendar, costs and evaluation procedures.

—The YRS option be limited to elementary and intermediate schools.

—That further study be initiated in 1977-78 and feasibility be determined for possible implementation at the high school level at some future date.

The committee's report to the board Monday evening included a point which was re-emphasized by trustees and administrators alike, "Those districts which failed (in implementing and operating their YRS program) moved too quickly or were autocratic in determining which schools would be involved or mandated the program for an entire district."

The board received a recommendation from the administration calling for two paired schools in the north and south portions of the district to initiate the program on the elementary level.

In the south in Diamond Bar, Castle Rock and Evergreen elementary schools would be paired, with one the YRS school and the other the traditional school. In the north, Morris and Vejar elementary schools would share the same symbiotic relationship; one school filling the gap the other couldn't.

Supt. David Brown told trustees that elaborate preplanning would go into the implementation and that before any further work was done a survey would be conducted in the attendance areas of the four schools mentioned to learn of the acceptance or rejection of the idea on the part of parents.

Brown said he would like to see a substantial return on the survey of at least 90 to 95 per cent response. He further stated that at least a 60 per cent acceptance of the idea would have to be received in the two pair school areas or the concept would be dropped.

Said Brown, "We know from other districts' mistakes that you just can't try to shove this down the people's throats or it just won't work."

Trustee Richard Vind also reminded those attending that even if the concept were adopted, it would be on a purely optional basis.

Reacting to an audience which seemed to be somewhat disapproving of the idea, Brown said, "As an administrator, I'm not going to get anymore money if the board adopts the year round school concept. Implementing this will be a great deal of work and we have instituted this recommendation because of the concern the board has expressed over the very serious problems of school housing facing this district."

Trustee Ladd Hollist voiced his concern over the loss of the neighborhood school concept in establishing year round school under the administrative recommendation. Hollist asked if it wouldn't be possible to establish both a YRS program and a traditional program at the same school site.

Assistant Supt. Jack Jolley said other districts trying the idea had soon left it because it created too much confusion for the school principal and, more importantly, cut down on the amount of space saved. The principal idea behind the YRS program is to fit more students into the same school site by spreading their attendance time out over the entire year instead of only nine months.

Brown said that in addition to the district's survey of parents this fall, an extensive public information program explaining both the pros and cons of the YRS program would be undertaken.

BOB HOPE

DAVID EISENHOWER

JACKIE GLEASON

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — David Eisenhower says his father-in-law, Richard Nixon, was the "most aggressive, ambitious and successful young man in America in 1952."

But, says young Eisenhower, Nixon's energies and ability were bottled up in the vice presidency and those pressures led to the tragedy of the Nixon presidential years.

The pressures were created by President Dwight Eisenhower's staff and cabinet, not by the late president himself, says young Eisenhower, who is married to the former Julie Nixon.

Eisenhower, 29, has been doing research on a biography of his late grandfather at the Eisenhower Center here and held a news conference in response to requests for a progress report.

He said the untitled biography is tentatively scheduled for completion within 1½ years.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Hope says that singer Anita Bryant's stand against homosexuals has provided him with plenty of material. But he refuses to criticize Miss Bryant, pointing out that she helped him entertain American troops stationed overseas on various occasions.

When asked by a reporter if he supported her recent successful effort to repeal a Florida ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals, Hope replied, "Well, you know, I've been in show business a lot and I know an awful lot of people of all sexes — the middle sex included — and I don't want to criticize anybody that way.

"But I do admire Anita Byrant personally because she went on seven trips with me and I know the kind of gal she is and the kind of dedication (she has). But I don't want to get into that kind of mixup."

The 73-year-old comedian held a news conference here several hours before his opening performance at a nearby summer theater.

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Former U.S. House Speaker Carl Albert has dropped charges against an 81-year-old man in a hit-and-run accident that sent Albert to a hospital.

Charges were dropped Monday against Sampson Benjamin, who allegedly knocked Albert to the street as he stepped off a curb near his office here earlier this month. A witness said Benjamin drove away when a bystander decided to call police.

Albert, who received minor injuries, was hospitalized overnight after the accident.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — While her mother was busy presiding over a hearing held by the President's Commission on Mental Health, Amy Carter was busy with some duties of her own — enjoyment.

The 9-year-old daughter of President Carter spent the day with the family of Tucson psychiatrist Allan Beigel, a member of the mental health commission that is chaired by Rosalynn Carter.

Accompanied by the Beigel family, Secret Service agents and reporters, Amy went to the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum, where she petted a turkey vulture and saw other desert animals in their natural environment.

At the Tucson Mountain Park, the group went to Old Tucson, built in 1940 as a movie set and used now for movies and as an amusement park.

Amy saw a wild West shootout re-enacted, including stuntmen tumbling from atop wooden storefront facades on Main Street, and rode a stagecoach.

Amy also was an attraction for the other tourists visiting Old Tuscon in the 100-degree heat.

When she was besieged by picture-taking tourists as her party ate lunch in a public dining area, the Secret Service moved Amy and her hosts to a closed area to finish their meal.

MIAMI (AP) — The Tourist Development Authority has rejected an attempt by comedian Jackie Gleason to tape two upcoming television specials in Miami Beach at defrayed costs.

Gleason is now negotiating to use Miami's Gusman Hall to tape two "Honeymooners" shows.

The TDA rejected Gleason's request that it defray some of the cost of producing the shows at Miami Beach, the scene of 125 earlier Gleason shows.

"It costs $40,000 to $60,000 extra to produce the show here, rather than New York or California," said Gleason's publicist Hank Meyer. "Jackie said to the TDA, 'You underwrite some of that, and look at the publicity you'll get,'" Meyer said.

Meyer said each of the one-hour specials, to be aired by ABC at Christmas time and on Valentine's Day, would have contained numerous "plugs" for Miami Beach

Baboon heart transplant fails

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Heart transplant pioneer Christiaan Barnard's first attempt to bolster a human heart by grafting a baboon's heart onto it ended with the death of the patient, a 26-year-old Italian woman, early today

"I think I will use chimpanzees next time," the surgeon told a news conference.

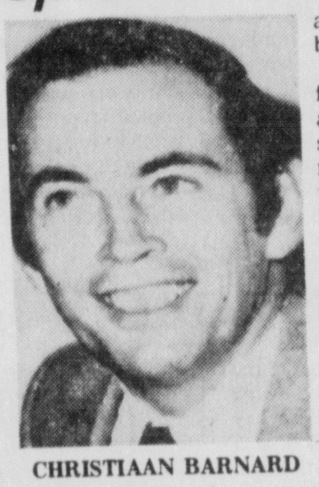
Looking haggard after the 10-hour operation Monday at Groote Schuur hospital and the losing battle for the life of his patient, Barnard said the transplant of the baboon's heart was a "last resort" to save the woman's life.

He said the woman's death was certain without a transplant and a human heart was not available.

The woman's husband was reported under sedation at Groote Schuur, and the hospital refused to release her name until he gave permission.

Barnard said the baboon's heart proved too small to keep the woman's circulation going when her own heart began failing.

The 53-year-old surgeon told an interviewer in March that a human patient could be expected to reject a transplanted animal heart eventually. But he said the alien organ might work long enough for the patient's heart to make some recovery or might keep the patient alive until a human heart became available.



CHRISTIAAN BARNARD

He told the news conference today that baboon and the woman had the same blood type but matching of tissue types was not possible. He said he would not know whether the woman's body rejected the heart until laboratory tests were completed, but he said no evidence of rejection was apparent.

Dr. Reeves Saunders, a spokeswoman for the hospital, said the woman was born with a chronic heart condition and entered the hospital for replacement of a valve which had been put in her aorta, the main artery from the heart, several years ago.

The operation to replace the aortic valve "became considerably more extensive" than planned, Saunders said.

Healthy stings?

SOUTH WOODSTOCK, Vt. (AP) — You get more talk than service down at Clyde Wood's garage these days. "Limited service: too much New Deal and old age," reads a sign posted on a grimy window.

You probably won't get to borrow his tools either, according to another sign: "No tools loaned: reasons same as you might have for not loaning your wife."

But you can get honey as sweet as Wood's talk is tart.

Wood, who should have died in 1935 but wasn't ready, credits the venom from his 40 swarms of bees with saving his life.

As the New York Cancer Research Institute put it in a 1965 annual report that Wood fingers like a precious Bible, "Why do beekeepers have the lowest incidence of cancer?

"Perhaps it is because they are continually receiving injections of bee venom, i.e. bee stings, which cause an acute inflammatory reaction liberating histimine which then activates the reticuloendothelia system — another important defense mechanism against cancer."

Wood puts it another way: "I wasn't exactly reconciled to pushing up daisies."

At 79, he still isn't ready. But Wood, who bills himself as "the beekeeper who eluded death," loves to tell the story.

"It was Hodgkin's Disease," he intones. "I was doomed. It spread to my lung, my spleen and my arm."

Wood recovered.

His love of bees, whose angry buzz his speech resembles, began as a child, when he discovered his first wild hive.

A lot has happened since, he says. More than 30 state elections have come and gone, all, says Wood, with the same results. "You get together once every two years and you pick the damndest fool in town. Then you send him to the legislature."

Men have invented pesticides and "gone about the business of eradicating themselves." Farmers have sold out and taken the clover with them.

Without good clover, clover honey has become scarce. And that, says Wood, is the worst part of all.

But bees haven't changed, and of that Wood is glad. The stocky white-haired mechanic, who thinks nothing of reaching bare-handed into a hive and pulling out bees by the handful, has harvested as much as 5,000 pounds of honey in a single year.

"Shoot, just 'cause they can sting you doesn't mean they have to," he says, waggling a finger in the dust of the old garage.

In handling bees, the Golden Rule has stood Wood in good stead. He says it has netted him 10 consecutive years of harvests averaging 107 pounds per hive — compared to a statewide average of only 20 to 30 pounds.

Cancer claims actress Geraldine Brooks, 49

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Geraldine Brooks, whose acting career spanned more than 30 years in theater, movies and television, is dead of cancer at age 49.

Miss Brooks, wife of novelist Budd Schulberg, had been ill for some time but had remained active almost up to the time of her death. Only 10 days ago, she completed a role in an episode of the TV series "Baretta" and was negotiating for another TV acting job.

But last Wednesday she entered Suffolk Hospital here and died late Sunday afternoon.

Schulberg said a memorial service would be held at the Quogue Wildlife Refuge near their eastern Long Island home next Sunday at 2 p.m. after private funeral services Wednesday.

Miss Brooks had taken up wildlife photography in recent years and her photographs illustrate a book by Schulberg, "Swan Watch."

The daughter of the late James Stroock, head of the Brooks Costume Co., Miss Brooks got her first acting role in a Theater Guild Shakespeare touring company and studied at the Actors Studio before going to Hollywood.

GERALDINE BROOKS

One of her first roles was as Joan Crawford's daughter in "Possessed," and her performance led New York Times reviewer Bosley Crowther to regret the movie audience had not seen more of Miss Brooks.

After a series of ingenue roles, Miss Brooks went to Italy to act with Anna Magnani in "Volcano" and opposite Vittorio Gassman in "Streets of Sorrow."

After appearing on Broadway in a revival of "The Philadelphia Story," Miss Brooks shifted her career to television. She won several Emmy nominations, including one for "The Defenders."

She also won a Tony nomination for her Broadway role in Dore Schary's "Brightower," even though the show failed.

After an ill-fated TV series, "The Dumplings" with James Coco, Miss Brooks starred at various summer theaters and appeared in Jules Pfeiffer's off Broadway success, "Hold Me, Hold Me."

Miss Brooks' first marriage, to writer Herbert Sargent, ended in divorce. She married Schulberg in 1964.

Also surviving are her mother, the designer Bianca Stroock, and a sister, Gloria Stern.

New hotline

The number for the 24-hour energy conservation hotline recently set up by Southern California Gas Co. is (800) 252-9090.

The toll-free telephone line was initiated to give Southern and Central California customers immediate answers to questions about saving energy at home.

It is part of a campaign to help stretch existing supplies of energy through conservation.

Phone calls to the hotline number are answered by gas company consumer information specialists in Los Angeles.

Moon messages

Radio messages to be bounced off the moon for reception on all seven continents back on earth — a round trip of 500,000 miles — will be transmitted from a 1,500-foot hilltop within Forest Lawn-Covina Hills this weekend.

The program is part of an international emergency practice procedure by ham radio teams in the U.S. It will utilize capabilities needed in case of man-made or natural disasters.

Operating from hilltop at Forest Lawn — highest point of the Covina Hills chain — will be 24 members of the Aerojet Welfare and Recreation Amateur Radio Club, Azusa, and the San Gabriel Valley Radio Club. They will transmit more than 1,000 practice messages under emergency field conditions between noon Saturday and noon Sunday.

MWD budget

The Metropolitan Water District board of directors, Los Angeles, has approved a 1977-78 budget of $209 million, reflecting a continuing trend of reduced construction expenditures but higher operation and maintenance costs.

This represents an increase of $16 million over the 1976-77 budget of $193 million.

The new budget shows a $15 million increase in operation and maintenance expenditures from $43 million to $58 million largely resulting from a $10 million increase in the cost of power to pump water into Metropolitan's service area.

The new budget calls for construction expenditures of $28 million, down from $29 million last year.

Other changes in proposed 1977-78 expenditures include a $2 million decrease from $72 million to $70 million in payments (exclusive of power) under the district's contract for water from the State Water Project and a $5 million increase in payments on bond interest and principal.

Walk-for-freedom

THE SHOCKING DANGER OF TRANQUILIZERS

In the fast pace of everyday living, too many Americans may be literally dying from over-tranquilized lives. Heat damage due to tranquilizers may well be the culprit in many cases where a young, seemingly healthy person dies from mysterious causes.

Dr. H.L. Fisher D.C.

"While many people tend to think of drug deaths in terms of the so-called 'street people' who include illicit drugs in their culture, drug abuse is common to the country club set as well," warns Dr. Fisher, D.C., of the Fisher Chiropractic Offices.

"Chronic stress is a very real and distinct problem for many people, especially for those who lead a fast pace in family, business, or social circles," the good Doctor continues. "The young executive, who constantly strives to reach the pinnacle of success, finds it hard to unwind at the end of the day. Too few people today know how to relax through constructive leisure time activities. For many of them, the answer appears to lie in tranquilizers."

Dr. Fisher cited a recent article in the Journal of the American Medical Association which stated that the heavy use of tranquilizers is a suspected cause of heart damage.

"You must understand that tranquilizers can well cause heart lesions by blocking the action of chemicals from the adrenal glands," he noted in agreeing with the article. "I am pleased to note that my colleagues in the medical profession concluded much the same in their research project."

According to Dr. Fisher, if the fast pace of living drives you up, up the wall, and you need a tranquilizer to bring you down to the ground each night, you should look for the cause of the problem before you are driven under the ground.

"The stress must be treated at its source, an improperly functioning system," concludes Dr. Fisher. "Once the cause of that malfunction is located and treatment commenced, you will find it much easier to let nature help you unwind."

Note: Dr. Fisher maintains Chiropractic offices at 601 So. Oaks Ave., Ontario, California. Telephone: 983-0766.

Casket opened: it's wrong body

SAUGERTIES, N.Y. (AP) — "That isn't mother," gasped one member of the grieving family as the casket of Ella Shaw was opened at a funeral home here.

"An absolutely honest mistake," said Dr. Herman Snow, director of the Hudson River Psychiatric Center in Poughkeepsie, describing how the body of Laura Shaw found its way into the casket intended for Ella Shaw.

Both women were patients at the state hospital. Ella is still alive, but when Laura died last Thursday, hospital officials incorrectly notified Ella's relatives and the funeral was arranged.

"Laura's name somehow got on Ella's chart," Snow said Tuesday. "It was a clerical error ... Something like this happens maybe once every five years.

"We've apologized to the family and we will try, in the course of the law, to remimburse them (for expenses)," Snow said.

The state hospital has 1,780 patients.

Everyone wants a piece of the rock

Three parties attempt to get the ownership of meteorite

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County supervisors are frankly a little upset.

Sometime during the past several hundred years a streaking flash of light crossed the evening sky and crashed into the Old Woman Mountains near Twentynine Palms.

No one had ever paid much attention to the desolate area until three county residents decided to set out and "strike-it-rich" with some mining claims in the mineral rich country.

That was back in 1975.

David Friberg, one of the hopeful miners, was hiking in the hills one day and noticed a peculiar looking boulder. Its rusty red-colored appearance contrasted sharply with the surrounding countryside.

He decided to investigate further, and to his surprise discovered the cause of that forgotten flash aeross the sky several centuries before. The 4-foot long, 3-foot wide 6,000-pound rock proved to be a meteorite — the second largest meteorite ever found in the U.S.

It wasn't until recently, however, that the story got out.

Friberg and his partners realized that even though a 6,000 pound meteorite is probably not worth its weight in gold . . . it was worth something to scientists.

The three kept their discovery relatively secret.

Somehow, however, information leaked out and the federal government learned of the meteorite discovery.

Utilizing an obscure federal law, the Bureau of Land Management and the Marines, the federal officials moved in with a helicopter and claimed the rock last Friday.

The move touched off a spark of controversy over who owns and should get the meteorite. The Bureau of Land Management claims the meteorite and will put it on display at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D.C.

Friberg, of Twentynine Palms, says its his . . . after all, he discovered it.

Now, however, San Bernardino County supervisors are looking to get a piece of the rock.

Supervisors said Monday that since the meteorite was discovered in San Bernardino County, it was only fitting it remain in the county.

The supervisors directed county museum officials to protest the "high-handed" actions of the federal government and to ask that the meteorite be returned for display in a local museum.

Supervisor James Mayfield, who represents residents in the area the meteorite was found, said he was a "little upset" over the federal governments response to the find.

He jokingly suggested the county send sheriff's department deputies to the Smithsonian to get the valuable rock back.

"Its almost as if they kidnaped the thing," he said.

A SPILLED LOAD

James Brown, of Rialto, sits on the fender of a California Highway Patrol car after his cement truck overturned Monday as he attempted to turn off Mountain Avenue onto the Pomona Freeway in Ontario. The driver was ejected from the cab as the truck rolled onto its side. He suffered cuts and bruises but declined medical treatment. The ramp was closed for a time.

Drug abuse house will still operate

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Overruling the advice of the city's planning commission and the testimony of local residents, Pomona City Council Monday night voted to allow the continued operation of a drug abuse recovery house in south Pomona.

The council voted unanimously to allow the house, located at 998 W. Ninth St., to continue operations for another year with the provision that monthly reports about the center be filed with the city staff.

An emotional hearing preceded the vote, with advocates of the center, operated by the People's Coaltion, defending the house against charges that addicts and former addicts living there cause neighborhood problems.

John Owsley, administrator, and Charlie Barnett, assistant administrator, told the council they were eager to work with neighbors and would not hesitate turning over a resident of the house who committed a crime.

They denied, however, that the house is a criminal influence on the neighborhood.

"A lot of complaints are made just because people know they are addicts or ex-addicts," said Willie White, a member of the board of directors.

Their testimony seemed to be backed up by Sgt. Larry Todd, who told the council that the police have not had any major problems at the location in recent months.

Property owners in the area contended they have been subjected to verbal abuse and witnessed indecent behavior on the part of residents of the house. They suggested drug trafficking in the area may also be connected to the house.

"There's a lot of drug traffic in the area. It's like sticking an alcoholic in a liquor store," said Henry Cole.

He suggested that the recovery house find a more suitable location in an "area not quite so dense."

Another property owner, Harold Ketterman, suggested that a new and more modern facility was needed for treating drug addicts.

"We're not arguing against the program, we're just saying the area they are in is not appropriate," he said.

Council members noted, however, that since the drug recovery house was first approved for operation in 1975 the neighborhood has not been prevented from showing marked improvement.

The house is actually a two-story, four-unit apartment house. Owsley said up to 11 residents are housed at any one time.

A conditional use permit for the facility was first approved in March 1975 and reissued in August of 1975 and April of 1976. It came up for review to the planning commission in May this year, at which time the commission sided with property owners and cancelled the permit.

In reinstating the permit, the council imposed no new limitations on the center — other than the stipulation that monthly reports about the operation be made.

TONI ANN LA PORTE

KEITH WILLIAMSON

Search continues for missing kids

Pomona police and volunteers of the Citizens Community Alert Patrol (C-CAP) resumed their search this morning for two children missing from their home since shortly after noon Monday.

The missing youngsters are Toni Ann La Porte, 7, and her stepbrother, Keith Allan Williamson, 11, of 540 Arboleda Way. A missing persons report was filed on each child early Monday afternoon by Mrs. Toni Williamson.

Pomona police and C-CAP volunteers searched the childrens' neighborhood extensively beginning Monday afternoon and continuing on until midnight. The police department helicopter was used but the children could not be located.

Police and C-CAP members followed up many bits of information and tips they received from residents of the neighborhood about children who had been seen that afternoon and evening, but all proved fruitless.

Mrs. Williamson, in the missing persons reports, said all the childrens' friends had been notified to be on the lookout for them.

Their mental state was normal, she said. Only Keith had money and that amounted to 80 cents.

The most extensively-searched area was between Reservoir Street and San Antonio Avenue north to Holt Avenue.

Keith was described as white, 5 feet 4 with brown hair and blue eyes. He wore a white sweat shirt with "Santa Barbara YMCA" printed on it, dark trousers and blue-and-white tennis shoes.

Toni Ann, also white, is 4 feet 5 weighs 50 pounds and has brown hair and eyes. She wore an ID bracelet, white sweat shirt with a picture of Mickey Mouse on it, white shorts and brown shoes.

The children were believed to have had a green knapsack with them and may have been seen picking fruit this morning. Both are fond of animals and searchers planned to investigate areas near horse stables.

L.V. council delays rent control decision

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

The La Verne City Council has put off a decision once more on whether to place its mobile home parks under rent control — this time the crowd was too large and one of the gang was on vacation.

More than 200 persons showed up at the City Hall Monday night. Most were mobile home owners who had gone there to witness the approval of the state's first rent control ordinance, but there were a large number of mobile home park owners and others who wanted to talk against the proposal.

They didn't get a chance. Mayor Mike M. Morales, who himself had just come to the meeting from his vacation, looked at the crowd that overflowed the small council chambers, crowded the hallways and stood waiting on the street, and decided it was too large.

"I wish we had a larger place," he declared. "This meeting should be held at the La Verne College auditorium. We never had such a large crowd at a council meeting before."

He suggested that in view of the fact that the audience was so large and that Councilman Robert Neher was absent, the rent control matter be heldover until after Neher returns.

His suggestion met with grumbles from the audience. A mobile home owner told the council there already have been too many delays since last December. Another said he had 550 signatures favoring passage of the regulation.

But Morales reminded them that the council had a bare quorum, since Councilman Frank Johnson, who has a secondary interest in one of the parks, had disqualified himself from participation.

"Suppose one of the three remaining members votes against you?" he argued. "You'd not get a majority."

Morales said those who had come to the meeting but could not get in also had a right to be heard. Councilmen Melvin Belcher and Allan Mackay agreed with him and the rent control ordinance was tabled.

It will be heard at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. July 6 at La Few Fetra Hall in La Verne College.

The proposed ordinance calls for a rollback of all rental fees charged by the city's mobile home parks to Dec. 31.

It would set up a mobile home rent control board that would consider grievances and applications for rental hikes once a month. The ordinance would remain in effect for two years.

While the council tabled action on that ordinance, it approved the introduction of two others.

One would prohibit noise by construction companies at night, in the early mornings and on Sundays throughout the city.

The other would reduce the quorum of the parks and recreation commission from five to four to allow the board to function more easily.

The council also passed a tentative budget of $5,231,418 for next year, about $1.15 million more than the current one. City manager George Caswell said there would be no need to raise taxes.

Chaffey district residents may get tax rate decrease

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Residents in the Chaffey school district may receive a present this year — in the form of a 25-cent drop in the tax rate.

School board members Monday night approved a $28.7 million tentative budget for the 1977-78 year that calls for the reduction.

If the decrease is contained in the final budget to be adopted in August, it would lower the tax rate to $2.37 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Consideration of the budget was at the end of a lengthy agenda and board members hardly discussed it. They seemed content to wait for later presentations of the publication and final budgets before asking any questions of administrators.

Russell Dickinson, assistant superintendent for business, told reporters after the meeting that the tax rate will drop because of an estimated 9.4 per cent increase in assessed valuation.

Under state formulas for computing taxes, if a district's assessed valuation rises, the tax rate goes down, Dickinson explained.

The $28,699,151 tentative budget calls for a $1.5 million spending increase over last year. Expenditures are estimated at $24,007,916 and total income at $24,966,897. Officials forecast an ending balance (surplus) by next year of $757,400.

Dickinson said the district will spend more money next year because of inflation, higher salaries, and increased enrollment.

The district also will raise the amount per pupil spent on books and supplies from $80 to $100, noted Dickinson. "This was requested by the school board as a change from the preliminary budget."

Possible drop in property tax rate

Upland council approves budget

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Upland City Council Monday adopted a proposed budget of just under $10 million for 1977-78 and expressed the hope the tax rate could drop below the present $1.88 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget was adopted by a 4-0 vote with Councilwoman Ina Petokas absent.

Councilman John McCarthy said that since the budget is no greater than that of the present fiscal year and yet the entire city is being reassessed, the tax rate should be held to a minimum possible when it is set later this summer.

"Some areas of the city have had increased assessment of from 20 to 40 per cent," McCarthy said. "This must be considered in determining the tax rate and its impact on the homeowner."

The only major change in the budget from earlier discussions was the deletion of $100,000 for the third fire station on Benson Avenue since the city now hopes to receive federal funding for the station construction.

The council has postponed any decision on salary increases for police, fire, nonsafety and management personnel. The salary scale will again be presented at the July 5 council meeting.

Council members spent a great deal of time deciding just how they could spend the $2.2 million grant announced for Upland by the Economic Development Administration (EDA) on June 9.

City Manager Lee Travers outlined projects which would consume the public works grant funds but warned that the Upland Elementary School District is to share in the funding.

"The school staff is now working on some proposals, too," Travers added.

The projects suggested for Upland include the third fire station, costing $258,000. These plans need some updating, added the city manager.

Other projects are $500,000 for a new city shop and garage structure; $40,000 to complete the new senior citizen center; $750,000 for resurfacing streets; $280,000 for the 11th Street Park; $65,000 for Citrus Park; $65,000 for miscellaneous water projects; $40,000 for an addition to the Upland Library; and $140,000 for improvement of the Chaffey Cultural Center.

Travers said the federal grant is designed to stimulate the economy by reducing unemployment. He added that all projects must be decided upon rapidly.

A complete description of all proposed projects must be submitted to Seattle, Wash., by July 1. Most projects must be reviewed by several official groups before that date to qualify.

Councilman Hal Bailin summed up the council's feelings about the grant funds thus:

"The insanity of the whole program is the time constraint imposed."

The Upland council also passed a resolution honoring Richard Rothschild, 20, who was badly burned when he tried to rescue five victims who died in a plane crash in north Upland recently. The city also voted to donate $100 to a fund which has been started for the burn victim.

Sales system has pitfalls

The Yankee peddler of American folklore is still very much with us. Today, however, instead of traveling between isolated frontier communities in a wagon laden with all manner of household items, he drives a car and sells a single line of products within his own neighborhood. "He" is also likely to be a "she."

The direct sales industry — that is what it is called — has in recent years emerged as a distinct and important field in the retail industry. In 1975, the direct selling of everything from cosmetics to jewelry to plastic kitchen utensils to shoes accounted for more than $6 billion worth of goods sold at retail by some two million salespersons.

The direct sales industry is described by the Direct Selling Association (DSA) as a form of retail distribution involving personal selling in the home of the buyer or at his or her place of work. It includes door-to-door sales, presentations by appointment and home parties.

According to the DSA, American households are called on an average of four times a year by a direct salesperson. Many of them are housewives or retirees earning a little extra money in their spare time. For others, direct selling is a fulltime profession and major source of income.

Inevitably, the phenomenal growth of the direct selling industry has been accompanied by illegal or quasi-legal "get-rich-quick" schemes which masquerade as part of the legitimate direct selling industry and prey as much on the salesperson as they do the consumer.

Some of the differences between bonafide income opportunities in direct sales versus the losing proposition of dubious "pyramiding" and similar schemes have been outlined by Amway Corp. of Ada, Mich., a major but typical direct selling organization which in 1976 reported revenues of more than $240 million in sales of home-care and personal-care products through 250,000 independent distributorships.

For one thing, the shady, get-rich-quick operator usually requires a high initial investment from the potential salesperson or distributor, anywhere from $500 to $5,000 and usually non-refundable. The bonafide direct selling company typically requires a very low investment, and even this is refundable.

When a promoter emphasizes high profits from recruiting others or from selling distributorships to others, it is a pyramid scheme. The only one who stands to profit is the originator of the scheme. Reputable direct selling organizations emphasize profits from the sales of products.

The get-rich-quick schemers do not have sizeable manufacturing plants, trained staffs, research and development experts, quality control technicians and other basic and necessary elements of a manufacturing concern.

Legitimate direct sales organizations, on the other hand, have all of these basics. In fact, the only significant difference between a direct sales company and a company which sells via traditional retail outlets is the method of product distribution.

Illegitimate distribution companies also do not have a product guarantee. This can spell disaster to the independent distributor.

Again in contrast, legitimate companies have written money-back guarantees which back up their independent distributors and assure customer satisfaction.

Other characteristics of the reputable direct selling company are that it has a code of ethics or subscribes to the code of ethics of the Direct Selling Association, provides training and sales and business aids to its distributors and invests in national advertising to support their sales efforts.

In the days of the fabled Yankee peddler, it was often a case of buyer beware. Today, in the direct selling industry, it is the one who sells who needs to exercise the caution.

"Excuse me, but has anyone seen a golf ball bounce by here?"

Mailing error points to computer

Dear Editor:

I recently mailed a newsletter to all the registered voters in my district. Thanks to the people who have taken the time to write to me, I find that all the single men were addressed as "Miss" and all the single women as "Mr.".

I have asked Secretary of State March Fong Eu to investigate this error. The list we use for this mailing comes from the Secretary of State's office. It is put on a computer, and this is how the letters are addressed. It is obvious that someone fed the computer the wrong information.

I want my constituents to know that I am doing an investigation on this to determine how it happened and will respond to them as soon as it is completed.

I am very sorry that we had this error.

Council needs support

Dear Editor:

Several weeks ago a Mary Harper came out strongly in a letter to the editor for HUD subsidies for low income renters.

In rebuttal, I am curious as to how close she is tied to the Los Angeles housing authorities and what her real motives are. If she were so concerned about Pomona, she should realize that our problems have stemmed basically from one thing — we go out of our way to attract the low end of society. What did we reap from this policy? Almost the highest crime rate in California, one of the highest proportions of people on relief, and general deteriorization.

We have a new mayor who is beginning to turn this entire situation around. He and the council are doing a good job and need our support.

The other side of Castro

WASHINGTON — Happily, Cuban-American relations are brightening; the United States has halted its bullying; Fidel Castro has softened his bombast. It makes good sense, certainly, to restore normal relations with a nation that lies 90 miles off our coast.

All this has produced some euphoric journalism out of Havana — stories about the good life in Cuba and interviews with a Castro on his best behavior. It has been the Happy Hour in Castroland for the visiting press.

But there is another side to the story, which is hidden from the visitors. We have written dozens of columns about political oppression in dictatorships of both the right and the left. One of our targets has been Cuba.

Castro's prisoners have smuggled letters, affidavits and other evidence to the United States with directions that they be delivered to us. We have checked out their charges, as best we could, with former prisoners. We offered to make a personal inspection of Cuban prisons, if Castro would permit it. We asked Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., who enjoys friendly relations with Castro, to help us arrange a working trip to Cuba. The Maximum Leader sent back word he didn't want us on his island.

We, therefore, have conducted an investigation from afar. For weeks, we have talked to sources who have gone beyond the guided tours in Cuba and to experts who have spent their careers studying Cuban affairs. We can give the details of Cuba's seamier side.

In fairness, Cuba is one of the least repressive of the Communist states. It is, in the words of one informed source, a nation of "passive repression." There is no longer need for brutal tactics. Castro's enemies have either been killed or have been driven off the island; the "counter-revolutionaries" have been put down; his revolution has been institutionalized; a whole generation of Cubans has grown up under his tutelage. Therefore, Castro can now afford to be the benevolent dictator.

It has not always been thus. After he overthrew the cruel dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista, Castro's revenge was equally cruel. Hundreds of Batista's associates were executed outright. In some cases, they were rounded up, trucked to firing ranges, gunned down and bulldozed into mass graves. The executions, of course, were unquestionably popular. Crowds at some public trials jeered the defendants, screaming "Kill him! Kill him!"

Castro's goons broke up newspaper offices and attacked Catholic churches. The new dictator then began a systematic reorganization of Cuban society. Committees for the Defense of the Revolution were created. They carried out Castro's directives down into city blocks. Other organizations regimented women, farmers and laborers. Youth groups took over children from the first grade through graduation. All these organizations functioned as tools of the government.

With the help of the Soviet KGB, Castro set up security agencies — the DGI concentrating on foreign intelligence and the DSE keeping watch over the natives. Both agencies have a worldwide reputation for effectiveness. Among the Cuban populace, according to one account, "there is a pervasive atmosphere of suspicion that your neighbor belongs to the DSE."

Castro is thus regarded by his vassals with a mixture of fear and adulation. There is no free press in today's Cuba, and no public opposition to Castro's policies is permitted. Those few who dare to criticize suddenly find themselves cutting sugar cane. Anyone who might influence others against Castro winds up in a political prison or forced labor camp. At the same time, the experts agree that Castro is a master showman who would easily win a free election.

When his revolution was young and his grip on the government less secure, his prisons were crammed with Cubans guilty merely of expressing political viewpoints that differed from the dictator's. A decade ago, Castro held some 20,000 political prisoners in chains. This number, according to the best estimates of U.S. analysts, has now been reduced to between 4,000 and 5,000.

Think on these things

There's a loveliness unequalled on a summer morning when the first rays of sunlight sweep a golden wheat field heavy with dew. And few could be so callous as not to be awed as the light breaks on the other side of the woods and throws misty shafts into areas usually untouched.

A miracle happens with the morning light. Everything that was tired and wilted and spent has suddenly been revived. The trill of the summer tanager is clear and crisp, the squirrels scurry in all directions in playful moods, and the day prepares to unwind. Some unknown poet saw it too, and wrote: "Lean thine arms awhile upon the window sill of heaven and gaze upon the Lord. And with that vision in your heart, turn strong to meet the day."

More drinkers, less drinking

More of us are doing it. But we're not doing as much of it as we used to. Nevertheless, we worry about it more than ever.

Drinking, that is.

And these days, wine is the way to go. Not just with dinner, either. More and more the cocktail crowd is switching from the hard stuff to white wine.

"Two years ago," says one local Perle Mesta type, "I'd order a case each of bourbon, scotch and gin for a big cocktail party. And maybe a fifth of vodka. Wine? Never.

"Now I lay in several cases of white wine. And only half a dozen bottles of all the others. And you know what? I don't get nearly as many burn holes in the carpets as I used to."

The trend to lighter drinking has been coming on gradually, but last year it really took off, giving distillers a headache akin to the morning-after suffered by their former customers.

In 1976, the liquor industry managed to grow only 1.5 per cent. And beer sales went up less than 2 per cent, the worst year for brewers in 27 years.

Even the moonshiners are moaning. Despite their new portable stills (the better to outrun revenooers, chum), they can hardly give it away. Sixteen years ago, 30 per cent of all drinkers in the country preferred Kickapoo joy juice. Last year only 0.6 per cent did.

What puzzles the boys in the booze business is the fact that the lower figures on their sales charts don't tally with the greater number of folks entering the legal drinking age.

Back some 20 years ago, only 55 per cent of those over 18 admitted they took a glass now and then. Now 71 per cent say they do. The ladies are partly responsible for this; they're up from 45 per cent to 66 per cent.

So you'd think liquor sales would be booming, wouldn't you? They're not. And the only answer the Distilled Spirits Council can come up with is that people are drinking less per person.

Part of their problem is that 60 per cent of the drinking population are the 18-to-34-year-olds (who make up only 19 per cent of the total population). And they're the ones responsible for the explosion in white wine.

Cheaper prices are one reason. The vintage products of France may be a litle high for their budgets, but California wines aren't. And coming up fast on the charts are wines from the Rioja district of northern Spain, which are half the price of the bottles from Bordeaux and Burgundy.

Back in the good old days (hic), the liquor industry could always console itself that, sooner or later, the young people would come over to their side. That as drinkers grew older they gave up "gimmick drinks" and moved on to the more potent proofs.

That was before the days of wine and (not roses) cheese. And don't think the vineyard crowd isn't pushing the trend.

In October, the Masters of Wine Tasting will toss half a dozen "international festivals" in Washington, Denver, Atlanta, St. Louis, Boston and Chicago. On a smaller scale, the ladies of the altar guild are turning to wine-tasting parties to raise money. They're even better than bingo.

As near as anybody can count (and don't think wives are the only ones who keep track of how much you drink), Americans now guzzle an average of a gallon and a half of something alcoholic every year.

Not much, maybe, compared to the peak year of 1830, when dedicated drinkers averaged a staggering 9.5 gallons. Each. But enough to make alcohol a problem in a lot of homes.

A recent poll showed the number of families troubled by drinking has risen to 18 per cent in the past couple of years. That's up 50 per cent from the years 1966-to-1974.

Most of the unhappiness was in the West, where 77 per cent of the population drink liquor, wine or beer (the national average is 71 per cent) and where 26 per cent said liquor had caused problems in their families. (Maybe the drought has something to do with it.)

The heaviest drinkers were those with college degrees — 82 per cent, compared to 71 per cent for those with a highschool education and 46 per cent for those who quit after elementary school.

Who says a college education makes us smart?

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Two years ago, after a lengthy government survey, it was determined that 2½ pounds of popcorn per person were produced in the United States during 1975. And it is interesting to note that over the years it has been dedicated governmental studies and research programs of that type which have been instrumental in making it possible for Americans to become the best informed people on the face of the earth. — So what will the government's big survey of 1977 be all about? — Well, I'll give you three guesses but many of you will probably need no more than one to arrive at the correct answer. What else could it possibly be other than a determination of the per person production and consumption of peanuts?

Sacramento scene

Alter laws on prostitution

By EARL G. WATERS

California cities are experiencing a seeming expansion of prostitution. From the complaints of businessmen and residents in larger communities of the state it would appear that the "hookers" are swarming like locusts. No doubt the drift of young women into the "easy life" accelerates during periods of inflation and unemployment. But the tendency of many, as always, is to blame it on the degeneration of today's morality.

Yet, as any student of history knows, harlotry has existed as far back as written records of civilization and before. Not for nothing is prostitution known as the "oldest profession." In ancient Sumaria, Egypt and Babylon it flourished and the courtesans even achieved a measure of honorable status.

Today's problems with the prostitutes are not because it has suddenly become widespread. If the facts were known there are probably no more percentagewise, if as many, plying that trade than at any other period in modern day America or otherwise.

The real difference is that the laws, and the methods of enforcement of those laws made necessary by court decisions, have driven the joy girls into the bars and into the streets where their promiscuity is blatantly conspicuous.

As a result, the businessmen see their establishments shunned by patrons who don't want involvement with such traffic and the householders witness their streets being turned into outdoor brothels as the shady ladies solicit customers for their wares. This brings demands for more active enforcement and the heat is applied to the police and the courts.

But the cold fact is that arrests, fines and even jail sentences won't stamp out prostitution today any more than it has over thousands of years of history.

Still, since the businessmen are to be protected from the conduct of others which becomes unwarranted interference with their trade and respectable householders have every right to be shielded from activities which blight their neighborhood, a solution must be found.

Not surprisingly, in view of its long history, other generations did not have a workable answer. This was the restriction of prostitution to "red light" districts. There in "parlor houses" and "stockades" the girls entertained out of public view but under the watchful eyes of "madams" who brooked no disorder. Pimps and drugs were not tolerated. Patrons could frequent the establishments without fear of being robbed or contracting socfal diseases.

The simple answer, then, is the legalization of "houses of ill repute." The contention that morality is involved in such a decision is sheer hypocrisy. Sexual intercourse is no crime in this state excepting when there is an instant payment of cash. If it is performed for other favors such as mink coats, jewels, furnished apartments, trips to Acapulco, or solely for pleasure, no crime has been committed.

If surveys taken by Assemblyman Leroy Green, who authored legislation a couple of years ago to carry out his findings, are accurate the majority of the public favors decriminalization of prostitution.

Certainly, with the high rate of violent crime including murder, robbery and rape, the time of the police and the courts can be far better occupied providing protection for the public than in waging an unending battle with the natural instincts of men and women which have defied subduing down through the ages.

The public has a choice of altering the laws to gain some measure of control over the practice or continuing to be plagued openly by the practitioners while the police and the courts divert their energies from more important duties.

Ann Landers

Social worker replies

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in response to the welfare mothers who signed themselves "Sick Of The Labels In St. Paul." They wanted to "help educate the damn fools" who criticize people on relief.

How about a little education concerning the snow job these women are giving? They didn't say they wanted to work or better themselves by receiving job skills. They just want the taxpayers to pick up the tab so they can stay home.

I am employed by the Public Welfare Division and carry a caseload of 160 ADC families. I encourage employment and training whenever it's feasible, but most ADC mothers do not want to work. Some say they are sick and can't take a job. One woman I see regularly must be at home when her 16-year-old son comes from school so she couldn't possibly work. Another has no car and refuses to take a bus. Still another will not work because the cost of her food stamps would go up. (She doesn't realize she could add $500 to her monthly income.)

An ADC mother can earn over $900 a month and still receive financial assistance from welfare (depending on the amount paid for child care), food stamps, free medical services, free denntal services and emergency help if needed. Of course, with high incomes, the cost of the food stamps goes up — but why shouldn't it?

Our community (as do most others) has numerous advantages for ADC mothers who seek training. They can receive through local WIN offices free child care, transportation and meals, plus tuition, books and supplies paid via federal grants. These are all in addition to their full welfare grants.

So you see the advantages are many for the ADC mother who is in training or employed, yet I find very few women who want to acquire the needed skills to get off welfare. Those who use the excuse of "being worse off when working" don't have their facts straight — or they are using this as an excuse for not being self-supporting. If you want to be fair to both sides you will print this, Ann. — A Conscientious Taxpayer

Dear Taxpayer: Here's your letter and my thanks for writing. I've checked your facts and they are correct as stated.

Dear Ann Landers: I read recently that several million dogs are eligible for health insurance under the new Medipet program introduced by Lloyd's of London.

My understanding is that for $45 a dog owner can cover his dog against veterinarian fees for accidents and illnesses. This policy also covers the owner should the dog bite someone.

How does one go about getting this insurance? It sounds like a wonderful idea at a modest price. Will you kindly track this down and let me (and millions of others) know? — All For It

Dear All: Medipet is available to dog owners, but not in the United States at this moment. You'll have to move to Australia unless the picture changes between now and the time this goes to the press.

CONFIDENTIAL to Want Him: What for? a 27-year-old man who hasn't the courage to ask his mother for his bank book doesn't sound like very good husband material. Remember Landers' Law: Any woman can get married if she sets her standards low enough. Cool it, honey. A bargain he isn't.

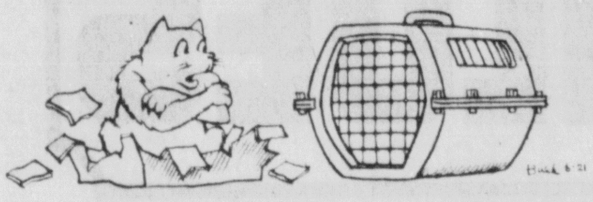
Plastic carrier for cats sturdy



DEAR DR. MILLER: Somehow Missy has learned to chew her way through these cheapo cardboard carriers, They're now good for about one trip. Before we invest in a higher-priced, escape-proof cat carrier, can you tell me what kind to look for? What about these come-apart plastic jobs? They look strong enough. — J.E.

DEAR J.E.: Yes, there are two-piece molded plastic carriers on the market which are sturdy, easily cleaned, and with a door opening large enough to make it feasible to lift out a reluctant cat. Be sure, however, that your proposed cat carrier has adequate ventilation. For hot weather travel, the larger the cage, the better, and, more importantly, optional cross ventilation is very desirable.

A carrier with a metal mesh door on one end allows more air inside than a carrier with only a few inches punched around the sides. More air is desirable since, in such a confined space, the animal's temperature will tend to rise to dangerous levels quickly. In hot weather a cat should be kept in a carrier for brief periods of time only, and NEVER in direct sun.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm a hayfever sufferer, and have been for the last couple of months. Suddenly, my dog's started sneezing and snorting a lot. Could he be a hayfever victim, too? Could it be a sympathetic reaction? We're very simpatico. — J.R.

DEAR J.R.: Sudden severe sneezing episodes in the canine are most often due to foreign bodies in the nose. A nostril could contain a grass awn or other small plant portion, or even an insect. Dust particles, including those containing household materials or, as you suspect, a snuffed-up heavy dose of pollen might cause a sneezing outburst. Slower developing sneezing episodes would be more typical with hayfever, or for other causes ranging from parasites in the sinuses to a polyp or tumor. A checkup's indicated, quickly, if sudden severe episodes persist, since pain and nosebleeds are usual complications.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've heard of chicken pox and smallpox, but now something new — mouse pox. Are my pet mice endangered? Do they need vaccinations for it? — N.H.

DEAR N.H.: Ectromelia (mouse pox) is not a current problem in the United States, though mice visitors from overseas could carry it here. It's unlikely ever to be a problem among pet mice however, and (good news) your wee ones won't require a vaccination.

Mother too busy to understand

Retirement is not without its problems.

As I told my Mom and Dad when they hung it up, "You people are on the threshhold of a new career — that of finding something to do. Naturally, I want to help, but you both must understand I have my family, my own responsibility and with my hectic schedule I do not have time to sit around exchanging cures for irregularities. You are basically on your own."

Several weeks after they moved into their retirement community, I called Mother.

"What do you want?" she asked breathlessly, "I was just going out the door. Got organ lessons this morning."

"No big deal," I said. "Just call me back when you have a moment."

Four days later, I called again, "You okay?"

"Sure. Sorry I didn't call you back but we were out collecting rocks for the rockhounds and then I had to go to the beauty shop and today is my oil painting class. What's up?"

"I didn't want you to feel ignored on my birthday."

"Is today your birthday? Are you sure?"

"I was there, Mother. Why don't you come over this evening?"

"I'd love to, but there's a bell-ringing concert and after that we're all going over for a swim and a cookout."

"I just don't want you to be lonely. Maybe I'll come out tomorrow and we can visit."

"I'd love to have you but we're picking grapes and making raisins out of them. Maybe after my macrame class on Thursday. Let me check my calendar and call you back."

The next afternoon she popped in. "I only have a minute," she said, "I'm having a fund raiser coffee and I've got to vacuum the living room. Your father is out playing golf. So, what have you been doing?"

"I visited a mobile chest X-ray yesterday at the shopping center."

Mother looked at her watch.

"Did I tell you my yeast expired yesterday? I thought it had a week to go, but when I got it out of the refrigerator . . . "

"That's interesting," said Mother.

"My insurance man sent me a birthday card."

"That's nice," said Mother. Then she took my hand and said, "Dear, I want to help you through our retirement. I really do, but you must understand I have my own life, my own responsibilities and with my hectic schedule I can't sit around with you discussing your iron deficiency. You are basically on your own."

Mother was a middle-aged person once. I thought she'd understand.

Reformed alcoholic writes

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 35-year-old male. I was an alcoholic for 11 years and finally came to grips with it nine months ago. I went through a horrible case of the D.T.s which I hope has put the fear of the Lord in me for the remainder of my existence.

I am being treated by a very fine doctor who has me on Librium. But since stopping alcohol with the D.T.s I have a total lack of libido.

Tell me the truth, will it ever return? Or have I caused irreparable damage to my body? Otherwise I am in excellent health, including being mentally alert and feeling better than I can ever remember.

My weight dropped from 211 to 150 pounds during this period. My blood pressure averages 120 over 70 and I feel like a young man.

DEAR READER — You are a young man. And there is a good chance that your interest in sex and sexual responses will return to normal.

Part of this will depend upon how much damage you may have done to your liver. Eleven years of alcoholism is a real insult to the body. The liver has an important role in eliminating estrogens and maintaining a proper balance between male and female hormones.

You should know that alcohol has a direct effect on the testicles, resulting in a decrease in male hormone production. In a study of men who consume an equivalent of one and one-fourth pints of 80 proof whiskey a day for four weeks, Dr. Gary Gordon of New York Medical College found a 21 to 50 per cent decrease in testosterone production. And the testosterone in the blood stream was more rapidly removed.

Your weight loss has also been a factor. Men in starvation situations lose all interest in sex. I do not mean to imply your loss of weight is bad — it is good, but I doubt that your body has completed its readjustment.

I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer, to give you a broader picture of the bad effects of alcohol on the human body. Others who want this issue may send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to Post Office Box 1881, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You may wish to share this information with other people who have a drinking problem and have not been as successful as you in overcoming it. Congratulations.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a radio broadcaster and in my work I use headphones every day. Through the years I've noticed it's been necessary for me to boost the volume of the phones — bit by bit. I'm worried the phones are damaging my hearing and yet I have to use them in my work. How harmful are headphones to the ears?

DEAR READER — The headphones are not harmful — it is the sound that comes out of them. If the noise level is low enough it should not harm your ears. But if you have high intensity noise exposure regularly it will induce ear damage.

Of course you may be having changes in your hearing that are completely unrelated to your headphones. I would suggest that you see an ear, nose and throat specialist and have your hearing checked. You may have a completely different condition that he can help you with.

(Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column.)

Artists with bad eyesight

Those great artists Holbein, Cranach and El Greco painted their pictures in somewhat distorted protractions. Holbein saw things stretched out laterally. Cranach visualized things long and thin. El Greco perceived things at an angle that leaned to the right. A person with normal vision, wearing the appropriate corrective eyeglasses, sees the works of these painters in normal proportions with normal postures. The artists might never have been regarded as masters if they hadn't had such bad eyesight.

A specialist in sports medicine contends that most serious weightlifters are hypochondriacs.

Most snowflakes are six-sided.

RABBITS

That steel magnate Andrew Carnegie was quite an operator, even as a youngster. His pet rabbits were multiplying so quickly he couldn't find time to take care of them all personally. So he painted the monikers of some young friends on the rabbit hutches, thus naming each rabbit family in honor of a local boy. And those boys thereafter showed up each day to feed and water the rabbits.

Q. "What proportion of the people who bankrupt out their personal debts repeat the process when the law allows them to do so six years later?"

A. About 17 per cent.

Q. "Where'd we get the word 'Jeep'?"

A. It started out in World War II as Army slang for General Purpose vehicle.

CONVALESCENTS

Consider what happened at Wharsedale General Hospital in Yorkshire, England. The place was getting badly overcrowded. The hospital administration had no choice but to open one ward to convalescents both male and female. The men started shaving again. The women went back to using makeup and doing their hair. The recovery rate speeded up almost miraculously.

What's so appealing about the game of golf? One student of human behavior contends it satisfies an ancient inherent craving in certain men, and possibly women, too, to swing a club with all one's might at something, as though that something were a skull.

When that football superstar of yesteryear Red Grange was introduced to President Calvin Coolidge as a man from the Chicago Bears, the president said, "I'm glad to meet you, Mr. Grange. I've always liked animal acts."

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Wednesday, June 22, 1977
Your Birthday, June 22, 1977

Some very interesting people will move into your circle this year. A few of the relationships will be of short duration. Others will blossom into lasting friendships.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone who's fond of you yearns for the sound of your voice. You could make his or her day by an impromptu phone call. To find out to whom you're romantically suited, send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Supporters in high places are eager to help you today. They may show you how to aspire to heights you didn't dare dream about.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Imagination and creativity are strong in you today. You may fear some of your innovative ideas, but they are good and deserve a try.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Let your heart rule your head today in being generous to those less fortunate, even though your kindness costs you a few dollars in the process.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A person who staunchly supports you is paving the way for you with a pal of hers. When you meet, you'll feel like old friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The race goes to the swift today where your career is concerned. Get your licks in early if you want to be a winner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In meeting someone new today, don't be overwhelmed by who and what they are. Simply be yourself. You'll make the most favorable impression possible.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's more elasticity in the family budget than you realize. If there's something you really need, a little stretching can make it attainable.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Two seemingly unrelated situations can be tied together today to benefit you and others. You can do it effectively as the middleman.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You won't get it by betting on dice, but if you work at it, you're adept at devising ways to make or save yourself money.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you're favored with a superabundance of sex appeal. Those who weren't all that impressed may get a few tingles when they take a second look.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're quite clever to begin with, but today you're particularly gifted at brightening your surroundings with a dab of paint or a bold strip of cloth.

Opening lead — Q ♣

Here is a good hand for use of the code word ARCH. At least South needs the "C" (Count your winners and losers) and the "H" (How can I make this hand?).

There are two sure trump losers, a very likely heart loser and two possible club losers.

South's problem is to handle those two club losers and he can do this with proper trump management.

He must find a way to play two rounds of trumps without giving the defense a chance to play a third round.

This isn't too difficult. He simply leads a low trump at trick two. It doesn't matter who wins the trick and what is led back. Suppose East wins and leads back a second club.

South wins and cashes his ace of spades. Then he ruffs a club. Next come three high diamonds from dummy. West can ruff the third or discard. It doesn't matter there is no way to keep South from ruffing his last club with dummy's last trump.

Ask the Jacobys

A Toronto reader asks the proper opening bid with: ♠ A K Q J 8 7 6 ♥ A K J 2 ♦ x ♣ x.

Playing standard American or Acol you open two spades. If you play two clubs as your only forcing bid, open two clubs. The hand is too powerful for a four-spade opening.

Drought gone, now Europe swept by rains

By MICHAEL WEST
AP Writer

LONDON (AP) — This time last year a severe drought was taking its toll in Western Europe. Rivers and reservoirs were shrinking. Relentless sunshine was turning fields and pastures brown.

London businessmen left their umbrellas at home, took off their bowlers and stripped down to shirtsleeves.

This summer it's raining. The Thames, the Rhine, the Rhone and the Po are brimming again. Reservoirs, dangerously low when rains last October ended the drought, are full.

Last June, Britons, Belgians, French, Germans and Italians were sweltering. This year they are huddled in raincoats under umbrellas.

"It's been cloudy, cool and wet and looks likely to stay that way," says the London weather center.

"Lots of rain in sight" is the word from the meteorological office in Brussels, Belguim.

Farmers in Northern Italy are complaining that crops, especially fruit, are suffering from too much rain. In parts of West Germany almost twice the average rainfall has fallen this month.

Floods have hit many parts of France. Wine growers in the usually sunny south are asking for government subsidies because of rain and frost damage to their vineyards.

In Spain, parts of which also were hit by the drought last year, the temperature is below normal.

Dutch weather experts report "a near normal summer so far."

The 1976 heat wave started in early May. The Royal Dutch Meteorological Institute recorded the first "tropical day" on May 9, when the temperature rose to 86 degrees.

Then came day after sunny day of rainless skies with temperatures in the 90s, bringing elation at first, and then gloom.

Food prices climbed as crops withered in the fields. Water rationing went into effect in Britain and elsewhere.

Tens of thousands of cattle were slaughtered for lack of fodder. French housewives hoarded sugar. The Germans imported sauerkraut from the United States. Poles were eating foreign ham.

A severe potato shortage in Britain pushed the price from cents a pound to 20 cents. The Dutch, who usually export potatoes, imported them from the United States.

Denmark reported its grain harvest was 15 per cent below normal. Britain's yield was 5.7 per cent below the average for the previous three years.

The West German government made a $26 million emergency payout to farmers whose crops were hit by the drought. Low water hindered barge traffic on the Rhine.

Some after-effects of last year's dry spell linger. Britain's underground water table which feeds springs and wells is still low.

Psychologist says

Children need fairy tales

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Children need fairy tales to survive because they teach that everyday problems are not unique, says a noted psychologist.

"The tremendous value of fairy tales is, when exposed to fairy tales, a child knows 'This doesn't happen only to me. It happens all over the world,'" says Prof. Bruno Bettelheim.

In addition, he says, children who aren't allowed to escape the real world through fairy tales may become addicted in later life to drugs or television in an effort to try to escape.

Bettelheim is a professor emeritus at the University of Chicago and a researcher at Stanford University. He spoke recently at Southern Illinois University here.

A key ingredient in fairy tales such as Cinderella, says Bettelheim, is that the hero or heroine emerges from the experience as a changed person.

"There is no fairy tale anywhere in the world where the hero or heroine is not an entirely different person (at the end)," said Bettelheim. "A better person. A wiser person. A more mature person."

That is where many of today's children's tales fail, he said. The hero remains the same after going through his trials.

Bettelheim, author of several books on rearing children, said television soap operas are distorted fairy tales for adults in which people experience tremendous problems but are not changed.

Bettelheim believes it is "unfair that many young people do not know how to live" because they did not experience fairy tales in their childhood to help them figure out problems.

"To grow up well, to be able to master life, we need hopeful images ... all that you'll find in the traditional fairy tales."

The chief harmful dusts which can produce lung diseases are those which contain silica, asbestos or beryllium particles.

Summer jobs given okay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The City Council has approved a $10.2 million contract with the U.S. Labor Department that assures operation of the Summer Program for economically disadvantaged youth.

The council's action Thursday will direct Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds into 13,790 jobs for persons aged 14 to 21 years. The young people will work an average of 25 hours a week at $2.50 an hour in city departments, the Los Angeles Unified School District, and other agencies.

Euclid parents hope to retain school principal

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A group of parents has petitioned the Ontario-Montclair school board in hopes of keeping John Duncan as principal of Euclid School.

Juanita Patton, parent of a child at Euclid, submitted petitions signed by 430 parents who, she said, are "very unhappy" about Duncan's transfer to Monte Vista School for next fall.

Duncan is one of a number of district principals being transferred to other schools in September. Von Richardson, now a principal in La Habra, will take over Duncan's post at Euclid.

Mrs. Patton told the school board that Duncan "knows our children and cares about them. And it's hard to get to know people in the southern part of Ontario."

She added that Duncan "is loved and respected by his students."

A new principal will have to start from scratch, she indicated.

Board President Rose Kelber told Mrs. Patton that "We have to place people in buildings where they can do the most good."

Sam DiGiovanni, another trustee, said if Duncan remained at Euclid (after already serving five years at the school) "he would never advance. It's good to advance and get a well-rounded experience in education.

"If I were John, I'd want to advance."

Mrs. Kelber said the board "is aware of the problems in changing principals."

Mrs. Patton said after the meeting that parents are angry over Duncan's transfer and "the board could care less. He's our principal and cares about what's happening. We have unruly kids in the area and you can talk to him about it. He doesn't just do his job — he tries to solve problems."

Board members took no action on the request, and it seemed unlikely they would in the future.

Handyman sentenced to life term

PASADENA (AP) — A handyman who murdered a 26-year-old pregnant woman has been sentenced to life in prison.

Superior Court Judge Arch Tuthill imposed the sentence Thursday on Emery S. Riddle, 25, and urged that he "never be paroled."

Riddle was convicted May 26 of murdering Renee Kan, earlier identified as Renee Kane. He also was convicted of robbery and burglary.

Mrs. Kan, the wife of an Arcadia attorney, disappeared from her home Dec. 2. Her body was later discovered near the Pasadena Rose Bowl. She had been strangled with an electrical cord.

Police arrested Riddle, a resident here, after neighbors reported seeing his car in the area when Mrs. Kan disappeared.

Bids being taken for improvements of Claremont roads

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The City of Claremont is calling for bids for about $160,000 in various street improvements.

Improvements would include resurfacing of Bonita Avenue from the west city limit to Indian Hill Boulevard, San Jose Avenue from College Avenue to Mills Avenue, and Seventh and Eighth streets between Indian Hill Boulevard and College Avenue, and slurry seal treatment on 22 other streets.

The City Council last year budgeted $72,000 for street improvements. The proposed city budget for 1977-78 recommends that $129,000 be spent from the 1976-77 budget and $47,000 from 1977-78 budget to complete the work on Bonita and San Jose avenues.

About $23,000 may be funded by the Claremont Redevelopment Agency for that portion of Bonita Avenue between Cornell Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard.

Slurry seal will be put on the following streets: Carthage Court, Clemson Avenue between Teasdale Drive and Sumner Avenue, Wheaton Avenue, Oxford Avenue between Colby Circle and Occidental Drive, St. Augustine Avenue between Oak Park Drive and Springfield Street, Chatham Court, Wagner Drive between Indian Hill Boulevard and Radcliffe Drive, Radcliffe Drive between Indian Hill Boulevard and Mills Avenue, Miami Court, Knox Court, Abilene Way, Judson Court, Stowe Court, Converse Avenue between Meredith Street and Cedar Crest Avenue, Cedar Crest Avenue between Meredith Street and Converse Avenue, Clark Avenue between Meredith Street and Oak Park Drive, Academy Court, Pembroke Court, Loyola Court, Barrington Court, Brockport Court and Austin Court.

City Community Development Director Paul Cook said that the project should start about Aug. 15 and last two months. He said that the order in which the different segments are done will be up to the contractor.

Super contest on tonight

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Tonight's fourth annual Pomona Valley All-Star Basketball Game promises to be a super contest at the Supertent.

The game, featuring the top prep basketball players in the area, is set to go at 8 p.m. at La Verne College's Supertent. It's sponsored by the La Verne Rotary Club and profits from the affair will be donated to local charities.

The South leads the series 2-1. However, many cage experts are picking the North to even up that score tonight, based mainly on the presence of All-Valley performers Bill Duffy and Rich Davis on the North roster.

The South squad, while not possessing a player of the stature of a Duffy or Davis, does appear to have the edge in depth and quickness. The North team, with the 6-10 Davis in the lineup, will have a definite advantage in heighth.

All in all, it shapes up as perhaps the most interesting matchup in the four-year history of the classic, with this year's team rosters exceptionally strong.

"I guarantee you that there will be plenty of college coaches and scouts at the game," South coach Gary Fulkerson said. "I'm sure that, since almost no one on my squad has signed a letter of intent, that there will be a lot of interest in the game from a scouts' standpoint."

Indeed, remarkably enough only one South player, Ganesha's Steve Polee, has indicated his college plans.

"From a fan's standpoint, it should be a great game," Fulkerson continued. "We'll use a run and gun approach which will keep things hopping, while the North has two "supers" in Duffy and Davis."

Neither Fulkerson or North mentor Bill Roberts of Damien would reveal a starting lineup. However, since by the rules of the game every player must play at least five minutes of the first half, you can bet that there will plenty of substituting.

The added length of the game (48 minutes as opposed to the 32-minute prep games) will also insure everyone seeing a lot of playing time.

"Conditioning will definitely be a factor," notes Roberts. "I'm sure some of our guys will really be dragging in the last quarter, so I am going to try to keep them all as fresh as possible."

Fulkerson indicated that the South squad is healthy with one exception. Garey High center James Lofton, who is expected to help counterbalance Davis' talents under the basket, is suffering from a groin pull. It remains to be seen if how it affects him, if at all, tonight.

If Lofton is hurting, expect to see a lot of Montclair's Bruce LaVallee. LaVallee, Fulkerson feels, is one of the most underrated players on his South roster. The 6-foot-6 ex-Cavalier has looked most impressive at South practice sessions.

Other South members are Mickey Donaldson and Leo Olivas from Ontario, Herbie Banks from Garey, Hank Bouwman from Ontario Christian, Roger Hairston from Chino, Randy Wenzel from Chaffey, Darrin Pierce from Montclair and Randy McFarlen and Kelley Needham from Rowland.

North coach Roberts also has a couple injury problems. Royal Oak's Bill Cavanaugh and Charter Oak's Brad Keilty are both doubtful for the game with injuries.

Other players are Mike Boyd and Keith Brandt from Bonita, Kyle Fortson and Ray Kwiatek from Claremont, Kevin Comstock from Alta Loma, Ed Carlson from Damien, David Moore from Pomona and Ken Muraki from San Dimas.

Fulkerson will be assisted by Mike Wells of Garey High. Roberts' assistant will be Jeff McCall of Alta Loma.

The contest, one of only 30 sanctioned by the NCAA nation-wide, will feature 12-minute quarters, with each player being allowed six fouls before fouling out.

A special halftime gymnastics demonstration is also planned under the guidance of Jesse Staples of host La Verne College.

Tickets will be available at the door tonight, priced at $2.50 for adults and $2 for students.

Connors snubs British hosts

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors, the world's No. 1 tennis player and the No. 1 seed at the Wimbledon championships, is no longer No. 1 with the British.

In a display of what the English regarded as bad manners, Connors snubbed the royal family, the All-England Club and the tennis public Monday when he failed to turn up for the Parade of Champions marking the opening day of Wimbledon's centenary.

"If a charming 85-year-old lady on crutches feels proud to take part in the centenary celebrations," said veteran tennis correspondent Laurie Pignon of the London Daily Mail, "It is inconceivable that a young man cannot bother to walk a few hundred yards with a bad thumb."

Pignon was referring to 85-year-old Elizabeth Ryan, the American who won a record 19 doubles titles here from 1914 to 1934 and who hobbled onto the center court on crutches to take her place among the 43 Wimbledon champions who were honored in pre-tournament ceremonies. Each received a commemorative medal from the Duke of Kent, cousin of Queen Elizabeth II.

Connors, meanwhile, was practising on an outside court with his friend Ilie Nastase. He had not even replied to the club's invitation to join the parade and a special luncheon for champions. Connors won the men's singles title here in 1974.

He sent no apology or explanation for missing the parade and when asked by a newsman why he was absent, he said: "Maybe I was seeing my doctor."

Maj. David Mills, secretary of the All-England Club, said the championship committee had met and decided not to give Connors his medal because of the American's "extreme discourtesy."

Connors, nursing a cracked bone in the thumb on his right hand, was also unpopular with his first-round opponent. Their match was postponed until today at Connors' request while a special splint was fitted onto his thumb.

Said his British opponent, Richard Lewis: "I'm quite sure that if I had been the player with the bad thumb, the match would not have been put back."

Other recent Wimbledon champions were puzzled by Connors' action.

Bjorn Borg, the 1976 champion who joined the center court parade just before opening defense of his title, said of Connors' absence: "I was very surprised. I don't know why he didn't show up."

John Newcombe, champion in 1967, 1970 and 1971, said: "I have had a talk with Connors and told him he made a serious misjudgement. I think he realizes it now."

But Connors himself was not available for comment.

Nevertheless, tournament officials expected him to be on court today for his first match.

Peter Wilson of the Daily Mirror, who first covered these championships 48 years ago, said of Connors: "His behavior equals the worst I can remember at Wimbledon."

The big upset in Monday's action was the defeat of No. 4-seed Roscoe Tanner, upset 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 8-6 by British Davis Cup player John Lloyd. The other seeded men's singles players engaged on the first day all won.

Dodgers big hits for Rhoden

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — When Rick Rhoden pitches, the Dodgers hit.

It's just that simple as the Dodgers pounded four home runs Monday night to give Rhoden a laugher as he became the National League's first 10-game winner with a 9-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

But Rhoden is not thinking too much yet about winning 25 or more games. All he is thinking about now is getting No. 11 Sunday.

"If they keep scoring like that for me, I ought to win 25 games," the righthander said. "But right now, I want No. 11 because my next start is against the guys we have to beat."

Rhoden will take the mound again Sunday in Cincinnati against the second-place Reds, who are again 8 1/2 games behind the Dodgers as L.A. has won six of its first seven games on the current homestand.

In his 10 wins, Rhoden has been blessed with 79 runs. His earned run average of 4.21 isn't anything to brag about and Rhoden is aware of it.

He was working on a four-hit shutout until the Cards broke the spell with three runs in the ninth inning to get something out of the one-sided loss.

"I really wanted to pitch well tonight," Rhoden said. "For some reason, I've been hit hard in three or four games in St. Louis so I was looking forward to pitching against them here. But I was disappointed about the three runs in the ninth. They didn't help my ERA much."

Rhoden is especially tough at Dodger Stadium as his 19-4 lifetime record indicates.

"I love to pitch here and the big crowds have been a big help for the whole team," Rhoden said in referring to the Monday night turnout of 39,614.

With four more homers Monday, the Dodgers have raised their season total to 82 only nine below last year's total. In this homestand, L.A. has hit 12 in seven games.

Rick Monday led the HR parade with two for his eighth and ninth of the year while Steve Garvey drilled his 15th and sixth in nine games and Dusty Baker connected for his 13th.

The big crowd really got a show in the fifth inning when Reggie Smith walked, Garvey doubled, Baker homered and Monday followed with his second HR of the night.

"Naturally, to say anything but the fact I am overjoyed would be an understatement," Monday said. "I haven't been hitting. That concerns me. But what concerns me more is staying healthy - the back problems have caused me to develop so many bad habits."

The centerfielder have been in and out of the lineup because of back spasms.

Garvey started the assault on Cardinal starter Pete Falcone (2-6) in the second inning when the Dodgers added two more runs on a walk, two singles by Monday and Steve Yeager and a double by Teddy Martinez.

Monday added a two-run homer in the fifth.

DODGER DATA — Davey Lopes missed his ninth consecutive game with a muscle pull in his left rib cage and Lee Lacy couldn't make it Monday because of a pulled muscle.

The Cardinals will send John Denny (7-2) to the mound tonight against Doug Rau (6-1). Wednesday's probables are Burt Hooton (4-3) vs. Tom Underwood (3-2).

The Dodgers have hit at least one home run in their last 13 games. The record is 25 by the 1941 New York Yankees.

L.A. is 13-3 against the East at Dodger Stadium and has won eight straight over the Cards at home in a stretch dating back to 1975.

The Cards' Lou Brock has 875 career stolen bases and 2,758 hits. He needs just 18 more steals to top Ty Ty Cobb's career record of 892.

Orioles sign Steve Polan

BALTIMORE — La Verne College third baseman Steve Polan has signed a pro contract with the Baltimore Orioles, it was announced today.

Polan had been a 12th round selection of the Orioles in the recent draft. He batted .360 for La Verne this past season and clubbed 16 home runs while turning in some dazzling glove work at third for the Leos.

The Sacramento native will be reporting to Baltimore's farm club at Bluefield, W.Va. in the Appalachian League. That club is managed by La Verne's Ben Hines.

The Birds also announced the signing of their no. one pick in the draft, 17-year old outfielder Drugo Hazewood of Sacramento. Hazewood turned down a football scholarship at Southern Cal to ink with Baltimore.

Evert routs R. Gerulaitis

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Chris Evert started her defense of the Wimbledon women's tennis title today by routing Ruta Gerulaitis of Kings Point, N.Y., 6-0, 6-3.

Miss Gerulaitis, making her first visit to Wimbledon, had to start with the kind of match every newcomer dreads—against the defending champion on center court.

She looked nervous in the first set, and although she hit some impressive ground strokes Miss Evert was in complete command.

Miss Evert won the first game of the second set at love and led 40-0 against service in the next game. But then she made a couple of errors and Miss Gerulaitis hit two fine backhands to win her first game.

Allen is suspended

CHICAGO (AP) — The Oakland A's won a game against the Chicago White Sox but lost a player.

After Oakland defeated Chicago 7-1 Monday night to break a five-game losing streak, team owner Charlie Finley announced he was suspending first baseman Dick Allen for a week without pay.

The reason, Finley said, was because the slumping slugger decided to take a shower and leave the clubhouse while the game was still in progress.

"If he doesn't like it, he can take a hike," said Finley. "I don't care if he ever shows up again. I was trying to show the world I could work with him, but I found out I was like the rest of the suckers."

"I hope he never shows up again," Finley said later in a telephone interview. "I saw Dick Allen in the shower in the sixth inning and that was all I wanted to see of Dick Allen. No, I didn't say anything to him. I called the manager, Bobby Winkles. He's his man. It's beneath my dignity to say anything to him."

It was another in a series of incidents marking the career of the 35-year-old slugger who was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1972 when he made a stop with the Chicago White Sox.

J. Davis returns as Walnut coach

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Walnut High did not have to go far to find a new basketball coach.

The Mustangs have announced the hiring of Jerry Davis to direct their cage fortunes. If that name sounds familar, it should.

Davis, 39, was the school's first varsity cage coach ever in 1968-69. In 1969-70, he directed the school to a record-setting 24-5 record and the semifinals of the CIF 2A playoffs.

He left his coaching duties in 1971 to assume the vice principal's office at Walnut, but the past three years has been a physical education instructor at the school, and has coached freshmen, J.V. and girls teams in basketball and tennis.

Prior to coming to Walnut in the late 1960's, Davis was the head hoop coach at Rowland High.

"It's very gratifying for me to get a second chance at the Walnut job," the new Mustang mentor indicated. "I feel fortunate to be able to get back into coaching at the varsity level.

"When I resigned as coach in 1970, it was because I felt I did not have the time to be both vice principal and coach. But as the years went by, I realized just how much I missed the game and working with young players."

Davis was one of 40 applicants for the Walnut post, left vacant when Bill Murray left the school in June to search for a head coaching job in the Orange County area.

Davis' son, Jeff, was an All-Valley basketball selection this past year as a senior guard.

"I've already met with the kids and they have been super responsive," said Davis. "I had this group as freshmen and they were undefeated then. It's a real treat to come back and be able to coach them as seniors.

"We should be in good shape for next year," Davis promised. "I've got an excellent young coach, Scott Wright, working with me on the varsity and we are involved in two summer leagues. We're currently playing every Friday night in the league at Mt. San Antonio College, and are also in a league in Placentia.

Davis also indicated that he is in the process of forming a parents' booster group and that he has received "great support" from Walnut students and the surrounding community.

"It's a pleasure to be back," he said. "I think I can build a fine program, one that the school and community can be proud of."

Martin escapes axe for present

DETROIT (AP) — The headsman will have to wait for another day.

Fiesty Billy Martin has escaped the axe. Suddenly the New York Yankees baseball manager feels "very much more relaxed."

The question remains, however, whether Martin was given a reprieve or whether Yankee management ever actually intended to fire him—as had been reported.

Gabe Paul, president of the Yankees, denied the reports. He said at a 10-minute news conference in the Tiger Stadium press box Monday night that Martin would remain New York's manager.

Yet, Paul said, "We don't have votes of confidences."

He said there was a "very short" meeting in the clubhouse before the Yankees' 2-1 loss Monday night to the Detroit Tigers. It was to clear the air on the Martin situation.

"No, I wouldn't say it was a vote of confidence," Martin said. "They just said I'm their manager. They told me I'm the best manager in baseball."

"There were a couple other things they wanted me to do," the volatile, 49-year-old Martin added. "For instance, I missed a meeting. I know I should have been there. That's something I'll have to correct. Otherwise, there were no complaints about my managing."

Rumors that Martin was about to lose his fourth major league managerial job began circulating Saturday after he pulled high-priced right fielder Reggie Jackson from the lineup in Boston. Jackson appeared to have nonchalantly let a bloop hit become a double.

He and Martin nearly came to blows when Jackson went into the dugout.

Martin, however, did not fault Jackson for losing a Mickey Stanley ball in the lights in the seventh inning Monday night. The ball fell in for a double and led to the 1-1 tiebreaking run.

Paul sloughed off the Jackson-Martin flareup in Boston.

"No one incident will determine whether a club would keep or not keep a manager," Paul said. "Things like this are of great importance and we are now all happy. We consider Martin the best manager in major league baseball.

"There were strong rumors that a change was imminent," he said. "There was no change imminent."

That made Martin—who has been fired from managing jobs at Minnesota, Detroit and Texas—quite happy. He seemed even more pleased about the ovation the crowd of 47,236 gave him when he took the lineup cards to home plate before Monday night's nationally-televised game.

"I'm very much more relaxed," he said. "What made me feel good is when the fans gave me that ovation. It was the best ovation I've ever had in my life. It came at a really good time."

Paul, in his announcement said: "Although there have been unconfirmed rumors regarding changes in personnel and management of the New Zork Yankees ball club, there will not be a change in managers regardless of what has been said. Billy Martin will continue as manager of the New York Yankees."

By The Associated Press

It was a long time coming, but the Philadelphia Phillies finally defeated the Cincinnati Reds. And the Phillies' Jim Kaat finally threw another complete game.

Since Aug. 26, 1976, the Phillies had dropped nine consecutive games to the world champions. Cincinnati topped the Phillies in the final three regular season games last year, three times in the National League playoffs and in the first three meetings this season.

Then came Monday night's 10-4 Philadelphia victory over Cincinnati as Kaat, 2-5, hurled his first complete game since Aug. 3, 1976. Kaat gave credit to former pitching coach Johnny Sain.

"John told me I was rocking in my motion," Kaat said after his nine-hitter. "That gave the hitters a timing device. Now I'm starting from a dead position."

Which is the almost the position Kaat found himself in early this season when he was dropped from the starting rotation by Manager Danny Ozark.

"I've felt like excess baggage here, not a part of the club," said Kaat, though Ozark didn't share the 38-year-old left-hander's opinion.

"I'm happy with him," said Ozark. "I still think he is doing a good job, even if he isn't starting every fifth day."

Mike Schmidt and Larry Bowa homered in Kaat's support. Bowa's third home run of the season marked a career high for the slap-hitting shortstop.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago edged San Francisco 10-9 in 12 innings, Houston topped Montreal 6-3, Pittsburgh snapped a seven-game losing streak with a 5-3 defeat of San Diego and Los Angeles slammed St. Louis 9-3. Atlanta's game at New York was rained out.

Cubs 10, Giants 9, 12 innings

Bobby Murcer drove in six runs with a three-run homer and a three-run double, but the Cubs didn't beat the Giants until Mick Kelleher's two-out triple in the 12th inning scored Joe Wallis.

Chicago moved ahead 4-0, helped by Murcer's homer, then the Giants rallied to take a 5-4 lead. Jack Clark's pinchhit three-run homer in the sixth, his fourth round-tripper in four games, put San Francisco on top.

The Cubs grabbed a 6-5 lead in the eighth on Jerry Morales' two-run homer but the Giants moved ahead 8-6 with the help of a pair of Chicago errors in the bottom of the inning.

The Cubs took a 9-8 lead in the top of the ninth on Murcer's double before San Francisco tied the score on Clark's twoout double that scored Gary Alexander.

Astros 6, Expos 3

J.R. Richard pitched an eight-hitter, striking out nine and walking three. Joe Ferguson aided Richard, 6-6, with a two-run double in the seventh inning that drove home the decisive runs.

Richard provided an insurance tally in the ninth by clouting his first homer of the season. Enos Cabell had three hits and a homer for the Astros while Gary Carter knocked in the Montreal runs with a homer and a two-run single.

Pirates 5, Padres 3

Phil Garner's solo homer in the eighth inning snapped a 3-3 tie for Pittsburgh. The Pirates were helped by consecutive throwing errors by San Diego shortstop Bill Almon in the fifth.

Pittsburgh's Kent Tekulve, 4-1, got relief help from Rich Gossage, who earned his 11th save with two shutout innings.

Thomas facing action

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Spokane first baseman-outfielder Danny Thomas has received an ultimatum from the Milwaukee Brewers, parent team of the Pacific Coast League Indians: play all week, or be suspended.

Thomas, 26, says he'll take the suspension rather than violate his beliefs and those of his religion, the World Wide Church of God.

He said his beliefs prevent him from working during the church's Sabbath, between sundown Friday and sundown Saturday.

Thomas, who missed Friday night and Saturday afternoon games against Albuquerque last week in Spokane, said the Brewers told him "they'll suspend me Friday without pay if I don't show up."

Spokane opens a 10-day road trip Friday in Albuquerque.

"They're my bosses, and they have that right," said Thomas. "I don't feel any hostility. I feel thankful for the opportunity Milwaukee has given me."

In an injury-interrupted 1976 season with Spokane, Thomas hit .325 with 29 home runs and 83 runs batted in. He was named the league's player of the year and promoted to the Brewers.

Last winter Thomas joined the World Wide Church of God and took a vow to keep the Sabbath a day of rest.

He started the season with Milwaukee hitting over .300 but was sent back to Spokane when his average slipped to .271.

Thomas is hitting .254 in 18 games for the Indians with no home runs and nine runs batted in.

He said he doesn't intend to sue to prevent his suspension.

"This is a great country," he said.

Wise helps Bosox boost division lead

By Associated Press

You know all about the Boston Red Sox' hitters. How about a few kind words for their pitchers?

"We have a lot better staff than people think we do," slugger Carl Yastrzemski said Monday night. "When you pitch in Fenway Park, your earned run average is automatically one run higher."

The Red Sox were in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium rather than Fenway's friendly confines as Rick Wise hurled a two-hit, 10-strikeout shutout in defeating the Orioles, 4-0.

The Red Sox' fourth consecutive triumph and 10th in 11 games boosted their lead in the American League East to 3½ games over both the Orioles and the New York Yankees, who lost to the Detroit Tigers, 2-1.

Elsewhere, the Oakland A's whipped the Chicago White Sox 7-1, the Texas Rangers edged the Minnesota Twins 2-1, the Seattle Mariners downed the Kansas City Royals 4-2 and the Cleveland Indians outlasted the Toronto Blue Jays 8-5 in 11 innings. California and Milwaukee were not scheduled.

The Red Sox, who set a major league record by hammering 16 homers in three games against the Yankees over the weekend, settled for just one this time—Butch Hobson's ninth of the season—giving them a record-tying 22 in six games. But Jim Rice tripled home a run and Yastrzemski doubled across two more in an 11-hit attack.

Wise, who was banished to the bullpen from May 3-June 8, allowed doubles by Mark Belanger in the third inning and Lee May in the seventh. The veteran right-hander's strikeout total was the best in his American League career and one short of his National League high.

"I've never really been a fast starter, but I've never sat around for five weeks, either," said Wise. "I was sent to the bullpen after four starts and during one stretch I didn't pitch for 19 days. I knew if I got the ball, I could do the job."

In his last 27 innings, including three starts and one relief outing, he has allowed 17 hits and two runs and fanned 23.

"I'm not a strikeout pitcher," he said, "but I do have a good ratio of strikeouts to walks. I'm a control pitcher and I try to make the batter hit my pitch with a minimum of mistakes. This is a beautiful pitcher's park. I love to pitch here. In this park you don't have to be so fine.

"When you pitch for this club you try to keep the game close. You know this club is going to score runs."

Tigers 2, Yankees 1

New York right fielder Reggie Jeckson lost Mickey Stanley's fly ball in the lights for a seventh-inning double and it led to the winning run. Meanwhile, Mark 'Fidrych held the Yankees to three singles.

Jackson's boo-boo followed a leadoff walk to Jason Thompson. Aurelio Rodriguez promptly singled home the tie-breaking run.

It was Jackson whose casual outfield play in Boston Saturday resulted in a near-fight in the dugout between the outfielder and Manager Billy Martin. Just before Monday night's game, Martin received a vote of confidence from club president Gabe Paul, who denied reports that the manager would be fired.

"He took it very hard," Martin said of Jackson's lost-ball goof. "He came running into the clubhouse and felt hurt. I went to Reggie, put my arm on his shoulder and said: 'Geez, you can't be faulted for that. You lost the ball in the lights.' It was nothing to be ashamed of. He played his heart out. He hustled all the way."

A's 7, White Sox 1

Light-hitting Rob Picciolo collected three hits, including a triple and a double, and Rodney Scott had a double and two singles to lead a 16-hit Oakland attack that ended the A's five-game losing streak and Chicago's four-game winning streak.

Rangers 2, Twins 1

Dock Ellis and three relief pitchers combined to check Minnesota despite 12 Twins hits. Toby Harrah homered for the Rangers, who were held to four other hits by rookie Paul Thormodsgard.

"It seems like every series we play Texas we manage to get a belt-high fast ball to Harrah and he never misses it," moaned Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch. "We got plenty of hits. It wasn't a matter of how many, but when."

Mariners 4, Royals 2

Steve Braun doubled, tripled and scored twice and Lee Stanton drove in three runs as Seattle withstood solo homers by KC's Tom Poquette and Hal McRae.

Indians 8, Blue Jays 5

Ray Fosse's bases-loaded triple in the 11th inning gave Cleveland its fifth consecutive victory and third in a row under new Manager Jeff Torborg. Frank Duffy's second home run of the season pulled the Indians even in the eighth and Toronto took an early 4-0 lead.

Webb places two on All-CIF team

Webb School, which made it to the 1A finals this year, has placed two men on the All-CIF 1A Baseball Team, it was announced today.

The Gauls' junior outfielder John Richards was tabbed as a first-team selection. Webb hurler Howard Lockie was a second-team pick.

Richards, a 5-foot-11, 155-pounder, batted .405 for the Gauls this season and sparkled in centerfield.

Lockie, one of only two sophomores picked to the team, compiled an 11-3 mound mark for Webb.

Fillmore's Rick Stewart, who no-hit Webb in the 1A finals, was an easy pick as the 1A Player of the Year. Stewart, a 5-foot-11, 185-pounder, compiled a sensational 17-0 pitching record this year and also batted .371.

Stewart, who was also the 1A's top player as a soph and junior, registered a career record of 39-2 with five no-hitters, and 432 strikeouts in 258 innings. His three-year earned run average at Fillmore was 0.38.

Fillmore topped all 1A teams with four players picked to the first and second units.

Members of the 1A team will be honored at a special awards program at Anaheim Stadium on Sunday, July 3.

Vikings get Bradley

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Two-time All Pro free safety Bill Bradley has been acquired by the Minnesota Vikings from the Philadelphia Eagles for an undisclosed National Football League draft choice.

The 30-year-old Bradley, the Eagles' top choice in 1969, was enthusiastic about the trade.

"I can't tell you how delighted I am," he said. "It's like going from Class B ball to Class A."

Borgmann injured

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — A knee injury will keep catcher Glenn Borgmann out of action six to eight weeks, the Minnesota Twins said Monday.

A spokesman for the American League baseball club said Borgmann underwent surgery to repair torn ligaments in his left knee. Borgmann suffered the injury Sunday in a play at home plate during the TwinsRoyals game in Kansas City.

Cauthen returns

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Cauthen, the nation's leading jockey when he was injured in a spill May 23 at Belmont Park, is scheduled to return to action with rides on four mounts Thursday at Belmont.

Jr. Olympics on TV

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The NBC television network will broadcast the championship events of the AAU Junior Olympics to be held in Lincoln Aug. 13-14.

Ohlmeyer said Monday the Junior Olympics represent "a tremendous step in the right direction" toward developing young American athletes for eventual Olympic competition.

Billy Corbett sets mark for amateurs

PEBBLE BEACH (AP) — "It wasn't spectacular. I didn't chip in or anything, but I did hit 16 greens," said San Rafael's Billy Corbett after setting a Spyglass Hill record for amateurs with a 68 in the opening of play in the 66th California Amateur Golf Championship.

The four-under-par round Monday by the 17-year-old recent high school graduate broke the record of 70 shared by former Stanford golfer Bruce Robertson and current touring pro Forrest Fezler.

Corbett moves today to the the Pebble Beach course, also par 72, for the second round of qualifying. A cut to 64 will be made after the round, and 32 will survive Wednesday's third round and begin match play Thursday.

Corbett held a three-stroke lead over Roger Armstrong of Oakland after the opening round. Three players matched par — Pat McGowan of Colusa, Gary Matteson of Fresno and Trans-Miss tournament champion Doug Clarke of La Jolla.

Among the other leaders were two-time NCAA champ Scott Simpson of USC, 1975 State Am winner John Cook of Palm Springs and former San Francisco 49ers quarterback John Brodie, all at 74. Those at 75 included Camarillo's Lee Mikles, the NCAA runner-up from Arizona State.

Twins facing loss of unsigned stars

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The list of unsigned Minnesota Twins players sounds like the heart of the team's batting order mixed with the elite of the pitching staff.

The most prominent Twins playing out their option years are outfielders Larry Hisle and Lyman Bostock. But pitchers Dave Goltz, Tom Burgmeier and Ron Schueler and utilityman Jerry Terrell also remain unsigned.

Since the June 15 signing deadline zipped by without any apparent notice by Twins' owner Calvin Griffith, it's possible the whole bunch will depart at the end of the season.

"I think there is more of a chance at this time to sign the others before Lyman," Griffith admitted Monday night. "We have some plans in the works now, but we don't want to divulge them."

Hisle's situation is a rerun from last year of Bill Campbell's sojourn from the ranks of an underpaid relief pitcher to a Boston millionaire.

Hisle began the year wanting a six-figure, one-year contract since he is a six-year performer and eligible to become a free agent, anyway, at the conclusion of the season. The Twins, of course, wanted to keep their top slugger around for a longer period and countered with a multi-year pact. He wants to help his tax situation and the Twins hedged again.

Now the Twins are ready to consider the request for deferred payments, but Hisle has become so involved in the negotiations that he would like a five-year contract to avoid going through a similar struggle again.

"It's really tough and I don't think my mind is always where it should be," said Hisle, who leads the American League with 60 runs batted in. "I lived here all winter and the Twins mentioned contract to me once."

In addition, Hisle is beginning to consider permitting an agent to conduct his business and that would mark the beginning of the end for him at Minnesota if he goes on the open market.

Bostock wanted a four-year, $800,000 contract and set opening day as the Twins' deadline to meet his demands. They were never considered, but the Twins kept the 26-year-old Bostock to help them in their bid for the division title in the American League West. The fleet centerfielder is hitting .351.

"Heck no, I don't want to lose Lyman," said Griffith. "At the same time, I don't want to do something to jeopardize my thinking with lots of other people."

Goltz is the only experienced starter in the Twins rotation and Burgmeier is the top left-handed relief pitcher.

The Twins appeared to be making headway on improving player relations at contract time when Clark Griffith took over the duties from his father, but Clark apparently was too generous and vice president Howard Fox now has those duties.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! — Roy Smith, Pamela Peadon and Joe Bennett tip their hats to their own show, "A Chorus Line," which celebrates its first birthday at the Shubert Theater, Los Angeles, July 7. The most successful play in Los Angeles theater history, it has been seen by three-quarters of a million people.

Recital offered at Garrison

By RALPH PIERCE

Saturday night saw a small audience of concert-goers and Naval Cadet Corps supporters attend a very well delivered recital by two fine artists from the Los Angeles area, Carol Stewart, pianist, and Jan Schmidt, soprano. The short program in Garrison Theater made us only wish that we could hear each of these fine artists in solo recital.

In her opening group of songs by Rodrigo, Miss Schmidt demonstrated a sporano voice of fine quality and always under control. She sings with musicianship which was further demonstrated in the group of songs by Milhaud which closed the first half of the program.

Miss Stewart, who is a member of the music faculty at USC, is a pianist who knows her way around both musically and technically. Her offerings consisted of works by Charles Ives, Chopin, Brahms and Saint-Seans. She demonstrated a sensitivity to the style of each of the composers represented and, again, we should hear her in a more complete program than one of the short works presented on this occasion.

In the closing arias Miss Schmidt ventured into the realm of the coloratura and showed that she could soar into the vocal stratosphere of high C's and above. The program closed with the Leonard Berstein aria, "Glitter and Be Gay" from "Candide" which almost got a little enthusiasm from a rather unresponsive audience. No review of this performance would be complete without mentioning the exceptionally fine accompanying skill of Miss Stewart. In this field she would certainly be rated with the top artists.

The concert was a benefit performance sponsored by the Naval Sea Cadet Corps and the Pomona Valley Council of the U.S. Navy League. Both orgainzations should be commended for sponsoring a program of this calibre.

HI HO, SILVER! — It's been 20 years since Clayton Moore hung up the mask of the Lone Ranger, but he doesn't regret playing the role that typecast him into semi-retirement. With him is Jay Silverheels as the faithful Indian scout, Tonto. Silverheels lives in Calabasas and runs an acting school for Indians. Moore reports that his white stallion, Silver, is now 28 and living a life of ease.

Auditions scheduled for Chaffey musical

Chaffey College will hold tryouts to pick four women and six men for the summer production of "Something's Afoot," a new murder mystery musical by James McDonald, David Vos and Robert Gerlach.

Auditions will be held in the Little Theater at 7 o'clock nightly through July 5 except weekends and July 4. Ralph Strane will direct. Persons interested in preparing for the tryouts can obtain scripts at the office of the creative arts division.

The who-done-it musical is adapted from Agatha Christy's "Ten Little Indians." It had its debut at the American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco and played at the Huntington Hartford in Hollywood.

The Chaffey presentation, slated for Aug. 4, 5, 6 with curtain at 8:30 p.m. is the first local production.

Open for women are the roles of Lady Grace Manley-Prowe, the grande dame; Lettie, the saucy maid; Hope, the ingenue, and Miss Tweed, the tweedy amateur sleuth.

Parts for men are Flint, the caretaker; Cline, the butler; Dr. Grayburn, the family physician; Nigel Rancour, the dissolute nephew; Col. Gillweather, the old army man, and Geoffrey, the collegian.

In addition to the performers, there are spots for persons who would like to work on sets, lighting, properties and costumes. All participants in the production can gain five units of college credit by enrolling in Theater Arts 108.

The programs are sponsored by the San Diego Old Time Fiddlers Association.

Among the most prominent fiddlers will be Bob Shields, who placed sixth in the Northern California Regional Contest at Oroville; Gary Moore, first-place winner of a fiddling contest at the Expo two years ago and seventh-place winner at the 1975 national competition at Weiser, Ida.; and Don Hickox, president of the Old Time Fiddlers, winner of the 1976 competition at Pepper Grove, and first place winner in traditional division at Julian last year. He also took a second in the blue grass division and a second in this year's Union Grove Fiddle Festival at Union Grove, N.C., where some 700 fiddlers and 200 bands competed.

Others appearing will be Ann Whisenand, second place winner at Idyllwild in 1976, Jim Heisey, Bobbiane Heisey, Ray Brady, 85-year-old fiddler, Ernie Robinson, Chris Vitas, Willie Randall, and Tommy Kimbrell.

A fair is a special event to which people come to buy and sell goods, hold contests and have a good time.

Fairs first came about as a means of carrying on trade. In ancient times towns were far apart and there were few stores or markets for trading or buying goods. Farmers and craftsmen often had to travel far to sell their products. The earliest fairs took place at times when people gathered together to celebrate important religious festivals.

Tradesmen would bring their goods and display them. Games, horse racing, sideshows, and other amusements were added later.

Today, state and county fairs often feature exhibits ranging from the latest farming equipment and achievements in industry to home canning and farm products.

Judges award prizes for the tastiest jams, pies and pickles.

Prizes are also given for the best cows, pigs and other farm animals. World fairs are called expositions.

31 towns suspended from flood program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty-eight communities, including one in Southern California, are being suspended from the government's flood insurance program.

The suspensions of communities including Carpenteria, Calif., near Santa Barbara, were announced Monday and most go into effect July 18.

Most of the suspended communities are in Eastern states.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development said the communities are being suspended because they no longer comply with the requirement for an adequate flood plain management plan.

The law establishing the flood insurance program provides that federal aid can only be provided in flood plain areas if there is flood insurance.

Thus, following suspension from the program, the communities will no longer be eligible for any kind of federal aid for purchasing property or construction in any area with flood potential.

Also, officials noted that current flood insurace in the affected communities will not be renewed while the communities are suspended.

RESTORATION UNDER WAY — An intricate scaffolding covers a tower on the Shwezigon Pagoda in Pagan, Burma. The town, known for its monumental architectural treasures, some of which date back to the 11th century, was hit by an earthquake in 1975, and 90 per cent of the buildings were damaged. The Burmese, hampered by lack of funds, are trying to restore the major monuments with locally raised money, as Burma refuses foreign assistance.

Pipeline workers hit riches that seldom occur in lifetime

BOSTON (AP) — Henry Letarte was earning about $125 a week cutting wood when he decided it was time to quit. A few weeks later, a few thousand miles away, his weekly paycheck was more than $1,000.

Letarte, 25, of Harvard, Mass., was one of thousands of Americans who dropped ordinary jobs and left familiar hometowns to build an 800-mile oil pipeline across the Alaskan wilderness.

"It was like the gold rush," Letarte said.

But unlike 1849, when prospectors went West with high hopes and too often came back broke and brokenhearted, the people who worked the Alaska pipeline returned with money in the bank.

For Jack Belmont, 27, also of Harvard, working a crane on the pipeline was a chance for him and his wife to buy a farm in Maine.

"We never had any money, and all of a sudden I was coming home with paychecks of $700," said Belmont, who worked in an apple orchard before going to Alaska.

"It enabled us to pay off all our debts and our two kids are well taken care of. The two years I spent on the pipeline would have taken me 10 years here.

"It just changed everything for us," Belmont said. "It gave us opportunities we never had . . . It was a dream for us."

For Radames Reyes, 30, of Boston, the job in Alaska reaped enough money to buy a new home for his mother in Puerto Rico. Reyes, now unemployed and living with relatives in a poor neighborhood in Boston, said he earned about $1,600 a week.

"I felt like anybody that got money," Reyes said. "I felt good."

Letarte first thought about working on the pipeline in early 1974, at the start of construction. But it was not until a friend flew to Alaska later that year and told him it was easy to find a job that he decided to make the move.

"It was for the adventure," Letarte said. "Booms like that are very luring. There will never be anything like it, except maybe someday on the moon.

"Besides," he added, "I had no better place to be."

When he arrived in Fairbanks, he applied for a job delivering pizzas. A short time later he signed up to work on the pipeline as a heavy equipment operator, a job he was confident he could do although he only had experience on farm machinery.

He was shipped to one of several remote camps where workers on the pipeline lived with free room and board.

For nine weeks at a stretch he got up at 5:30 a.m. and worked 12 hours a day before getting two weeks vacation. But he said he once worked 15 weeks without a break.

"There were really just two things in my life — working and sleeping. There wasn't much time for socializing," he said.

But because of the isolation of the camps, friends were important, Letarte said. "You'd get the 'I'm gonna quit blues,' but you'd hold each other up. It was the boredom, the routine of it all," he said.

Letarte did not have an opportunity to spend any of his new wealth except on his vacations, when he had a chance to go to Fairbanks.

"It never really hit me until I got to town," he said. "We went out one night and I spent over $75. I wouldn't have done that before because it wouldn't have been in my budget."

At first, Letarte said, he opposed the idea of the Alaska pipeline because he believed it would harm the environment — "But I figured: 'If I don't work on it, someone else will.' "

"Going up there changed my mind," he said. "The land that it passed through, it hasn't hurt. If there are no oil spills, it will be fine."

Ray a difficult prisoner

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It was typical that James Earl Ray was the only one of seven convicts who said nothing, who didn't even plead innocent, when they were punished for their dramatic prison break that ended a week ago.

Since entering prison eight years ago for the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Ray has remained alone and aloof, a man who "stays to himself" and conducts his own little battles against prison authority.

Ray has spent most of his time since 1969 in maximum security at the main prison in Nashville and at Brushy Mountain Penitentiary in East Tennessee. It was over the Brushy Mountain wall the escapees scrambled on June 10. Ray was run to ground 54½ hours later, about five miles from the prison.

Each of the seven men involved received 30 days in administrative segregation and each lost three years of honor time at an administrative hearing Friday at Brushy Mountain. The prison does not have solitary confinment.

During his imprisonment, the 49-year-old Ray has waged a private war with prison officials — at times refusing to work, tossing unwanted food from his cell and accusing his keepers of isolating him for no apparent reason.

He has spent much of his time writing legal briefs and writs in an effort to gain a new trial — he now says he is innocent — and the state is trying to persuade federal officials to take charge of him.

"He's a very difficult person to get a line on. He stays to himself and doesn't mingle. For the most part we've had little problems with him," said Charles Bass, assistant correction commisioner.

Bass was a guard at the main prison where Ray was imprisoned in 1969 and later was in charge of the cellblock where Ray was kept in maximum security.

"He never gave anyone a chance to know him," Bass said. "He would just quietly get up and do what he was told."

He has spent most of his time behind bars in Tennessee in maximum security or "administrative segregation," although he tried almost from the first day to be assigned to the general prison population.

Prison officials say Ray even refused repeatedly to appear before the disciplinary board which considers such requests.

"You have to meet with the board to be considered. They have to talk to you," one prison official explained.

On at least two occasions, Ray threw his food tray from his cell onto the walkway in front of his door.

"If you all are going to treat me like a dog, I will act like one," Ray reportedly said after a food-tossing incident in 1973. He tossed a breakfast tray through the cell bars a year later.

Bass said Ray was given an opportunity to do general maintenance work in his cellblock but refused to work after a few weeks. After refusing other work assignments, he finally settled for a job in the prison laundry — similar to a job he held at Brushy Mountain before his escape.

When Ray refused a job assignment in 1971, he reportedly said, "I would be there about three weeks and then some guy would go to the window and tell things on me. As long as you people are going to believe everything they say, I'll always be in hot water."

On several occasions Ray wrote letters to officials complaining about his being kept in maximum security.

"If it is the policy of state officials to keep me in isolation permanently and have the warden keep his foot on my neck, so to speak, I would like it known now, for the record, that I intend to do whatever necessary to get that foot off," Ray wrote in 1970.

Correction officials have said Ray was isolated from the rest of the prison population because he posed a security threat with his record of attempted breakouts and also because of possible reprisals by black inmates.

Although Ray has granted rare interviews to the news media in recent months, he has complained about reporters being on hand whenever he is taken from the prison.

"I am chained up, officials assume their junior G-men poses with me in tow while the picture crews goes into action," he wrote.

In 1971, he complained about reporters being brought to his cell at Brushy Mountain, and wrote, "My problems are legal — not public relations."

Ray was first transferred to Brushy Mountain on March 25, 1970, where he failed twice in escape attempts. He was returned to the main prison on July 22, 1972, after Brushy Mountain was closed in the wake of a strike by prison guards.

On June 7, 1976, he asked to be reassigned to Brushy Mountain on grounds that guards kept awakening him at the Nashville prison by checking his cell with a flashlight. His request was granted 10 days later.

ONE MILLIONTH OLDS

LANSING, Mich. — Oldsmobile reached another milestone today when the one millionth 1977 Olds rolled off the final assembly line at the division's home plant in Lansing.

The car, a firethorn red Cutlass Supreme coupe with a white landau top, Super Stock wheels and dual sports mirror, is powered by the one-millionth 1977 Olds engine . . . a 350-cubic-inch V-8 that was built a week earlier at the division's engine plant.

Members of the news meida and many divisional employes watched the car slowly make its way through the assembly plant that was decorated with banners and signs announcing the occasion. Olds officials said the historic Cutlass will be added to the division's collection of milestone Oldsmobiles.

Oldsmobile becomes only the third domestic manufacturer to build a million passenger cars in a single year. Ford reached a million mark for the first time in 1922 and Chevrolet followed in 1941.

Robert H. Mooney, divisional general manufacturing manager, praised the Lansing community, Oldsmobile and its employes during a civic luncheon attended by more than 100 persons.

"The high quality in our products, our people and our relationship with the community have brought us where we are today and we intend to make those same high standards our goal for the future," he emphasized.

Since its founding on August 21, 1897, Oldsmobile has produced nearly 18 million cars, a sizeable accomplishment for a company which built only four cars in its first year.

In tracing the company's history, Mooney pointed out that it took Oldsmobile 38 years, or until 1935, to build the first million cars and until 1941, or 6 years, to produce the second million. He said Oldsmobile expects to build more than 1,100,000 cars before 1977 model production concludes.

In business for 80 years, longer than any other American car manufacturer, Oldsmobile holds a solid grip on third place in domestic sales for 1977. The division also is credited with a long series of engineering firsts, including introduction of the mass assembly concept.

Other revolutionizing developments pioneered by Oldsmobile are the use of nickel plating (1907), chrome plating (1925), fully-automatic shift transmission (1939), high-compression V-8 engine 1948 and the modern-era application of front wheel drive in a full-size car (1966 Toronado).

"We are pleased with Oldsmobile's accomplishments and we are approaching the future with optimism," Mooney said.

Following is a breakdown by car line of the one million 1977 Oldsmobiles.

Joyce Brothers
Use of marijuana

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I just discovered that my 18-year-old daughter, a high school senior, has been smoking marijuana. I may sound old-fashioned, but I was disappointed and shocked. My wife feels we should discuss this with the school authorities. My neighbor practically laughed in my face and hinted that the teachers too are probably smoking grass. Are we overreacting. — R.C.

Dear R.C.: Apparently, more than half of the Americans in the 18 to 25 age group have tried marijuana at least once. A recent Gallup survey showed 55 per cent of college students had tried the drug. I'm not suggesting that because it isn't unusual that it's acceptable. This is a question that parents and youngsters must decide for themselves. What I am saying is that I don't think it would be wise to take the matter to the school authorities without first discussing it with your daughter. After all, she is reaching the age when she should be setting her own rules and ethical standards. Wherever she goes, marijuana is going to be readily available. Many parents may not approve, but this is a realistic approach. It is already against the law, so simply reporting it to another authority isn't going to solve her problem.

I do suggest you try to find out how much she's smoking; why and when she uses it. She may have only experimented under strong pressure from other students. If this is the case you might try to build up her self-esteem so she doesn't feel she has to do anything she doesn't wish to do in order to "fit in" or be accepted. Experimental drug-users often try something out of curiosity or a desire for a new sensual experience. They may also be attempting to let their parents know they're growing up, a kind of adolescent rebellion.

Adolescent drug use can be prompted by inner emotional, social and family pressures. Find out what your daughter wants from the drug, how she feels about it, and ask her directly if she's using it as an escape hatch for emotional problems she feels she's incapable of facing head on. She may not be. If she is, she may welcome the opportunity to bring some of these conflicts out into the open.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My husband becomes very jealous when I touch people, but it's hard for me not to. We touched a lot in my family and it's just my way of expressing friendship and love. I certainly don't think touching someone's hand or arm is a sexual advance. My husband doesn't like to be touched. On the other hand, he frequently touches me when he wants me to step back and let him take the floor, especially if I express a view that differs from his. — C.P.

Dear C.P.: How much people touch, and what that touch means depends a great deal on whether or not they were cuddled and touched in childhood. It's extremely important to give children lots of physical reassurance of your love. Touching is one of the earliest forms of love and communication that begins when the mother touches and fondles her baby. Children who haven't been touched enough often grow up to be out of touch with those around them.

To some, touching is a way to gain control and establish power.

By touching friends at parties you may unconsciously be trying to assert yourself and establish the position and power your husband won't allow you to gain in other ways.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks rallied along a fairly broad front early Tuesday in response to indications inflation was easing. Trading was heavy.

Wall Street investors hailed the Labor Department's report that May's Consumer Price Index rose 0.6 per cent, or at a 7.2 per cent annual rate. That was down from the 0.8 per cent, or 9.6 per cent annual rate, hike in April.

Investors also were encourged by indications the economy's growth was strong. Revised government figures showed the first quarter Gross National Product climbed 6.9 per cent and corporate profits jumped 5.1 per cent.

Against that background, the Dow Jones industrial average, a 3.82-point winner Monday, was ahead 4.33 points to 928.60 shortly before noon EDT.

Advances led declines, 753 to 352, among the 1,635 issues crossing the tape. There were 530 unchanged issues, however, indicating a sizable number of investors were uncertain about the course of the market and the economy.

Volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 12,400,000 shares, up sharply from the 10,330,000 traded during the same period Monday.

Sony Corp. was the most active NYSE issue, off ¼ to 9¼ following block trades of 300,000 shares at 9⅜ and 250,000 shares at 9¼. Federal National Mortgage followed, up ⅛ to 16⅛.

Twentieth Century-Fox, which lost a point Monday, was the third most active issue, off another 1⅜ to 21⅞. Columbia Pictures was off ⅞ to 14. Both had registered big gains lately and are being hurt by profit taking.

Sunstrand was ahead ¾ after the company predicted its second quarter earnings would be 10 per cent above the $1.16 a share it reported last year.

Data General was off ½. The computer firm reported third quarter earnings of 68 cents a share, compared with 52 cents a year ago.

Applied Digital Data Systems was off 1¼ after the company reported second quarter earnings of 22 cents a share, compared with 28 cents on fewer shares a year ago.

Prices were higher in active trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Goldfield Corp. was the most active issue, up ⅛ to 1. Houston Oil & Minerals followed, up ⅞ to 57⅝. Resorts International A stock was third, up ⅝ to 18⅝.

IT&T earnings

ORLANDO, Fla. — (BW) — International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. reported record first-quarter sales, revenues and earnings.

Consolidated net income for the first quarter of 1977 was $142.1 million, compared with $119.3 million in the 1976 first quarter. Earnings per share rose 14.6 per cent to reach $1.10.

San Dimas firm reports earnings

SAN DIMAS, Calif. — (BW) — Acme General Corp. (NASDAQ) reported record second-quarter and six-month results for fiscal 1977.

Herbert Hezlep III, president of Acme General, said that net income for the 26 weeks ended May 1 rose to $881,000, or 61 cents a share, compared with $758,000, or 53 cents, in the like period a year ago. Revenues for the first half increased to $12,629,000 compared to $9,659,000 last year.

Net income for the second quarter increased to $605,000, or 42 cents, compared to $463,000, or 32 cents, last year. Revenues for the quarter rose to $7,834,000 compared to $5,115,000 in fiscal 1976.

Hezlep indicated that Acme's first-half and second-quarter results for fiscal 1977 include the month of April sales and earnings of Burgess Vibrocrafters Inc., which became a wholly owned subsidiary of Acme General during the second quarter.

In reviewing operations, Hezlep attributed Acme General's record first-half results to the continuing improvement in the housing and mobile home fields and to excellent progress in increasing the company's market share of traditional hardware products in the United States, Canada and overseas.

During the first half of fiscal 1977, Acme has continued to successfully market its consumer product lines to home improvement centers and the "do-it-yourself" consumer. In addition, the operations of Burgess Vibrocrafters contributed to the record results particularly in the area of lawn and garden products.

Hezlep indicated that the outlook for the balance of fiscal 1977 looks very encouraging which should result in the company's reporting continued improvement in profitability.

Continuation of good economic news helping

NEW YORK (AP) — The continuation of good economic news from the Washington statistics factory is putting some stock market analysts in a decidely sanguine mood.

Whether investors will follow their advice is another matter, to be sure, especially since margin debt on the New York Stock Exchange rose to a record-high level of $9.07 billion in May.

Still, the gradual fading of the somber mood that had gripped many an independent analyst for the past year or more is like a damp fog lifting. A few rays of sunshine are penetrating now, and it might warm things up.

If statistics can be believed, the news has been quite good.

Personal income in May rose six-tenths of 1 per cent; the prime rate was cut to 6.5 per cent by a major bank; retail sales rose to an annual rate of $60 billion in May; industrial output soared 1.1 per cent.

And more; housing starts have surprised almost everyone, and now even the doubters are realizing that a two-million unit year is possible; the jobless rate is down to 6.9 per cent; the wholesale price rise is slowing.

Perhaps more important than any of these is what is perceived to be the attitude of the Federal Reserve Board, or specifically, the attitude of Arthur F. Burns, its chairman.

No analyst of stock market behavior could possibly ignore the views of Burns because it is he more than any other man who dictates monetary policy — the supply of money, the level of interest rates and the like.

Great fears existed throughout the economy that Burns would view the present expansion as potentially dangerous, that is inflationary, and begin to squeeze on the money supply spigot. Those fears have now lessened.

One of the first reactions to these events has been the return of interest in some of the higher quality issues with long-established records for growth and dividend.

Earlier in the recovery cycle some of these issues were neglected by investors who instead jumped aboard the cyclical stocks, which were seen as the chief beneficiaries of the bounce back from recession.

Wright Investors' Service, to name one, believes that period is now behind us and that during the remainder of this year and into next the emphasis will be on high-quality growth stocks.

"Most high-quality growth stocks are now priced at about half of their normal price-value ratios," said John Wright in an assessment of the current market. In 1972, he said, these same stocks had price-value ratios double their norms.

Another consequence of the changing attitude of investors has been a gradual but rather consistent rise in trading volume, although no prominent analyst so far has declared the return of the small investor.
